apostle of Georgia, Senator Colquitt, now being spoken of in that connection, the stroke of policy which such appointment would prove in its influence on the German vote of the country could not well be surpassed. Prohibition for the Germans and laudation of the Queen's government of England and Ireland for the Irish ! What a spectacle of sagacity is here, he added. But didn't that letter to the Queen in Its unnecessary, not to say unpatriotic enconum on the government of Great Britain, eclipse anything in the way of a political felo de se ever seen by mortal eyes. But for wrecking the Democracy, commend me, he added, to the administration."

Some people seem to think that the chief aim and object of the President is to take care of the Democratic party, and ignore the fact that there is such a thing as principle as well as policy. We, too, believe that a Democratic President ought to take care of his party whenever he can consistently do so, but he is President of the whole people and his first duty is to the people of the whole country. We have had enough of narrowminded partisans in the Presidential chair, and if our party must suffer simply because the President discharges a plain and honest duty, it deserves to suffer. We refer to no special instance, but we hold that the President should rather be governed by principle than policy, and whenever there is conflict between these two, principle should take preced ence.

"Bad" and "Mam" was Good Enough Tid-Bits.

A Montana girl came East and atended a fashionable boarding-school for a year. On her return she flew into her father's arms, gasping out: "O, papa! How.is mamma and -"

"The old Montanian retreated until he backed up against the depot; then he shook one horny finger warningly toward the returned 'Sadie," and said:

"Don't you go for to calling me 'poppy' and your ma 'mommy,' Sarah Jane. We won't hev it. 'Dad' and 'mam' was good enuff fer ye when ye left home, an' it's good enuff now that you've come home. B'ar that in mind, Sary Jane, an' don't 'poppy' me again or I'll take a brush to ye."

Besides, five of the party had to carry twenty pounds of red fire each in addition to their blankets. The arrangement when they left here was for two of the party to remain on the summit all night, in order to touch off the fire. This of course they must have done, and it is the first time that a human being has spent a night on the summit of the mountain. The illumination was also seen in eastern Oregon at a distance of seventy-five miles. The party will begin the descent of floating cradle, the mountain this morning.

cloture be applied. Safety-The Valley Full of Fire and Seething Oil. [By Telegraph to the Morning Star.]

PITTSBURG, July 5.—A special from Erie, Pa., says: The town of Clarendon, in the upper oil country, and on the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad, was almost wiped out by a conflagration last night. Over one hundred burning houses and dwellings, including Weaver's Hotel, Logan's Hotel and the postoffice were consumed before 1 o'clock this morning, and the flames are still spreading. The town has no fire department, and the people were compelled o fight the flames with buckets of water.

The conflagration started at 11.30 o'clock last night in Weaver's Hotel, in the middle of the town and in an old mill on the outskirts. It originated from the careless use of fireworks and reached the oil tanks, and the destruction of the town was speedily wrought. John Stewart was caught in the bursting of a tank and was cremated. It is feared many others have shared a similar fate. All of the business part of the town is destroyed and at 1 o'clock this morning Henry's Hotel and the Philadelphia & Erie railroad depot were burning. The build-ings being of pine and hemlock, burned like tinder. The greatest excitement prevails. The valley is full of fire and seething oil, and the people becoming panic-stricken, fied to the hillsides for safety. No estimate can be put upon the loss. but there is every reason to believe that it will reach half a million. There is but little insurance.
