IMPROVED COTTON GIN.

Sunday Morning, May 21.

We have long expected to see the method of preparing cotton for market revolutionized. The gin of the day and the screw and press in use for packing cotton. as well as the sloven manner in which the bales of raw cotton are made ready for the cotton cutter. have to go. Within a few years we expect to see the machinery in use during the past decade relegated to the antiquated class. We rather think the era is now ushered in for improved machinery to come to the front, and we are gratified to note that a North Carolina corporation has come to the all a woman wants is to be loved. front to introduce the new era in What, then, does all this we hear about this State.
