THE COLORED VOTER AND THE LIBERAL AS VIEWED BY NORTHERN EYES.

The more conscientious and just men of the North can no more desire negro domination over the whites of the South than the whites themselves desire it.

There is also, in many places, much violent treatment by the negroes themselves of those of their own race who are guilty of defection from their party.

The writer tells how they punished the stock and property of such offenders, destroying fences, and turning in animals to ruin the crops, or burning the crops after they have been gathered.

If a man who owns a hundred sheep could pin a ballot into the wool of each, drive the flock to the polls, and have the ballots accepted and counted, the process would be "voting on the part of the sheep

Further, and please bear this in mind, for it has an important bearing on North Carolina politics just now, the Atlantic Monthly says this:

"Many of the local Republican politicians with whom I conversed said that it was not desirable to give these negroes any political education or enlightenment."

Said these very peculiar friends of the colored man and brother: "They will never know a thing about politics, if you talk to them until you are blue."

This comes from the friends of the negroes. It is good Republican testimony.

VOL. XIII.

speaks of the general independent movement on foot in all of the Southern States, more or less. It bears this testimony and it is true every syllable of it.

"I saw many of those in every part of the South. They were waiting for a chance, to use an expression which one constantly hears from them. I often asked them, 'What shall you try to do? What will be the basis of aim of the new movement in your State?' And the answer nearly always was, 'Don't know, we shall go in for anything for a new deal. That we're bound to have.'"

The vilest unscrupulousness of many of these new men, their indifference to the rights and interests of the colored people, and their regard for law, are not very visible signs of honesty.

We think that an honest man for telling the truth plainly. 'This will do for one day, and mighty good, plain, truthful reading it is.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1882.

A Flying Trip. Ye Local made a flying trip to Goldsboro Wednesday and was glad to find the "Atlanta of North Carolina" still alive and progressive.

Mr. F. A. Burr, the well known correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, Rep. does himself credit in the article he wrote concerning the late Senator Hill. We give the closing paragraph:

"In Senator Hill a great man has passed away. Measured by the great men of his day, he was the peer of the best of them. Gauged by the standard of a Northern man without interest or impulse in common with him, he was one of the brightest minds of the eleven men who ever adorned the councils of the nation."

The Granville delegation to the Fifth Judicial Convention go for "Kurnel" Edwards without gloves. He deserves it. They put him fairly in this wise. We give the concluding part that appears in the Oxford Free Lance. They say:

Colonel Edwards is to-day occupying the people of North Carolina the unenviable position of being the first man in the political history of the State who, presenting his claims before his party convention, and failing to secure his party nomination, has deliberately forsaken his party relations and accepted a nomination at the hands of his party opponents.
