hat the Georgian Says of the Vir gluian's Position. NEW YORK, March 25 .- In an inerview to-day Senator Hill, of Georgia, said to a Telegram reporter :

"I believe that the coalition beween the Republican party and enttor Mahone, who is regarded as ne most prominent leader of what is alled the repudiation element in the South, is destined to have a very material influence upon the future of political parties in this country. It satisfies the Southern people of what they have long believed, that there can be no affiliation whatever between the better classes of the Southern people and the Republican

"The accumulation of Southern State debts by the reconstruction policy, coming as it did upon such a general destruction of property in the South by the war, has made a very serious and troublesome question in several of the Southern States. The enfranchisement of the blacks, in their ignerant condition, has added greatly to this embarrassment. Designing men have appealed to the debts of several of the This coalition with Mahone States. by the Republicans gives the whole and political power of that party to strengthen this worst element in Southern politics. If President Garfield shall now aid this same element by giving the Federal patronage, then all possible hope of any bond of sympathy or of even respect between the Republican party and the better classes of the Southern people may be considered at an end. In my opinion all honest Democrats in Virginia will now promptly abandon Mahone and his fortunes. The ffect apon the Southern States generally will be to weaken, if not derov, all movements under the guise independentism to disintegrate e Democratic party. The Western N. C. Railroad.

Fayetteville Examiner. If Mr. Best fails to come up to his contract, and it is generally conceded that he will, the remedy is in the hands of the special commissioners who can recover the road for the State by annulling the contract on the failure of Mr. Best to carry it out. Whether they should do so or not is a question committed somewhat to their discretion. The time has not come when they can legally take action in the matter.

In the meantime it is not entirely just to Mr. Best to ignore what he pectations. has done and is doing in the way of building the road. The difficulties of the route are great. Passing, as it does, through a rough mountain country, its progress has been slow. It took the State of North Carolina twenty-five years to build the road one hundred and twenty-five miles west of Salisbury. Mr. Best, it appears from the report of Mr. Wilson, the Chief Engineer of the road, and from the reports of the Public Treasurer and the Warden of the Penitentiary, has not been idle. He has kept an average force of 364 convicts at work on the road, and has paid the State for their labor during the three quarters preceding the time of the report $36,521.22; has procured 600 tons of new iron, which has been laid on the road, has graded 214 miles of the road; has paid the interest on the bonded debt of the company, for which the State is liable as fast as it falls due, and keeps on deposit $30,000 as security that he will continue to meet this interest and protect the State from its payment. He has also paid off the floating debt of the company amounting to $30,000. We cannot, therefore, conclude that the contract with Mr. Best has been altogether without advantage to the State.

LOCAL OPPION IN DELAWARE. Senator Bayard's Views of Temper ançe Legislation.

In response to a letter from a gentleman of Wilmington, Del., Senator Bayard recently wrote a letter, giving expression to his views concernhibiting legislation in general. It is law.

"WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8, Nathan Davis; Hunting Quarters, 1881. - My Dear Sir: I do not like to Rifles, Company D, 1st Regiment, intrude my opinions unasked for upon is in fine condition, though it has members of the Legislature. I agree suffered a great loss in the resignawith you in thinking 'local option' tion of Capt. W. H. H. Cobb. At laws of very doubtful constitutional present Lieutenant T. H. Bain is in ity and positive inexpediency. As I Swamp, Jesse Hooks; Pikeville, Stephen D. Blow; Santston, Leoni das Lewis; New Hope, Thomas W. Uzzell; Indian Spring; B. S. Barwick; Brogden, J. A. inflicted by local option in sad through sets of Legislature execuby judges and juries, it would be held wholly at variance with our theory of government, and yet to ap-ply such a rule to so widespread and daily a habit as the use of alcoholic or fermented beverages is in my judgment quite as unsafe. So far as my experience goes, a well-regulated system of licenses, whereby revenue is largely brought into the public treasury, coupled with severe penalties for illicit sale, has proved the most efficient check upon the abuse of the liquor traffic. In many respects the question is a sumptuary one, and laws attempting to establish sumptuary regulations become inquisitorial and impossible of execution, so that in those communities in this country where they have been enacted, they have either aggravated the evils they were intended to prevent, or have fallen into contempt and uselessness and been repealed. The statements I have seen of the real condition of these communities in which total prohibition has been attempted, have impressed me very strongly in confirmation of these views. Personal influence and example and precept and the recognition of the great truth that intemperance in the use of stimulants of all kinds is a morbid physical fact, both in cause and effect, 18, in my judgment, the proper view to commence with. Statistics abundantly prove that the attempted suppression by statutes of the use of alcoholic stimulants is accompanied by an increase in the use of opiates; and that open drinking being stopped, secret drinking ensues. I do not believe any manhas a greater horror of intemperance than I—and my appreciation of its dangers and evil effects grows with my experience of human affairs; but the graver the evil the more essential to apply the right principle to its cure, and for the reasons I have stated, and many others, I hope the experiment of 'local option' will not be tried by our Legislature, but in-Aid Society of New Hanover county, creased checks under the license sys-

Prohibitory Convention. The following circular of the central committee of the prohibitory liquor law convention has just been issued:

FRILOW-CITIZENS:-A kind Providence has smiled upon the efforts of the late convention and its labors. The Legislature was obedient to the voice of its petitioners. A prohibitory liquor law was passed, which is to be sabmitted to the people in August for ratification.

So far this is a great victory. But in order to make it complete, much labor, with untiring zeal, must be put forth by all who desire the abate ment of drunkenness and crime in North Carolina.

To this end the central committee of the late prohibitory convention have instructed the chairman to issue this call for another convention, to meet in Raleigh, on the 27th of April (Wednesday), at 3 P. M.

It is greatly desired that every county in the State should be ably represented by at least two delegates or more, if they wish to come. We believe that a large majority of the voters of the State desire the ratification of the law. If you can infinence your county commissioners to refuse license until after the election, so that we can have a fair and sober vote, the result will be victorious beyond the most sanguine ex-

The object of the convention will be to organize every county in the State for the campaign, which, on both sides, will be vigorous. Our friends are ready for the contest, and already many influential and able citizens have offered their services as canvassers before the people.

Several able speakers will deliver addresses before the convention in April, and you must see to it that your county is represented. Hold county and township mass-meetings and address the people, and urge them to elect their representatives and supply them with credentials and pay their expenses, if necessary.

We want the largest and ablest convention ever assembled in the State. The cause is worthy of it, and God and the people will favor the quiet.
work. Efforts will be made to supply, as far as possible, homes for the delegates.

The colored people will be largely represented in the convention and heartily welcomed. THOMAS E. SKINNER,
