SUPREME COURT.

We learn from the Raleigh papers that the Justices have delivered opinions in the following cases, of interest hereabouts:

R. R. Moore vs. W. P. Roberts, Auditor, from New Hanover; no error; judgment affirmed.

W. A. Cummings vs. R. N. Bloodworth et al., from Pender; error; venire novo.

Thomas English and wife vs. George W. English, from Pender; no error; judgment affirmed.

State vs. J. W. Wilborn, from New Hanover; error; venire novo.

Maxx Mayers vs. Carter & Covenough, from Duplin; error; judgment set aside and a new trial directed.

The consideration of appeals from the 4th district was resumed and causes disposed of as follows:

D. Murchison's executors vs. T. S. Whitted et al., from Bladen; argument commenced Monday was concluded. T. H. Sutton and B. Fuller, for the plaintiffs, and C. C. Lyon for the defendants.

F. J. Anders, executor, vs. J. W. Ellis, administrator, from Bladen; argued by C. C. Lyon for the plaintiff, and N. A. Steadman (by brief) for the defendant.

R. F. Lewis vs. T. D. McDowell et al., from Bladen; continued by consent.

E. P. Covington vs. A. C. Leak, executor, from Richmond; writ of certiorari ordered and cause continued. This is the plaintiff's appeal, and the same order was made in the defendant's appeal.

W. K. Dawkins vs. A. C. Patterson et al., from Richmond; argued by Burwell & Walker for the plaintiff, and Battle & Mordecai for the defendants.

THE SOUTHERN OIL COMPANY.

After sundry unavoidable delays there is now a prospect that the company will very soon have things in a tangible shape. The managers have arrived, as also the metallurgist and assayer, Mr. D. A. Rees, of Europe, and they are now busily engaged in constructing their furnaces and building, expecting to be ready within a week to receive ore shipments, for which they propose, we understand, to pay cash and remunerative prices.

Minig operators, we should think, will not be slow to avail themselves of the ready market thus afforded for their refractory ore. The undertaking is deserving of every encouragement, and as the gentlemen connected with it are men of large means and evidently possessed of all the necessary business qualifications, we can see no reason why they should not be abundantly successful.

It is such enterprises as this that are needed to aid in the development of the mineral resources of the Southern States, and especially of North Carolina, and we hope all necessary facilities, such as cheap transportation, etc., may be accorded them in order to influence the shipment of ore to this point. We are informed that mixed ores, containing various metals, will also find a market with them.

The company will be heard from further in the way of advertisement in a few days.

TWO SAILORS DROWNED.

About 1 o'clock, last night, five sailors belonging to a Norwegian vessel, lying on the western bank of the river, started to go across in a small boat, from a point near the New York Steamship wharf. They had proceeded but a short distance, when the boat was upset, and all of its inmates precipitated into the river.

They made several ineffectual attempts to right the boat, when they finally gave loud cries for assistance. These attracted the police, who hastened to the locality, and rendered all the assistance in their power. The result was that three of the sailors were rescued from their perilous situation, while two of them were drawn under a flat and drowned. The late hour of the accident prevented us from learning the names of the unfortunate men, or that of the vessel to which they were attached. One of them was a young man; the other an elderly man, and who leaves a wife and several children in their Norwegian home.

"COTTON FACTS."

We have received from the publisher, Mr. A. B. Shepperson, 25 Beaver street, New York, a copy of Cotton Facts just issued from the press, which is a valuable book for factors, buyers, spinners and planters, and probably gives more information about the cotton crops of the United States, India and Egypt, and their movement, and the mill statistics of the world, than any book published. It is a valuable work for reference, and will doubtless have a large circulation among those interested in cotton statistics.

A DOXOLOGY.

We clip from the Religious Herald, of Richmond, the following doxology by Rev. Dr. J. B. Taylor, of the First Baptist Church of this city.

Sound forth the praises of our God. Of Father, Son and Holy Ghost; Come, let us tell His love abroad, And in His strength, make all our boast.

THE SALE OF COTTON SEED OIL IS IN DANGER.

So much American cotton seed has been shipped to Italy that the Government has at last put an embargo on its importation. It amounts to that at least. It has placed a tariff charge that, like the American tariff in many particulars, is equivalent to embargo. It is so high as to be practically prohibitory. The reason for this is that the cotton seed oil was ruining the olive trade. We do not eat olive oil "on ours," but the following is appetizing. An exchange says:

"According to the Industrial Review, the statements of Consul Craun justify the belief that the olive oil imported into the United States in bottles of foreign make, with the French labels attached, will almost all our own cotton seed oil, 'mixed' possibly with some genuine olive oil, but not so much as to be reliable. The belief is well borne out by statistics."

During the month of February, 1882, there were more quintals of cotton seed oil imported into the United States than there were quintals of olive oil. "You pays your money" but you don't "takes your choice."

If impressive young men who attend comic operas and such, where the legitimate displays are frequent and ample, would have a model for an article on such exhibitions, they will find it in the following artistic description on an actress who had bewitched a gushing youth of classic "Bosling."

"The white wonder of her arms is too divinely perfect for anything of mere flesh and blood, and she is but the beautiful phantom of some delicious dream chiselled into glorious tangibility by some old master's cunning hand."

Jehoshaphat, hand around the smelling salts.

Mr. Theo. H. Hill, of Raleigh, has written some poems recently that have merit, we think. We published on Friday some stanzas that were delicate and pretty, and had a charming conceit well worked out. Mr. Hill has not a rich or extensive vein of poetry, but he has some of the golden ore nevertheless, and we are glad that after a long silence he has again taken "to the gray goose quill."

It is very singular that Dr. Seguin who is so eminent a specialist in nervous and mental diseases, should have been so severely and awfully benumbed by the act of his wife while insane, she taking her own life and her three children's. Dr. Seguin was the physician who attended the late Captain D. R. Murchison.

The revolutionary fever is extending in Europe. There are sporadic cases in France, in Ireland, in Austria, and chronic cases in Russia. Discontents are widespread, and bad men are constantly working upon the worst passions of their fellow men.

It is noticeable that the failures in New York city are out of all proportion to the whole. One-eleventh of the whole is rather too much for a city that has but about one-fourth-fifth of the entire inhabitants.

SOUTHERN ITEMS.

Ex-Congressman Miles has resigned the Presidency of the South Carolina College to take charge of the Burnside sugar plantation, in Louisiana, valued at $4,000,000, and belonging to his father-in-law, Oliver Berns, of Virginia.

Mr. James R. Randall lost the Democratic nomination for Congress to fill Alexander H. Stephens' unexpired term by ten votes, receiving nineteen in the convention to twenty-nine for Seaborn Reese, the nominee for the long term.

It is most encouraging that old men who have not voted for years have registered, and are now active for Massey and their district candidate for Congress. This is as true of the country as of Richmond. - Richmond Dispatch.

One hundred and twenty-eight merchants and clerks of Athens, Ga., have issued a circular denying Congressman Spear's statement that Athens' business men were supporting him, and asserting their intention to support Allan D. Chanler, the Democratic candidate.
