THE GREAT ISSUE IN 1884.
We think it is becoming more apparent every day, that the main issue in 1884, will be upon the plan of raising the revenues necessary to carry on the Government. It is now well established that the Republican party is committed to the maintenance of a high tariff for protection and that the Democratic party is committed to a low tariff for revenue.

But it is true that there are politicians in every party who are not true to their principles. The Republican party is not a party of protection, but a party of revenue. The Democratic party is not a party of revenue, but a party of protection.

The tariff is the great issue in 1884. It is the issue upon which the two parties are divided. The Republican party is committed to a high tariff for protection, and the Democratic party is committed to a low tariff for revenue.
