Pretty Afternoon Services Joined in Marriage Popular Young Couples Yesterday.

M'EACHERN-BAGG NUPTIALS

Ceremony at 2:45 O'clock, Pollowed by Departure for Columbia, S. C .- Miss Adkins the Bride of Prominent Ohio Young Man.

A pretty afternoon wedding in blue and white was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the hos-Spring Hope, was awakened by the pital home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McEachern, No. 111 South Seventh street, the parties to the marriage vow having been their daughter, Miss Lucy McEschern, and Mr. Frank Hawley Bagg, a rising young business man of Columbia, S. C. There were present to witness the beautiful service a number of the friends and relatives of the bride and groom, who joined most heartly in sincere congratulations to the young couple prior to their departure, amid a shower of rice, on the southbound A. C. L. train at 3:45 o'clock for their wedding tour. The ceremony was performed in most impressive manner by the Ray. Dr. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the ring service having been used and the bride having been given away by her father, Mr. Duncan McEachern.

The wedding marches were played in most pleasing manner by Mrs. Mattie L. Chasten, and while the solemn words which made the couple man and wife were being spoken beneath a beautiful canopy of smilax entwined with blue and white ribbon, in the northeast corner of the parlor the pianist softly rendered "Violets." A mantel banked with palms and ferns and exquisitely dressed with white carnations formed a robbers, they went to a tobacco background under the canopy for the cured two lovely scene. The piano adjoining was also banked with palms, while the there and started in the direction of | walls were very tastefully draped with Wilson. It is said that one more ex- smilax and the chandeliers festooned plostion of the dynamite would have with evergreens. The dining room and the balls were also charmingly decorated with a profusion of plants and flowers, the execution of Mr. Will Rehder, the florist. The color scheme of white and blue was carried the matter and much speculation as to out perfectly in all parts of the house. the identity of the would-be burglars The attendants during the ceremony were Miss Daisy McEachern, sister of the bride, maid of honor; Mr. J. Holmes Davis, best man; Miss Ina McNair and Miss Isabel Struthers, bridesmaids; Mr. J. B. Weaver, of Columbis, S. C., Mr. J. Fletcher Ruark, of Wilmington, and Mr. Nelll S. Mc-Laurin, of Florence, S. C., groomsmen. The bride wore a stylish costume of gray cloth and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and brides roses, tied with chiffon. The maid of honor wore a lovely gown of white silk and carried a handsome bouquet of bridesmald roses and asparagus tied with pink satin ribbon. The bridesmaids were fashinably gowned in blue silk mulle and carried lovely bouquets of white carnations tied with white satin ribbon. The gentlemen were in conventional afternoon dress. Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents a delightful wedding reception was attended by hundreds of friends of the popular young people. A number of very handsome presents were received, attesting the popularity of the couple, both of whom are natives of Wilmington and held in the highest esteem by a host of friends here. The groom, however, at present has, a responsible position with the Southern Cotton Oil Company, of Columbia, S. C., which city will be their home in the future.

Adkins-Wilkerson, Another quiet but very pretty home wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon in the marriage of Miss Clara B. Adkins, the attractive young daughter of Mrs. Alice L. Bucher, to Mr. Oscar Albert Wilkerson, a prominent young business man of Dayton, Ohlo. The service was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 631 Dock street, in the presence of a few friends and relatives by the Rev. Richard W. Hogue, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. The decorations and other environments made a very pretty scene and the young people were the recipients of mady happy congratulations and very many handsome presents. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson left on the afternoon S. A. L. train for their bridal tour, which will include a brief stay at Asheville, N. C.

The Orton Improvements, Col. K. M. Murchison arrived yesterday morning from New York. In a day or two he will go over The Orion with Manager Hinton to decide definitely upon improvements that are needed throughout the house. In a short time The Orton will be in the very front rank of the prettiest and the very best hotels in the State. Painters were at work yesterday beautifying the front of the building. Much other interior work has also been done. The dining room since recent improvements is the prettiest anywhere.

Quarantine Established.

A quarantine for scarlet fever was cetabilshed yesterday at the residence of Mr. W. H. McEachern, 310 Bouth Sixth street. The quarantine for diphtheria at the residence of Mr. Alexander Miller, 119 North Tenth street, was lifted yester-

THEATRICAL INTEREST

IN "TWELFTH NIGHT."

Appearance of Marie Walnwright Here Next Tuesday Evening Will be the Event of the Academy Seasson

There is no abatement of the interest manifested by patrons of the theatre in the engagement of Marie Wainwright in a revival of the great comedy success, "Twelfth Night," at The Academy next Tuesday evening. The sale of seats for the production will begin at Plummer's day after tomorrow morning and it is safe to predict that the popular American actress will be greeted by one of the very largest audiences of the season. All seats downstairs, except the last four rows, will be $1.50; the others on that floor $1-the same prices (which obtain elsewhere in the State where the company appears.

Miss Wainwright who appears in the leading role of "Viola" is recognized everywhere as the foremost Shakespearean actress of the present day. Nature and art at- 30 per cent. and in a few instances, tainment have equipped her for the great poet's heroines. A glorious physique, unlimited mentally, a superb voice, capable of every modulation, a beautiful face, and that indescribable charm of true femininity which helps to make the world beautiful, such are the attributes of Marie Wainwright. Shakespeare never conceived anything more beautiful or at the same time anything more whimsical than his story of the love adventures of Viols, who in her guise of a page in the daxling court of Illyria, was expected to be a gladiator, but who, being a woman, dodged the encounter with all a woman's skill when she hopelessly became the victim of a challenge. It is a most difficult role to perform, but Miss Wainwright unfolds the story with the delicacy of touch which has made all her Shakespearan impersonations famous. The other parts are austained by actors noted for their skill, and the scenic appointments are said to be as beautiful as modern stage craft can make them.

MYSTERIOUS ARREST OF NEGROES.

Police Refuse to Give Charge Upon Which Two Men Are Held,

Charley Fowler and Ed Hill, alias 'Urias Small," alias "Lighting," both colored, were arrested before day yesterday morning by Policeman C. E. Wood, one of them in Stedman's alley and the other at Fourth and Brunswick streets. The police department refused to state the charge or charges upon which the negroes were arrested or to allow a reporter to interview them in a cell at the police station, where they are held as prisoners. They were not given trial in the police court yesterday, and it is not known when they will be or for what. Judging from the number of aliases Hill has strung to his name, however, he must be cooped up for some awful crime. The air of secrecy which surrounds the arrest of these two desperate (f) criminals (f) is interesting, but tantilizing to newspaper reporters. The anxious public will wait in breathless suspense the trial of those prisoners, for then it is presumed the charges will be made known, unless they are held on suspicion and are released before trial.

A PROSPERITY INDEX.

Conditions in Real Estate Market Now Tell of Unprecedented Good Times.

ALL VALUES ARE BOOMING.

Renting Property Inadequate and Rents Higher Than Ever in Wilmington. Business Places Occupied and Vacancies Snapped Up.

The barometer of prosperity in any town, city or community is invariably its real estate market, and judged by that standard. Wilmington has now entered upon an era of good times scarcely, if at all, equalled or excelled in its history. A talk with any wellinformed real estate man in the city will bear out the assertion that never before was there such a demand for resider ces or business houses as now, nor was there ever a time when eligibly located real estate commanded a higher figure. These facts were brought forcibly to the attention of dealers themselves on Oct. 1st, when the real estate year closed and since that time the condition has been a subject of general discussion in certain circles.

A gentleman of undoubted authority, who has been in close touch with the real estate market in Wilmington for twenty-five years. was approached by a reporter this week and asked about the situation. The inquiry fell upon sympathetic ears and the gentleman referred to, at once grew enthusiastic in speaking of conditions. He knew of one real estate firm whose business during the past year has experienced a natural growth of between 80 and 40 per cent. There are no houses for rent. he said and when one comes on the market, all the agent has to do is to put the fact on his bulletin board and tenant in short order, and that, too, at | mann is 82 years of age. higher prices than ever before. Renting values of residence property, he said, have easily gone up from 25 to even higher. Houses which formerly rented for $4 per month are now $5 and $6: those which formerly brought $10 and $12 are now $12.50 and $16 those which were once slow at $20 are now easily rented at $37.50 and so on up the ascending scale. The appreciation has all come within the last year and still there are not enough to meet the demand. "It all means," the dealer said that we now have from 1,680 to 2,-500 more inhabitants than we've ever had before and they are citizens worthy of our esteem and pride. A large majority of them came by reason of the railroad consolidation and subsequent expansion of headquarters of the Atlantic Coast Line here, while many of them are interested in the various other enterprises which have sprung up during the year along the wharf and elsewhere. Then, too, the splendid system of schools in Wilmington has attracted many families to the city for its educational advantages. We are indeed a prosperous and favored city. In many instances, two and three families now live in house where there was formerly one, but as soon as the abnormal growth of population subsides in a measure and there are houses to accommodate all, Wilmington will begin to materially expand."

Asked about the increase in the renting value of business houses, the gentleman quoted above said that the advance had not been so marked as in residence property, but there are few vacant stands, although a number of additional stores and offices have been built within the past year. On the wharf, he said, he knew of but two vacant places along the entire water front, but a year or two ago there were a dozen. A number of new buildings have also gone up along that street but they have not been more than enough to supply the increased demand, even at the higher

Not a long while ago this paper called attention to the phenomenal increase in postal receipts here and at that time made the point that Wilmington was going steadidly forward. The showing now made in real estate is proof positive that "we do move" and the course is in the right direction. The man who goes out in the morning after a choice parcel of real estate and expects to return before breakfast with a snug little purchase and comparatively no diminution of his "cash in bank," will be a sadly disappointed person if he sallies forth this day and

THE CRUSADE AGAINST VICE.

No Further Arrests Yesterday - Police Refuse laformation as to Their Plans.

The three keepers of houses of ill repute in the vicinity of Fourth and Castle streets, who were arrested shortly after midnight yesterday morning, were not given trial in the Mayor's court at noon, the cases having been postponed until to-day at the request of defendants' counsel, Marsden Bellamy and Herbert McClammy, Esqrs. Although information was refused as to the charges upon which the women were arrested, it was learned yesterday that the indictments are for selling beer without license and that Detective Theo. Turley, who assisted in working up the Collins matter, is the principal witness in the cases.

No arrests were made last night, the presumption being that the three cases now on the docket will be in the nature of a test, the successful termination of which will mean that other arrests will follow. However, the police are giving no information and refuse to discuss the crusade, confidentfally or otherwise, with newspaper reporters. That being the case it is nothing amiss to state that it is the popular belief that the present arrests are only the beginning of a wholesale raid, the evidence for which is already in hand.

JUDGE'S DISMISSAL CENSURED.

Raieigh Times Thinks Proceedings in Collins Case Uncalled For.

Referring to the recent peremptory dismissal of the jury in the Collins case in the Superior Court here, Judge Neal presiding, the Raleigh Times of a recent date says:

"We can see how a judge may, with propriety, and in the interest of juslice, set aside a verdict for excessive damages or something of that sort is involved, but for a judge to disgrace and humiliate twelve men, who failed to find the facts in accordance with his ideas, is rather a rank proceeding, even for a judge. It looks like this is notice to the public that the jury system, for which this country has had such great respect, has failed, at least, in the estimation of Judge Neal. It's to be hoped these were unusually sorry men-not up to the average North Carolina jury—for when the evidence is all in, and when the lawyers have had their say, and the judge has made his charge, the deliverance of the jury, whether it be to convict or set free, ought to be accepted and the judge, of all men, ought to protect, rather than discredit them, before the public."
