

The Weekly Star.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY.

(YESTERDAY.)

It is so wide this great world vaunted over
By the blue sky clasping white above to shore.

And yet it is not wide enough for me.
I love you so—it cannot hold me.

There is no space in earth or heaven for me.

There is no room for me to stand.

(TO DAY.)

It is so wide this great world vaunted over
By the sad sky clasping white above to shore.

It is too wide—in fact it is wide enough.

Would to God I were not here.

And I slept quiet here, but now I dream.

The love that was for me is gone.

Franklin Hogan, Boston, Conn.

WHAT GEORGIA SAYS.

A Leading Paper Speaks.

Savannah News, Dem.

"The Democratic managers cannot swindle the people," remarks the New York Herald. This is a fact that the Democratic managers would do well to ponder over. The outlook for a Democratic victory in 1884 is cheering in the extreme. The Republican party has inflicted defeat, and does not promise as yet to be in fighting trim for the contest next year. The main reliance of the Republicans is upon the expectation that their opponents will blunder and alienate the masses who trust them at present. The Republican organs are busily engaged in tendering counsel as to what the Democrats should and should not do.

To their view it would be the height of wisdom for the Democrats, to elect Mr. Randall Speaker of the next House, and regard the last tariff bill as a final settlement of the vexed question of taxation. Democratic journals here and there accept these oracular deliverances of the Radical organs and discourage anything like a courageous stand on the part of the Democrats for their principles. Democratic leaders here and there who fear that an open adherence to their principles may redound to their personal disadvantage, are advising the party to "go slow" and "wait till we get there," and not to alarm business interests.

Thus it is, and Democratic journals, taking their cue from these weak-kneed representatives, are playing into the hands of the enemy day by day.

THE DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN.

Arkansas Times (To the House of a Tax for Revenue Only).

Perhaps nineteen-twentieths of the Democracy, believing in revenue as the prime object of tariff taxation, should surmount that "view to the one-twentieth. That would no doubt be wise policy.

Sovereignty Against Protection.

Vicksburg Herald.

There should be no tariff except for revenue—that is, the protective theory should be antagonized. The arguments advanced by the Democrats in the last Congress on this great question are sound, and the people will approve them.

MIDNIGHT'S

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, Dem.

The Philadelphia Times writes a painfully laborious essay to prove that the Southern people are not in favor of free trade. As nobody ever supposed they are, the crushing nature of the argument may be estimated. What the Southerners want is the reduction of tariff taxation in the interest of justice, honesty, and common sense. There is no question of free trade in the issue now before the country.

A REMARKABLE CASE OF POISONING.

Miss Mary Kelley, employed in the millinery department of J. A. Chapman's dry goods store, Milwaukee, Wis., died recently from inhaling arsenic-uretted hydrogen, emanating from green velvets, which she was almost constantly handling. Dr. Stadler, who attended her, says it was a clear case of arsenical poisoning. She was sick just three weeks.

A NEGRO'S ASSAULT ON A GIRL.

SAVANNAH, May 25.—While returning from school to her home on the outskirts of this city last evening, a girl of seventeen years was attacked by a negro, who attempted an outrage. Her cries brought assistance and the negro fled. The victim's condition to-night is considered extremely precarious. Her family is one of the best known in the city and the affair causes much excitement. If the negro is run down lynching is not improbable.

RANDALL NOT WANTED—A VOICE FROM MARYLAND.

Yet this seems to be the policy of the N.Y. Star, which just now seems to be busy in pressing Mr. Samuel J. Randall for the Speakership, and its candidate, and the most of his supporters are apparently satisfied with this programme. It is fortunate for the party that the choice of a Speaker next December will give the Democrats an opportunity of repudiating it in an unmistakable manner.

RANDALL A FAVORITE WITH REPUBLICANS.

Louisville Courier-Journal, Dem.

Mr. Randall, is at present doing the Republicans more effective service than all the recognized leaders of the Republican party combined. No wonder the Republican press has rallied to his support.

PROPHYLACTIC FLUID.

A Household Article for Universal Family Use.

For Skin Diseases.

For Skin Diseases.