THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Nov. 8. - The general liquidation noted toward the close of last week was renewed upon an even more active and excited scale at the re-opening of the cotton market this morning. Rallies occurred during the day as a result of covering and some buying for a reaction but offerings seemed to be the main feature of the day while the final tone was steady. Last prices showed a net loss of 13 to 30 points on all positions except September which was 2 points net higher. The market opened weak at a decline of 22 to 33 points under a tremendous volume of over Sunday selling orders and lower cables. These orders had evidently originated before the census figures were available, so that the amount of cotton gained to November 1 could not have been in influence and as a matter of fact the census report received very little attention at any time during the day, the figures being just about as expected. Right after the opening the active months rallied 20 to 25 points from the lowest bid, and there was no sign of support from the recent bulk leaders who are supposed to have taken their profits before the beginning of the decline. The absence of demand from this source increased the apprehensions of remaining outside longs and during the middle of the day a local raid brought out a lot more orders for fresh spot loss orders were uncovered and some of the months sold even lower than they had at the opening, with the general list showing a net loss of from 35 to 37 points. From this level there was a rally to within 15 or 16 points of Saturday night's final figures but the market continued very unsettled and speculative longs seemed to be very fearful of a generally weakening in the south where there are said to be many speculative holders of spots. The southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to 5c lower. At the low point today January contracts sold at 13.85 and May 14.19 compared with 15.10 and 15.32, the high records of last Thursday. January closed at 14.12, and May 14.32 bid. Receipts at the ports today were 61,893 bales against 69,038 last week and 73,135 last year. For the week 375,000 bales against 406,482 last week and 484,052 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 10,788 bales against 23,905 last year and at Houston 32,806 bales against 21,174 last year. Spot closed 15 points lower; middling uplands 14.20; middling gulf 14.45; sales 700 bales. Futures opened weak and closed steady. DICK BROS' COTTON LETTER.

New York, Nov. 8. - Cotton was irregular and excited today. There was a sharp break around the opening which appeared to be largely the result of contingent orders to sell in case the census report showed more than seven million bales gained to November 1st. The report showed 7,120,000 bales and there was heavy buying to leave the market open. The market took its course, and it was not until after the first few minutes of trading that there was any sign of strong support. There was some fair buying to cover shorts and there was heavy buying on the part of operators who took profits on the high point last week. There were some reports of weak speculative spot holdings but our own investigation shows that while this may be true in some cases the general situation shows very little speculative holding of spots. Some scattered liquidation is not unlikely but the market shows a greatly improved undertone.

THE DRY GOODS MARKET.

New York, Nov. 8. - The dry goods markets were less active in the primary division for the day although the mail orders were large. A sudden change in the value of cotton disturbed transactions. Sample pieces of dress goods for spring are being made to cut. The jobbing trade is moderately active.

STOCK MARKET.

New York, Nov. 8. - The initiation upward impetus to stocks today came from professional buying to cover short contracts and was based on the decision of the imperial bank of Germany to leave its minimum discount rate unchanged. On Saturday that had been reports that the rate would be raised today and would compel the Bank of England to take similar action. The market fell into sluggish neglect, restrained apparently by the remaining uncertainty over the value of the cotton. The closing was easy. The influence of the cotton speculation upon the international exchanges became perceptible today in connection with the violent slump in the prices of cotton. Cable remittances by foreigners to replenish margins on cotton holdings caused a decline of several points in cables on London while other maturities were unaffected yet. Exports of grain are now running heavy and making exchange. Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, were $3,083,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales today were 568,400 shares.

The Theatre

One of the potent appeals of "The Servant in the House," which will be seen at the Academy of Music tonight and tomorrow night, is its remarkable realism. Audiences lose themselves in the unfolding of the beautiful story and awake to the realities of life at the end of the play with a sigh of regret. Commenting on this fact, Harper's Weekly says: "Here is a drama so great, so compelling, so reverent, so akin to all the beautiful and permanent things of life that it is more than a play, more than a novel, more than a mere book. It is a page from life itself, revealing the brotherhood of man as a real breathing thing; showing how the impossible has become possible. According to the critics: 'Not in a lifetime has such a wonderful play been created.' The attraction tonight should draw hundreds of visitors to the Academy, furnishing them a rare chance to see the great play. Of its Sunday's Raleigh News and Observer among other things in high praise of the play had this to say: "The Servant in the House" is unusual it is perhaps odd; it is different from the usual play. There is something about it that attracts and holds one's interest in a way that few dramas do. It makes one realize that God gave souls to his creatures - that down underneath many an awkward, uncouth or rough appearance, there is oftentimes a real genuine heart - something that wealth cannot take - something that influence or position will not attract. "Although there were only seven persons in the entire cast, these were graduates in their respective lines, and every one capable of attracting and holding attention. 'The Servant in the House' is truly a great play with a great purpose and a sound moral uplift behind it and is thoroughly worthy of the high place that is awarded it." Seats are now on sale at the Crystal Palace. A Noted Actor Coming. Mr. Tim Murphy, under the management of Wm. A. Brady and Louis F. Verba, will present "Old Innocence" at the Academy, Thursday night, a charming play, charmingly played by an excellent company. The two leading characters portrayed by Tim Murphy and Dorothy Sherrod, and a cast especially chosen by Mr. Murphy with regard to his or her fitness, for each part, promises to make a most pleasing and satisfying performance. A brilliant play is often ruined by a poor company, which accounts for that feeling of disappointment that one often experiences on seeing a much heralded New York success. It takes an actor or actress of high ability to play the leading part in a play of high ability, and actors of that class can seldom be induced to leave New York unless they are starred or featured. For that reason, the performance, headed by a star actor, is apt to give much greater satisfaction than the most widely advertised play interpreted by an average road company. It is hard to get the worth of your money seeing a New York success unless it is seen in New York, as it is there played by actors of the highest order. Then when the play has been thoroughly advertised as a "real hit," inferior actors are substituted, and it is sent out through the country to coin money on its New York reputation. At the Bijou Today. The thousands of visitors here for the Traf celebration can find no better place to while away part of the time the President is down the river than at the Bijou, the popular North Front street amusement resort. Hundreds of the visitors spent half an hour of pleasure at the theatre yesterday. The bill today is very attractive, the feature pictures being "The Awakening," and "Wanted, A Child."
