The total number of species and varieties of flowering plants growing around Wilmington is now given at 1,218, of which 1,046 are supposed to be native to the region.

The preparation of this valuable estalogue has required an amount of careful and patient' work which no one save a botanist can estimate. The authors have done their work well. The publication of The "Flora" will add still more to Wilmington's reputation abroad, and what is of equal, if not greater importance, it is hoped that it may stimulate the study of botany at home. J. A. HOLMES,

University of North Carolina. A MOST IMPORTANT BILL.

Raleigh Chronicle.

Our present, law provides that a man shall pay taxes on his solvent credits but that he shall deduct from such credits his debts. This is proper; but the same law .provides that he shall pay taxes on the value of his land and makes no provision for deducting from the value of bis land the amount of his indebtedness. For example: A has notes to the value of $1,000, but he owes $500 -he pays tax on $500. B owns a farm valued. at $1,000. He owes $500; but still he has to pay taxes on the $1,000. Thus while B is worth no more than A he has to pay twice as much tax. To make the illustration more striking let it be stated thus: A holds a mortgage on B's land for $1,000; but A owes C $500, and therefore only pays taxes on $500. B's farm is worth $1,000, but he owes A $1,000, and is, therefore, worth nothing, still he is required to pay tax on $1,000.

This system of taxation proceeds, we suppose, upon the Bible doctrine: "From him that hath not shall be taken away even which he hath." It pay to the support of the government in proportion to their ability. We are glad to see that Reprewill obviate this great injustice.

THE BAPTIST VIEW.

Raleigh Recorder.

No loyal citizen of the State wishes to see the University destroyed. All 24, (no quorum,) so the amendment was are willing for it to be properly fostered and supported, provided it is conducted honestly and honorably. That the uses made of the county student law are fraudulent and therefore demoralizing to the young men of the State, is beyond dispute. If every county in the State sent a young man to the University who needed the assistance provided by the law and who had taken the oath prescribed in the Code there would then be less ground for opposition to the county student law; but when only a fuw counties send a student and some of these men are abundantly able to pay tuition, then we unhesitatingly pronounce the whole matter a fraud upon the people and a reproach to the State. We deplore the demoralizing influences of such practices at the leading seat of learning in our State. The county student law should be repealed. We wish to see the University sus tained and we wish to see it with a large number of students, but we cannot wish to see it prosper at the expense of honor or by methods calculated to sap the foundation of all sense of honor and fair dealing.

A PRESBYTERIAN VIEW. N. C. Presbyterian.

We have not discussed the move ment made by friends of the University of North Carolina for the securing of aid in its behalf from our Legislature; but we give place in this issue to some articles published in the interest of the University. We do so willingly. The editor, as a North Carolinian, to the mannerborn, desires that the University shall be maintained and fostered is unjust, and is not making all men desires that its power for good shall be largely increased.

noes. The amendment was lost. Thomas withdrew his amendment.

Horner offered an amendment providing that convicts be granted only when hones labor cannot be secured at the same price. On this Horner called the ayes and noes. The result was as follows: Ayes 34, noes lost and Horner's political scheme failed. (In the explanation of votes Holt said that as convicts must either be kept in the penitentary at great cost to the State or else e put on such public work or works of improvement as this, they must always come in competition more or less, in this way with free labor. Horner said he thought that 500 more convicts had already been appropriated than there were in the Penitentiary. He spoke of the fact that men were sent to the Penitentiary for petty crimes and for long terms, and hinted that there was a plan, a deep laid scheme, to arrange to get sufficient convicts in the Penitentiary to fill all these demands. Pritchard favored the use of convicts on State schemes of public improvements, which otherwise would not be carried out, and opposed their use on private enterprises of this character.) The bill then passed its second and third readings. At 2 o'clock the House adjourned.

The Committee on Magistrates, of which Senator Kape Elias is chairman, is now holding daily sessions. To-day it called the counties in the First District, and will devote a day to each district, until all are completed. This will cause the call of the Sixth District to fall on next Saturday.
