TRAGEDY AT A MARRIAGE PEAST.

Edgecombe Negro Shot Another, While Third Was in Throes of Epilepsy. [Special Star Telegram.]

TARBORO, N. C., August 11.-While engaged in a dispute at a marriage feast and ball in the vicinity of Old Sparta last night, Eugene Wilson shot and instantly killed Joe Edwards, both colored. A negro boy out of doors had an epileptic fit and Edwards had gone into the house for a lamp. Wilson objected to its being removed and a quarrel ensued with the above result. Wilson was apprehended and lodged in jail to await trial.

Death of Mrs. E. L. Hunter.

Yesterday afternoon's Fayetteville Observer says: "Mrs. Narcissa A. Hunter, wife of our very esteemed townsman, Dr. E. L. Hunter, died at her home on Ramsey street at 10 o'clock this morning, aged 63 years. Mrs. Hunter, who has been an invalid for a great number of years, was sitting in a chair when her husband left for his place of business, apparently in her usual state of health, and an hour afterwards she was found still sitting in her chair, but dead. Death was due to the rupture of a blood vessel at the base of the brain.'

With Sity and County, Officials. Hon. Franklin McNeill, chairman of the North Carolina Corporation Commission, was here yesterday and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the Mayor's office held a star-chamber conference with city and county officials and members of the General Assembly from New Hanover and this Senatorial district, presumably with reference to taxation matters. It was decided in the conference to give out absolutely nothing for publication. Present at the conference were Mayor W. E. Springer, Mr. M. W. Divine, acting chairman of the Board of County Commissioners; Mr. H. C. McQueen, chairman of the Board of Audit and Finance; Representatve-elect G. J. Boney; State Senator-elect Brooke G. Empie, and City Attorney Wm. J. Bellamy. The presence of members of the General Assembly at the conference naturally gives rise to the presumption that among the taxation matters discussed were some which will come nce of $475,000 in that $500,000 before the next Legislature for enactment. However, nothing authentic could be learned from leading memblige an inquiring public by telling bers of the conference, who said they were pledged to secrecy as to what

CARNIVAL UNDER BAN

Rumor of Movement on Foot for Mandamus to Prevent Its Coming Here.

A PAPER DENOUNCES IT

Carolina Truckers' Journal Voices Sentiment Against Proposed Street Pair by Jr. O. U. A. M .- History of Permit from Authorities.

The Carolina Fruit and Truck Growers' Journal evidently has no stomach for the street fair and carnival as is evidenced by the following from Editor Whitehead's pen in this week's issue of that periodical under the heading 'Wilmington Wants Nothing of the Kind:" "From the morning papers we see that another effort is being made to inflict another street fair and carnival on the good people of Wilmington. For one we have always cheerfully advocated everything that would tend to the upbuilding of the city, but this street fair and carnival business has been run in the ground, and the people of Wilmington are sick and tired with their past experiences in this line. We must confess surprise at the Board of Aldermen, with the lights of the past before them, in granting permission for such performances within the corporate limits of the city. Three or four years ago Wilmington had a street fair and carnival that was a credit to the community, but every attempt since that time of a similar programme has been a dismal failure, and the decent people from the adjoining counties no longer visit Wilmington on such occasions. They simply bring to town the ragmuffin brigade and a class of people in the main that require an additional police force to protect their homes and places of business from burglars and the torch. We understand that the law-abiding people of mandamus to prohibit any part of the city's streets or vacant lots from being used for any such purpose. We hope that such action will be taken and in fair and carnival in the bud. Wil-It should be stated in justice to the a reasonable figure. Junior Order of United American Mechanics and to the city and county authorities, who have already granted permission for the carnival to be held, that it is proposed to have the fair on a vacant lot beyond the bridge over the Carolina Central tracks, at the terminus of the street car line, and not in the city proper at all. It should be further stated that the proceeds are to be used, according to the beautiful and patriotic custom of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, in presenting flags and bibles to each and every public school in the county. The Board of Aldermen, after the carnival last year, adopted an ordinance forbidding the use of the streets of the city for carnival purposes in the future, and when the application this year came before that body, the Mayor suggested that the request of the Jr. O. U. A. M. could not be granted unless the ordinance of last year was repealed. It was pointed out, however, that it is proposed this year to use no streets of the city and, therefore, a granting of the application would not be in conflict with the reso-

WILMINGTON OF LONG AGO. GRAND ENCAMPMENT.

Reprint of an interesting Old Map in City Clerk and Treasurer's Office-Location of Public Buildings.

Olty Engineer S. P. Adams yesterday completed for the city a blue print of an old map of the town of Wilmington as it was laid out in 1733. The draft was from a rare old map which has hung for years in the office of the City Clerk and Treasurer and which was made officially nearly 200 years ago. The boundaries of the town were shown then to have been Wooster street on the south: Campbell street on the north; the river on the west and Fifth street on the east. The principal buildings of the town at that time are shown on the map and form an interesting study of the Colonial period. Wilmington was then popularly known as "New Town." The town hall was situated in the middle of Market street, where it intersects Second, while the Court House stood at the intersection of Front and Market streets. Near the foot of the same street was the public market. The Episcopal church is shown on the map to have been located on Market street, near Fourth, instead of at Third and Market streets as now. The 'Academy" was located on north side of Princess, between Third and Fourth; the county jail on the site of the present old Court House building; the Custom House where it now stands: St. John's lodge building at Front and Red Cross streets; the Baptist church, on Front, between Ann and Nun streets, and the Presbyterian church on Front, between Dock and Orange. The old State bank occupied the northeast corner of Front and Princess streets where the store of Mr. I. Shrier is now located. The old Cape Fear bank was on Front, between Market church stood at the northeast corner of Front and Walnut streets. In addition to the reprint of the map for the city Mr. Adams made a nummington wants nothing of the kind." | ber of copies which he has for sale at

JAIL'S CROWDED CONDITION.

Porty-five Prisoners Now Confined There With Room for Only Few More. "We have room for a few more," remarked Capt. "Bob" Capps yesterday when asked about the crowded condition of the county jail. However, Capt. Capps made no concealment of the fact that within a very short time the county will have to make other arrangements for the confinement of a considerable overplus of prisoners. As stated in these columns a few days ago, the crowded condition of the jail is due to the long interim between the Superior Court terms, and the County Commissioners are already facing the emergency, and have made arrangements for the accommodation of any overflow in the city prison. It is also not improbable that a number of the prisoners will be sent, for confinement only, to the convict stockade at Castle Haynes. There are now 45 prisoners in the jail. 15 of whom are colored females. The male population of the jail consists of
