MORE RESTRAINT OF TRADE.

The New York Times (Independent) twits the Republican administration, and especially the Republicans in Congress, for letting a Democrat steal a march on them in get- magazine. "It is not likely that the President received with feelings of unmixed joy questing him to submit to the House of Representatives any information which the Inter-State Commerce Commission may possess as to the existtrade and in violation of law between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, and other lines of the Pennsylvania's Eastern system. Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt was eager in the chase after restrainers of trade. In the Northern Securities case he won his spurs with boot, saddle, and bridle thrown in. Since then the industrial monopolies and the regulation of rates rather than the further pursuit of railroad combinations have engaged his energies. Of his own motion he would not have assailed the Pennsylvania Company, and we presume that company was not expecting this assault. But 'when night dogs run all sorts of deer are chased,' and the woods have for months resounded with the baying of the antitrust pack. Mr. Gillespie got his resolution through by tactics that may fairly be described as brilliant. He was in his place and alert when the Republican side of the House was absent or drowsy. Before the majority really knew what was going on the resolution had been agreed to, and a motion to reconsider laid on the table. Undoubtedly the resolution gained many supporters through the resentment engendered by the Pennsylvania's action in discontinuing the issuance of passes. Mr. Cassatt was the pioneer in that wholesome movement, and the great 'dead-head' trust in Congress would like to see him about President Roosevelt's triumph over the Northern Securities Company but as everybody knows who keeps up burn to do some more "wiggling." It with events, the whole matter was is not denied that he told the President but the pricking of a bubble. The Times, drawing an inference from that "Neither the Pennsylvania management nor the business interests of the country, we think, need be overmuch dismayed by this sudden and curious outbreak of the old spirit of 1901. The results of the Northern Securities triumph were not exactly of a sort to inspire terror over Mr. Gillespie's attempt upon the Pennsylvania Company. The Northern Securities Company was dissolved, to be sure, but the actual railroad situation in the changed. We have the high authority of Mr. Prouty of the Inter-State Commerce Commission for the assertion that no practical results were accomplished by the decision."

After all, the Pennsylvania may have its tracks so well covered up that the trust-busters may find themselves on a cold trail. At the same time the Democrats caught the President and the Republican Congressmen napping. The trust-busting of this Administration is good for two things-for campaign purposes and the eiderly millionaire." "How was for stock to make the people take on a broad grin at the whole business.

THE KITCHIN BILL.

Richmond Times-Dispatch

"Congressman Kitchen, of North Carolina, has introduced a bili in the House to allow growers of tobacco to have the right, free from taxation, to stem and handtwist their tobacco of their own growth and to sell the same to any person without having to pay a license for it. This tobacco will not be subject to taxation under the internai revenue laws as long as it remains in the form and condition in which the grower prepared it, and any person may buy, sell or use the same without any tax or license. We do not know whether or not such a measure would be practicable or that it would be of any real value to the farmer. But the present law is absurdly harsh. armer wrote to this paper to know if he could send a small package of crude crop tobacco as a present to a friend to be used for smoking purposes. Upon investigation we ascertained that he could not lawfully do so."

This is another evidence that there are some queer laws in this country, We would like to know why it is that the manufacture and sale of tobacco is taxed and other manufactures are not? Of course, whiskey is one of the exceptions. But why should one product of the country be taxed any more than another? This reminds us of the great injusice done by the Federal government n taxing cotton right after the Civil War. Cotton was singled out of all the products of the country and made to pay a tax to the government. It was a case of sheer discrimination. We always will believe that the cotton tax should be refunded to the cotton growers of the South who paid that unjust tax. The government of the United States oughtn't to stand for it ficers are guarding the streets leading to the county jail to-night and dispersing crowds as fast as they gather Floyd Westfield, a negro who shot down an officer in the Southern part of the county a few days since. A motion for a change of venue in the Westfield case brought to town to-day four or five hundred citizens of the Eliza A. Scribner, 350 tons, Dodd, C. section in which Constable Raines was killed, and if they could gather in sufficient force there is no doubt that an attempt would be made to take the negro out of the jail. Westfield's trial is set for to-morrow and Judge McReynolds, of the criminal court, has guaranteed that justice will be speedily and impartially administered in his case. Westfield, surrendered to the authorities after being chased by armed posses of citizens for several days.
