Large Buildings in Wilmington.

A Richmond special to Sunday's Charlotte Observer says: "Richmond contractors have at present plans for a mammoth warehouse, or possibly more properly, store and office, to be erected for the Seatoard Air Line Railway Company, at Wilmington, N. C. The structure is to cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 and will be leased as soon as completed to Armour & Company."

At the Seaboard Air Line offices in this city it was learned yesterday that owing to increased demand for storage room that another large warehouse would be built here, but the cost will be only between $15,000 and $30,000. The warehouse will be located between the freight depot of the company at Nutt and Brunswick streets and north of one of the two present large warehouses on the water front. It will be used largely by the Armour Fertilizer Works, which already does a big storage business with the Seaboard. Work will begin upon the new building at an early date.
