SUBSCRIPTION PRICE.

DISTINCTION AND A DIFFER ENCE. It is insisted that the tax on to bacco and spirits is oppressive be cause it comes out of the makers, The reply is that the makers do not ay one cent of the tax but those who consume-the chewers and drinkers. This does not oppress the makers therefore. Only those who voluntarily indulge in luxuries are taxed. The tens of thousands who neither smoke no chew do not pay ; cent of the tax. In the case of the tax under the Tariff it is different. Certain articles are taxed that the makers may have a bounty-a profit given them but at the expense of whose absolute necessities compel them to use. They have no option in the matter of using. They are simply forced to do so, and are forced also to pay an extra tax for the benefit of the makers. The two of articles are taxed-one taxing accessaries and the other taxing axuries. The tax on the necessaries s levied mainly for the benefit of the makers. The tax on the luxuries is evied for the benefit of the country at large - to pay off the national lebt, to pay the pensions claims, &c. In the case of huxuries no one is bound, compelled or persuaded to use them, and not using there is no ax on him. In the case of neces saries all men are forced to have them and to pay for them.

TEA GROWING.

There is some advance in the cultivation of the tea plant in the South. Several experiments have been made in South Carolina, Mississippi, and possibly in other Southern States. If the tea can be successfully cultivated so that in quality and quantity it shall pay as well as other industries it will be a new source of revenue to the planter. Mr. Menelas is cultivating the tea plant on his plantation on the Mississippi river. His experience promises well. The New Orleans Picayune thinks that if the planters can learn how to handle it that it will soon be generally cultivated. It says of the need of information in the matter of manipulating:

'It would be wracticable for any wealthy planter, one willing to expend a few thousand dollars for the benefit of his neighbors, to import a man from China or India-say on a five years' contract—to instruct the eighborhood; and we venture that a pot made up for the purpose by a number of planters would return interest in a few cars. A little time and patience are requisite. Tea culture ought to be practica-ble anywhere in Mississippi where there is i deep, rich soil and first-rate drainage he latter is important. It ought to be sucessful in Southern California.

If the tea can be cultivated profitably in South Carolina and Mississippi we suppose it can be equally as well cultivated in Alabama, Florida or

The New York Sun begins to talk of 100,000 Democratic majority in New York. We will be satisfied with half this. Mr. Conkling is credited with having said that he thought that 100,000 might be realized by the Democrats. There is good reason for believing that the State this year will go Democratic. Ohio is having a good effect. It is making the factions in New York more disposed to coalesce in good faith for victory. VOL. XIV.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1883.

The Georgia Legislature chartered | Railroad Improvements. a company to be known as the Southern Land Loan Association. It proposes to lend money on real estate. It does not lend less than $1,000. It charges 10 per cent., and is said to have applications amounting to more than a million dollars. It is thought that the new system will in the end benefit the farmers much by enabling them to raise money at much less interest than they have been paying.

An exchange says: "It is estimated the farmers who give liens on the growing crops pay certainly not less than 50 per cent. in amount of 'ad-vances' they get from the merchants. For the same amount of money borrowed on liens the farmers would pay $182,500. So that the annual saving by borrowing on real estate already amounts to $146,000, and this is the first year the company has operated in Georgia."

The chief benefit, however, it expected that the Land Loan Association is to confer is the bringing in of foreign capital. The company now operating is located at Atlanta. If it proves "the thing" it is thought other companies will be organized in other towns in Georgia.

SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

Our correspondents are asked not to send us any special telegrams un less particularly requested to do so. or until further general notice given through the columns of the STAR. That most excellent and charitable corporation, the Western Union Telegraph Company, made a proposition rel originated over the gathering of some to us, some time in September, to enter into a written contract with ourselves to give them all our business (even our private business) for the period of two years. The terms offered, provided we would thus place ourselves in Mr. Gould's clutches, seemed utterly sweet for the touch of any ordinary mortal; but it was blandly suggested, in accordance with the tempting offer aforesaid, that after October 1st there would be a new and a higher rate for special telegrams. That is to say: We must either accept the proposed contract for two years, or we must suffer the Well, we are now paying the penalty of our youthful folly. Or, rather, we are now paying in the proportion of one dollar and eighteen cents for a special telegram that formerly cost us fifty cents. True, this is an advance of only about one hundred and thirty-five per cent., whereat we have no right to complain, of course, because the W. U. T. Co. gave us fair notice that we must "walk into their parlor," and remain therein for two years, or we must pay the heavy advance to be demanded after October 1.

Possibly, "in the sweet by-andby" there may be a change for the better. We shall see.

Governor elect George Hoadly was born in New Haven in 1826. His mother was of the famous Dwight family, and was kin to Aaron Burr. He is under the medium size, has mild manners, a blue eye and gentle disposition. His father moved to Cleveland, Ohio, in 1830. His father was a lawyer. F. A. Burr, special correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, Rep., writes of him at length, after interviewing him. The following is interesting:

"It is as a man and a lawyer that he shines before the world. For twenty years he has been an overworked man and his attainments have always brought a high price. In each new demand made upon him he has risen to the summit of the occasion. His argument in Archbishop Purcell's case was a phenomenal one. In presenting the question of subjecting the Church property to the payment of the debts of the prelate he discussed the relations of the Church to the temporals with tions of the Church to the temporals with a learning that made most people dizzy, He quoted precedents in four different languages without, exhausting his ability in that direction. When I suggested, during our evening's chat, that he could not have learned to read and write five different languages while at school, he said:

"No, I have picked those up myself since my school days. I am like Charles Francis Adams- The Greek I got at school I left there. The practical languages I have learned since."

One Allen Allensworth, a negro Baptist preacher of Louisville, has issued a call to all colored preachers to meet in convention "to give moral force to the work begun by the late convention of colored men in this city, to present to the world documentary evidence and statistical data of the moral, religious, and financial progress made since emancipation, &c." He too wants "social equality" and "mixed schools," we suppose. The negroes would better not "fool" with Speakership on the death of Mr. those instruments, for the have sharp

On several occasions recently we have referred to the extensive improvements in progress in and about the depot of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Company; the building of the large warehouses, among the best and most commodious in the South; the extensive machine shops, very large and provided with all the modern improve ments and conveniences; the large and fine car shops, provided with all the facilities which convenience could suggest, etc., etc.; and now, in addition, we are called upon to note the fact that the platform under the form under the shed has been lowered to a level with the track and extended in its entire width to the eating house. It is also in contemplation to build a shed from the present one connecting with the eating house; and, as a further protection to travellers, there is talk of covering part of the bridge, so that persons leaving or going to the trains to or from the hacks and omnibuses, will not be exposed to the inclemencies of the weather. Then, when this is done, there will be only one thing needed, and that is a good pavement from the bridge on Front street to Red Cross street, where there is now nothing more than a bed of sand.

Probable Homicide in Shallotte Township, Brunswick County.

A difficulty occurred in Shallotte Township, Brunswick county, on Tuesday last, between John W. Grady and John H. Grissett, both of that township, during which Grissett struck Grady a terrible blow, which fractured his skull. Grady was living at last accounts, but our informant states that it was the opinion of Dr. Neill, the attending physician, that there were three chances against him to one in his favor. The quarcorn, and as Grady had a jug of wine along, and had been indulging to some extent, it can be readily surmised that its stimulating and exciting character had something to do with bringing on the probable fatal encounter.

Grisset has been arrested and put under a bond to await the result of the wound.

INTERRING CONFEDERATE

Governor Jarvis Defending the Soldiers who Died Fighting for the

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 17 .- The bodies of the North Carolinians recently exhumed at Arlington, were interred here to-day under the auspices of the Ladies' Memorial Association. The remains, which were in four caskets, were borne from the capital on a handsome funeral car to the Confederate Cemetery. Thirtytwo ex-Confederates acted as pall bearers. Governor Jarvis delivered an eloquent address at the cemetery. He said that the North Carolinians who went to battle in the late war were actuated by the same spirit which prompted the soldiers of the revolution, and, like the latter, acted in obedience to the command of the constituted legal authorities. Governor Jarvis spoke of the same sod growing over the graves of the wearers of the gray and the wearers of the blue, the same sun shining on and the same winds blowing over the dust of both. He hoped those who survived would live together forever in peace, as the dead enjoy. The obsequies were witnessed by 7,000 persons. The ex-Confederates were under command of Congressman W. R. Cox. Senator Vance and many other distinguished citizens of the State were present.

"One of the Hest in the South."

We notice that several papers are trying to abuse the Wilmington STAR, but in our opinion the accusations from such feeble contemporaries will be without effect. In our opinion the STAR is one of the best dailies in the South, and we agree with it in our views. It is and ever will be a welcome visitor to our sanc-

Judge Tourgee in his Chautauqua speech along with Dr. Haygood, says he is "glad we had a war—glad we had that war." No doubt of it. It was a God send to a great many just such fellows as Tourgee. They are all glad of it. The convulsion threw are all glad of it. The convulsion threw up a whole generation of them that the world would never have heard of, and good for the world if it never had. This billing and cooling of our Haygood on the platform at Chautauqua with Albion Tourgee may have been very lovely to the rest of mankind, but it is not at all appreciated by us North Carolinians, who know that gentleman better than most people do. We do hope when the Dr. goes North again he will get into better company, or not allow himself so extensively advertised.—

Another Railroad Project.

In conversation with a prominent citize of Sampson county, a few days ago, he stated to a member of the STAR staff that while the people of his county naturally felt a very great interest in the project for building a railroad between Clinton and Point Caswell, thus bringing the rich country along its line in close connection with Wilmington, the true friends of the enterprise would not be content to see it stop at that. The ambition of the people of Sampson, at least, is expansive enough to wish to see the scheme embrace, as nearly as possible, an air-line from Point Caswell and Clinton to the city of Raleigh. In support of his claim that this is altogether. practicable, he says that Sampson will be willing, provided she is given control, to build the road to Smithfield herself, so satisfied are her people that it would be a paying investment. The line would run through Pender, Sampson, Johnson and Wake.

Mr. J. L. Morch, whose arrival home from Europe is mentioned elsewhere, came to New York on the new steamer Oregon, of the Guion line, this being her first trip. She is a large vessel, and some idea of her size can be formed when we state that she is 520 feet in length over all, 54 feet in breadth of beam, and 40 feet and 9 inches in depth of hold, her engines being of 13,000 horse power and her registered tonnage 7,500. She has four masts and five decks.

A Perilous Leap. A colored train hand was at the depot at Duplin Roads on Thursday, waiting for the gravel train to pass. In the meantime he went to the village to get some cheese, and just as he got back the train came thundering by. Quite a number of persons were on the platform at the time, and, see that a man had made up his mind to jump from the platform to one of the cars as it passed, they tried to dissuade him from his urpose, failing in which, as the man pre pared to take the leap, the most of them turned their faces away to avoid witnessing what they conceived to be the inevitable catastrophe. The train passed the plat form at the rate of about twenty miles per hour, and, seizing a favorable moment, the man made the fearful leap and landed in the middle of a pile of gravel on a flat car, the impetus being so great that the venturesome darkey never stopped until he had actually rolled across the coupling on to the adjoining car. When spoken to about taking such risks he said he was used Applications for Winter Quarters. We learn that several applications have been received by parties here to furnish rooms and board to Northern families who are desirous of spending the winter here instead of going further South. A great many of the wealthy people of the North seem to have imbibed the notion that the climate of Wilmington is more favorable to health and generally pleasanter than that of localities farther South. 'One 'party, we understand, has received as many as four applications from as many families who would like to pass the coming winter in our city. Here we have a practical illustration of our probable chances under certain contingencies.

Friends in Enrope. A gentleman of this city hands us the following extract from a letter of Rev. Dr. J. B. Taylor, of this city, dated at Turin, October 3rd:

* * * * To Florence has been awarded the title of 'the fairest city on Earth.' I have seen a number just as fair. and there are many doubtless which are fairer. It is situated in the rich valley of the Arno, with fine natural surroundings, and abounds in beautiful gardens adorned with statues, vases, fountains and other decorations. The open squares or piazzas continually attract attention. There are also numerous places containing rare paintings and sculptures. It was the birth-place of Dante, Petrarch, Boccaccio, Galileo, M. Angelo, Leonardo de Vinci, Benventus to Cellini and Andreas del Santo. Among the places visited, the most interesting were the Ca-thedral, the Church Santa Croce, and the Uffizi gallery, which contains some of the most celebrated sculpture and paintings.
My next visit was to Bologna, one of the most ancient and important cities of Italy, and situated at the foot of the Appennines It is one of the cleanest cities I saw in Italy. On account of the arcades you can walk in every direction without getting wet, even in a violent storm. Here in 1547 the celebrated Council of Trent as-sembled. I visited the well known University, founded in 1119. Here the anatomy of the human body was first taught, and here in 1789 galvanism was discovered by Joseph Galvani. Balogna has 130 churces, 20 convents, and a number of palaces. Next comes Venice, the Bride of the Sea.' Foremost among the places visited was the Basilica of St. Mark, with its beautiful campanile or bell tower, and so renowned for its antiquity, its historical associations and its splendid and unique architecture. Then there was the palace of the Doges, the hall of 'The Ten,' and the awful dungeons. Of course I walked on the 'Bridge of Sighs,' and on the Rialto. As I traversed the wide single arch of the latter or passed beneath in a gondols, I thought of Shylock and Antonio. The canals are still the streets and the gondolas the universal means of communication in this wonderful

An Aged White Couple Attacked by a Brutal Negro-The Wife Killed and the Husband Nearly Roasted to Death.

[Special Star Telegram.]

SHELBY, N. C., October 20 .- A horrible crime was committed near this place last night. Mr. William Logan and his wife, a septuagenarian couple, living about twelve miles south of this place, were attacked at their home by a negro burglar. Mrs. Logan was killed, and her husband was found, when help came in response to his cries, nearly cooked to death. The negro escaped, after robbing his victims of ten dollars in money. The coroner is holding an inquest.

Vanderbilt Thrown From His Wagon -The Centennial Celebration at Newburgh-A Grand Procession. (By Telegraph to the Morning Star.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 .- Wm. H. Vanderbilt was thrown from his wagon at Fleet-wood Park yesterday, and bodily bruised. He was able to transact business at his house to day, but did not go out.

NEWBURGH, Oct. 18.—Immense crowds are here to participate in the centennial celebration. At sunrise the navy vessels fired salutes which were responded to from the shore by cannon fired at Washington's headquarters and elsewhere, on both sides of the river, and by ringing all the church bells. The city never presented a finer dis-play of decorations. Flags are floating everywhere. The weather is bright and beautiful and the sky unclouded. The towns of the surrounding neighborhood emptied their population into Newburgh. It is estimated that 50,000 visitors are Many residences bear the coats of arms of Massachusetts and Virginia. The pro-cession was a grand one and moved in four divisions. The line of march was about four miles long. Immense crowds lined the streets, and the stoops and windows of every house on the route were crowded with spectators, and applause was liberally bestowed as the organization passed. There will be a display of fireworks this evening from floats anchored in the middle of the

The crops of all kinds are poor, very poor, and hence the display of agricultural products is the most meagre ever seen here. The show of cotton bales, in competition for the special prizes, is a good one, and the quality very high. The machinery display is very nearly up to the remarkable one of last year, which was by far the best ever seen at a State Fair.

The exhibit of vehicles made by Tyson & Jones, of Carthage, deserves special mention as at once the best and largest ever made here. There are eighteen vehicles, all made of North Carolina wood by North Carolina workmen. Mr. Jones says that no timber in the world ever approaches that of North Carolina, so far as strength and beauty are concerned. The vehicles shown are superb in finish and elegant in design and were awarded many premiums. The excellence of our timber is again shown in the power loom shuttles exhibited by W. C. Petty & Co., of Bush Hill, N. C. There are some notable exhibits of leather, in fact the aggregate in this department far exceeds any previous displays. Special mention is due Mr. J. W. Fries, of Salem; W. C. Byrd, of Durham; J. F. & W. A. Moore, of Mt. Airy. The last named firm has a varied exhibit, also of blankets, kerseys, jeans, fancy knitting, yarns, etc., all from their mills, which is highly meritorious. It shows how we are moving forward in this matter.

The displays of fruit are not up to the average, of course. The largest is made by J. W. Perry, of Chatham, who has 100 varieties of apples, pears, etc. J. R. Russ & Son, of Burke, show forty varieties.

A stand is filled with bottles of wines

The Art Department, in the main hall, is pronounced by all a most pleasing fea-ture of the Fair. The exhibit made by Greensboro Female College is highly creditable to that institution, showing the talent of the pupils and the skill and energy of the excellent teachers of art. The crayon portraits by that rising young artist, Mr. Eugene L. Harris, attracted deserved attention. He shows many samples of his work, and they are all

Some leather work by Miss Bates and Miss Tenie King is of notable excellence.
