SUPERFLUOUS WORDS EX-PENSIVE.

Mr. Field says they Cost the People of the State $100,000 a Tear. The Language Club, taking for a text "Thou hast damnable iteration," discussed the superfluous words used in English rhetoric in Hamilton Hall. of Columbia College, last evening. David Dudley Field began with the Constitution of the United States, which, he said, contained two flagrant instances of iteration. One was in the clause that contained the words that the President should appoint "by and with the consent of the Senate." If the Senate advised an appointment, Mr. Field said, that it.

implied their consent to The other instance was iı the clause concerning the power of Congress to pass all "necessary and proper" laws, for if the laws were necessary they were, of course, proper. Mr. Field dwelt regretfully upon the failure of the Legislature to pass his code doing away with su-perfluous words in legal documents. In the ordinary deed of transfer, he said, there were 950 words, of which 860 were superfluous. In the ordi-

of which 1,240 were superfluous. In the ordi-nary mortgage form there were 1,500, of which 1,240 were superfluous. For recording deeds and mort-gages, Mr. Field said, 10 cents per 100 words were paid. There were recorded in New York during one month 688 deeds and 758 mort month 688 deeds and 788 mortgages. "If my code had been adopted," said Mr. Field, "the people would have saved $591 on the deeds and $944 on the mortgages, a saving of over $1,500 per month to the people. Sr. PETERSBURG, May 16.—The Czar has sent Gen. Komaroff a "sword of hon-or," with a gold hilt and scabbard set with diamonds. Accompanying this splendid gift was an autograph letter from the Czar to Gen. Komaroff. This warmly praised the Russian commander for his military measures, and for the prudence and firm-ness he had exercised in his dealings with the Afghans. and especially commended The examination of the last four witnesses who testified in connection with the finding of the key occupied two hours, most of the time being taken up by the defence in rigid cross questioning, without developing any new facts. Jos. R. Mountcastle, a workman em ployed at the coal dock of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad wharves below the city, testified that on the morning of March 14th, testified that on the morning of March 14th, in company with two others, he found a bundle floating in the river. He got it ashore, opened it, and found it contained clothing. The bundle was like a satchel, fastened with leather straps. Subsequently he took it to the coroner. Witness was shown the bundle and he identified it. He stated that it was discovered about two miles below Mayo's bridge. Mayo's bridge is a mile and a half from the reser-voir. Witness said that when the bundle was opened the clothing was taken out and voir. Witness said that when the bundle was opened the clothing was taken out and dried and then replaced. He saw a name on one piece of clothing and some initials on another. He could not read, and so he could not tell what they were. The defence again objected to all questions and answers on the same ground as in previous cases. The objections were overruled and exceptions taken. At 4 p. m. the court adjourned until to norrow.

RICHMOND, May 15 .- The first witness RICHMOND, May 15.—The first witness-sworn this morning in the case of T. J. Cluverius, on trial for the murder of Lil-lian Madison, was J. B. Childress, an em-ploye at the Chesspeake & Ohio coal docks. He was at the wharves on the morning of March 14, and saw a bundle or bag of clothing found floating in the river. The bag was here shown and iden-tified. Witness had helped to put back the articles taken from the bag after it had tified. Witness had helped to put back the articles taken from the bag after it had been dried. Nothing had been left out nor had anything been put in not first found in it. Judge Crump, of counsel for the defence, moved that this evidence be expunged from the record. The motion was overruled and the defence excepted. Mrs. Annie Williams, mother of the boy who found the watch key at the hole in the recervoir fence, testified that her son had given her a watch key on Sunday, March 15; that next day she gave the key to a young man named Walter Hill; Jack Wren, a detective, having sent for lt, and a few weeks.

Wren, a detective, having sent for it, and that she had not seen the key since until that she had not seen the top the holes this morning. J. D. Redwood, foreman in charge of the Chesapeake & Ohio wharves, testified to the finding of a bag of clothing. The bag was of brown canvas, bound by leather straps, with a handle. In it was a quantity of lady's clothing which he described; also, a small eigar box containing some stamped between the puppy and the monkey. - A pony of brandy at night will become a nightmare before morning.
