THE ISTHMIAN CANAL WORK

Engineer Randolph Declares Ships Will Sail Through In Ten Years-Will Employ 24,000.

By Wire to The Morning Star. Washington, October 24.-Isham Randolph, one of the members of the board of consulting engineers for the Panama canal, has written a letter to Zina R. Carter, president of the sanitary district of Chicago, in which he discusses canal conditions. The Isthmian Canal Commission made the letter public today. Mr. Randolph says he expects the canal to be completed before 1915. The work of preparation he says is going on speedily and when the equipment is on hand and the organization perfected at least 24,000 men will be required on the canal. Much of the present labor is worthless because the demand is larger than the supply. The application of the 8-hour system to the canal he regards as a lamentable mistake and will add about 25 per cent. to the cost of labor. Mr. Randolph says the whole line is "cluttered up with abandoned French machinery," which cost about $30,000,000 and is now valueless. He declares that any statement foreshadowing the report of the consulting engineers "can be set down as the manufacture of newsmongers." Mr. Randolph has recently returned from a visit to Panama with other members of the board and his opinions are interesting and in view of the publication of the letter by the commission may be considered semi-official. In the course of his letter Mr. Randolph says: "What we do know is that it can be done; that Americans can do it; and that in as short a time as so stupendous an undertaking can be put through. We do know that almost limitless resources await the demand of the builders; that the builders represent the highest grade of American engineering talent, led on by a man whose record of accomplishment is "but the earnest of the things that he shall do." Hence we may reasonably look for the passage of the great ocean freighters from the Caribbean to the Pacific before our calendars are headed 1915. How much before, this de- front of the office building surmounted ponent sayeth not. This is no easy by the President's flag. From this contend with and overcome difficulties zone." Tuskegee, Ala., October 24.-Presilent Roosevelt arrived in Tuskegee at 8:30 o'clock this morning, his train being on time. The city was beutifully lecorated. A number of arches, the foundations of which were made of pales of cotton had been erected and covered with bunting. The platform from which the President spoke to the people of the city was made from $30,000 worth of cotton in original The President was met at his hales. train by a reception committee among whom were Mayor O. S. Lewis and Dr. John Massey, president of the Alabama Conference Female College. Escorted by a company of State militia, the President was driven to the college, which represented a typical Southern scene. Cotton had been transplanted in long rows and two old Southern negroes with cotton pickers' sacks on their shoulders were engaged in pick ing the staple from the plants. Sever al baskets of cotton were scattered about the field. The President was greeted at the college grounds by the students and public school children. In his address at this college he spoke on good citizenship and what it takes to make a good man and a good woman.

At Booker Washington's School. At the conclusion of his address the President left for Tuskegee institute. The President's train was brough directly into the grounds of the institute over its private track. The President was received by Principal Booker T. Washington and members of the institute board of trustees and faculty. He then entered a carriage made by the students of the school, drawn by horses raised at the school and driven by a student in the school uniform. The party proceeded immediately to an elaborately decorated stand, in triumph, for the builders who must point he viewed the educational and industrial parade upon the preparation of which the students and faculty This parade was headed by the insti-B. fare of the cotton growers. It is not only important for Alabama and the rest of the Gulf States, it is important for the entire union, because it is the cotton crop which determines the balance of trade as being in favor of this nation. Whatever is the business of any part of this nation, the trade of President McCurdy, of Mutual the entire nation and the national government are bound to do everything possible in the interest of the cotton growers to preserve your markets, to do everything that can possibly be done to see that the demand for cotton, the natural demand for cotton abroad, is kept up, and is met here under fair conditions by our own peo-

Probably no State in this union is more interested in the building of what is to be the greatest engineering feat the world has yet seen, the building of the Ithmian canal. The cotton crop largely goes to Asia, and of course the canal greatly shortens the route. Our influence in the Orient must be kept at such a pitch that it will insure our being able to guarantee fair treatment to our merchants and manufactures in the markets of China. We must insist we must give fair treatment in return. I would demand that on ethical grounds alone I would demand it also on grounds of Birmingham, Ala., 24.—President in Alabama by a two-hours visit to Birmingham, where his reception in keeping with those given him at Montgomery and Tuskegee, was hearty and soul-stirring. His day began at 7 o'clock when the special train left Montgomery for Tuskegee. Visits to the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute and to the Methodist Female College, were crowded into a little less than two hours, and the noon hour had just arrived when the Executive stepped from his car in Montgomery. Here he spoke to a great throng under the shadow of the Confederacy's first capital and was on his way again sharply at 2 o'clock. A few minutes before 5, the President was the guest of Birmingham, and until his train left at 6:45 P. M., on the night run to Little Rock, the President was cheered at every turn. The gay was unmarked by any special incidents saved at Birmingham. Here at the corner of Fifth avenue and Twentieth street, an intoxicated man in his excitement dropped a pistol from his pocket on the pavement. The President saw the incident and called the attention of officers to the man who was immediately arrested. The President's train arrived in Birmingham promptly on time. Mayor George B. Ward, surrounded by a reception committee, delivered the formal address of welcome at the station entered carriages and began the march to the Capitol Park, eight squares distant. The ovation to the President was continuous and he stood in his carriage the whole way, acknowledging the outbursts of enthusiasm.

A pretty incident at the close of the march was when the President asked the name of the lady riding at the side of his carriage. Miss Sammie Harris was sponsor for troop D., one of the local cavalry organizations. The President was introduced to her by Mayor Ward, and as he reached over to shake her hands he crowded the mayor. Excusing himself, he said: "I would run over a man any time to shake hands with a lady."

At Capitol Park under the glamor of thousands of electric lights, the row. party entered the speakers stand. General Rufus is. Rhodes, editor of the Birmingham News, welcomed the President on behalf of the citizens of faction, salutes its distinguished comrade in renown, the most remarkable personality of the age who bears with dignity and ease the burdens of his time, and with pluck, integrity, statement that $876,000 was given to learning, and faith rushes to meet the industrial policy holders of his every problem and seize every opportunity, and boldly without protest or tion whatever. Great applause greeted the President as he arose to speak, and his speech was enthusiastically received and liberalized policies during epiby the thousands who heard him.

Unblushing Effrontery.

By Wire to The Morning Star New York, October 24 .- At the session today of the legislative committee investigating the insurance companies, the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company were under consideration and it was brought out that this company was paying for the dissemination throughout the country of representations of the investigation that were favorable to the company. Charles J. Smith, a newspaper man, was the witness. He is employed by the Mutual Life Insurance Company to do a large number of things, but a Roosevelt concluded a strenuous day month ago was placed in charge of sending out these reports. Mr. Smith had vised a number of vouchers for the payment for this work and these aggregated $11,000 with other bills to come in. He thought the amount to date would reach $14,000. Mr. Smith wrote the reports and submitted them to Allen Forman who owns the Telegraphic News Bureau and $1 a line was paid by the Mutual Life for service. Clippings from various papers about the country, including the Boston Herald, Florida Times-Union and Atlanta Constitution, were shown to the witness and identified as the dispatches he wrote and sent to Mr. Forman. These were sent to about one hundred papers, but Mr. Smith did not know whether the papers were paid for inserting them. In one dispatch Mr. Smith wrote that Mr. McCurdy's attitude on the stand made a distinctly favorable impression and for this he had to pay $2 per line. This he said was worth it.

Following Mr. Smith, Walter Sullivan, who has charge of the magazine advertising department, was called. He said the Mutual advertised in twelve magazines last year at a cost of $42,000. Advertising in insurance papers cost about $30,000 more but he could not tell whether the remainder of the account of $329,797, the amount charged up to advertising last

Earlier in the day Emory McClintock, the actuary of the Mutual Life, was no the stand. The entire early session of the day before reces was given over to his explanation of technical insurance. Mr. McClintock practically advocated no laws for the insurance companies, except a certain supervision to give the reports publicity. He thought the public could take care of themselves and that publicity was the best law. Asked how far this view was shared in official circles, he thought he was somewhat of a missionary along that line. Mr. McClintock was to have been on the stand in the afternoon session but during recess he was seized with a slight attack of vertigo to which he is subject. He will be called again tomor-

It was Following the President's speech, ex- brought out that while the company carried collateral loans throughout the year, none appeared in the annual January. This was done, according to the witness to avoid the horde of applications for call loans from the Wall street district. Mr. Hegeman did not encourage the call loan business for this section, because it entailed keeping a ticker in his office and he would not have one there. He further did not care to have his company known as a loaning company. The large loans at such a low interest as one and a half per cent, especially the one to President John A. McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company, were taken up, and Mr. Hegeman spoke strongly of his friendship for McCall who, he said, was closer than any other man to him in insurance, outside of his immediate associates.
