DEADLY COTTON PARALLEL.

The cotton situation grows more interesting every day. The facts as to correctness of figures. about the 1905 crop not only cause deep interest and discussion in the South where the cotton is grown, in the North where a great deal of it is spun, on the the speculators gamble on it, but his successor.-Salisbury Post. With 80,-000 men in the Cotton Belt making reports to the census bureau, he contended, the government can make a more impartial report. That is the precise truth about it, and it is quite easy to observe that people who can get up their are so many people here. He-Oh, would like to see the government

"Since Mr. Theodore in Price has attempted to turn the estimate made by the Government (which was an exceedingly bullish report ment's estimate. "Does anyone in the South believe that there is 26.8 per cent. of the 1905-6 crop left in the fields after December 1?

"Again, Mr. Price says: 'There were ginned after December 1, 1904, 2,343,000 bales.'
