cotton. [N. Y. Financial Chronicle.] Friday, P. M., May 13, 1881 .-The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, is given below. For the week ending this evening, (May 13), the total receipts have reached 49,150 bales, against 45,-535 bales last week, 47,729 bales the previous week, and 60,718 bales three weeks since, making the total receipts since the 1st of September. 1880, 5,446,033 bales, against 4,689,-164 bales for the same period of 1879-'80, showing an increase since September 1, 1880, of 756,869 bales. The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 64,784 bales, of which 31,606 were to Great Britain, 9,704 to France, and 23,-474 to rest of the Continent, while the stocks as made up this evening are now 562,716 bales.

There was a material decline early in the week in cotton for future deivery, and since then the market has been variable and unsettled. Prices fell off during Saturday and Monday, and quite broke down Tuesday morning, under reports of failures at Liverpool. To-day there was a decidedby better report from Liverpool, with cooler weather at the South, and futures advanced smartly in the States, New York, and some middle and it is said that over forty have already morning, but the demand a strong re-action toward lower been nowhere strictly enforced. prices. How It is Viewed in New York. From Letter in Philadelphia Ledger, Ind

The votes of such Democratic statesmen as Senators Voorhees, Beck and Pendleton to confirm Mr. Stan-I-y Matthews is calculated to throw the party into confusion. Nearly every Democratic Convention that was held last year had an anti-monopoly plank in it, and another plank favoring the limitation of the corporate power, yet the complaint now is that these Democratic Senators deliberately turn their backs on that record, and vote for the confirmation of a Supreme Court Judge who is chiefly known as a railroad attorney, and who may, therefore, be called upon to adjudicate cases in which he may have direct personal concern. There is pretty strong talk of this kind among Democrats of high standing here, and it is by no means improbable that ere long the Senators referred to will be formally called to explain the difference between their professions and practice. The Board of Trade and Transportation, which had resisted Mr. Matthews from the start, on the ground that he was wholly in the railroad interest, are going to have a meeting to express their views of the situation, and the anti-monopoly, you may be sure, will not be slow in following up the movement from the same stand-

The Opinion of the N. C. Senators. The Washington Post gives the opinion of all of the Senators as to the meaning of Conkling's course:

Senator Ransom-"I am at a loss to nuderstand this move, but I think I can see the result. Conkling would not have taken such a step without a determination to carry it out indefinitely. The result will be, must be, three great political parties-the Administration Republicans, the Grant-Conkling party, and the Democrats, with the chances largely in favor of the last named."

Senator Vance-"It is only a 'tempest in a tea-pot,' a sort of glass of firmed without debate and without any soda-water—effervescing now, but bound to settle after it has been swallowed. I do not believe the swallowed. I do not believe the Wm. H. Robertson as Collector of Cusracket will delay adjournment, and toms at New York city was then called up that is what I care most about."

Prohibition Statisties. From the Boston Post.

In 1872 there were eight States living under the protection of the Prohibitory law, but according to United States revenue returns nearly one-sixth of the retail liquor sales in the whole country for that year were made in these eight States, amounting to $122,000,000. This statement was made before the Congregational Club of Portland by Mr. Theodore C. Woodbury.

A new Protestant Episcopal church—one of the most elegant edifices in the South—was consecrated at Danville, Va., yesterday, by Bishop Whittle.

the New York Journal of Commerce on Prohibition. THOMASVILLE, N. C., May 7, 1881.

Editor of the Journal: The Legislature of North Carolina at its late session passed a bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors, which is to be sub mitted to the people on the 5th of August next for their ratification or rejection. Now I wish your opinion. on the fellowing points:

1. Would it inure to the benefit of a State situated as North Carolina is. either financially, morally or religiously, while adjoining States are untrammeled, to have a prohibitory law? 2. Which does the greater evil to our common country, financially, morally, or physically, tobacco or spirituous liquors?

3. Does not the temperate use of spirits promote longevity? 4. What States have had or now have a prohibitory liquor law?

ANTI-FANATICISM. Reply .- 1. We have often given our opinion as to the effect of such sumptuary .laws. If the cause of temperance was thereby promoted, there would remain the serious question whether such an abridgment of the liberties of the people, if thoroughly enforced, would not endanger more vital interests than the law is intended to conserve. But as a matter of fact, and in spite of the public statements of the orators of that school, the prohibitory law has never in any State promoted the cause of temperance.

2. The immoderate use of intoxicating drinks does far more evil we think than the use of tobacco; but the difficulty with the prohibitory law is two fold: it does not diminish the evil, and if it could be so enforced that it did prohibit the sale and use of liquor, it, would do a greater pubhe harm by taking away the foundation of all free institutions-the consent of the governed.

3. With very much evil from their abuse, there is also much practical good from the proper use of stimulants. But whether wise or not, all nations will use them, and no people can be prevented from such use without governing them with a despotic power inconsistent with any enjoyment of liberty. To enforce a prohibitory law to its final letter without reserve, would be like burning down

Prince Bennett Abroad. Paris Letter.

James Gordon Bennett had a most enjoyable time during his recent visit to the Pyrenees region. The Paris press are wont to refer to Mr. Bennett as "Jim James." He fan a mail coach three or four times a week between Pau and Lourdes, with the gorgeous accompaniments of a guard in scarlet and a big bugle. One day he distinguished himself by entering the hall where a charity concert was in progress, dispossessing the leader of his baton, and pounding an extemporaneous Wagnerian march on the desk until he quashed it, whereon he paid the leader 1,000 france for his baton and departed, the chronicler says, "with the precision of a cork ball shot out of a wooden gun."

The 1880 Republican Committee adopted a resolution endorsing the action of President Garfield on the Robertson nomination. The following resolution has been adopted by the Republican General Committee

Resolved, That we deeply deplore the course recently pursued by the President in attempting to force the Senate of the United Street of the Senate of the United Street of the Senate of the Sena States to approve of the nomination of Wm H. Robertson to be collector of the port of New York, when no vacancy existed in said office, and without other cause than to pay a personal political obligation, which obligation was created through the treachery of said nominee to the regular Republican organization in the State; and that we earnestly and confidently express the hope that the Legislature of the State of New York will promptly stamp its condemnation upon the act by re-electing Senators Conkling and Platt to the positions they have felt called upon to resign in the Senators

NEW YORK, May 18.—The Evening Post's Albany special says of matters in the Legislature: "Two papers are in circulation to-day for signatures. The first paper, in general terms, agrees to stand by the President; the second commits the signers not to vote for Conkling, Platt, or any other candidate who will act in opposition to the President. The papers are now receiving signatures. It is asserted that they will receive about fifty names this afternoon. A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Boothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to stiend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Boothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and sleepless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby and overcome the prejudices of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle,
