If all voters were compelled to pay taxes or not vote, and the people would list their prop erty, &c., honestly and fairly there would be as much revenue as the State would need at present. people. TRINICY COLLEGE.

The Methodists and public spirited citizens of Raleigh seem to be in earnest in having Trinity College removed to the capital. The STAR as a well wisher of an institution that has done good to the State in the past, and is broadening and deepen ing its plans under the new management, has ventured to express an opinion that the removal would be wise if it can be done without too much sacrifice of money. When Randolph Macon College, the excellent Methodist institution in Virginia, was removed from Boydton to Ashland it guaranteed its success after languishing. We think that the true idea is to get near the centre of life and on the thoroughfares of travel and traffic. If removed to Raleigh and with the united sympathies and energies of the 100,000 Methodists in North Carolina to back it we would expect to see Trinity College rapidly advancing on the highway of prosperity and use--fulness.

Wake Forest, the excellent Bap tist College, is about sixteen miles from Raleigh, on the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad. The noble University is but some twenty-eight miles from Raleigh and on a branch road connecting with the North Carolina Road. Now let Trinity be removed to Raleigh, and the three chief educational institutions, with one exception, will all be near the Capitol of the State. It may be that asylum at morganiou. size of legislative bodies. The reason for erecting a new county should be plain, open, convincing, and not for the purpose of selling town lots or to sharpen the axes of fellows who are sure to be standing around with axes to grind.

Here is Harrison's mischievous "Southern policy" as he gave it to a complaining negro, as reported in the New York Times:

"While all that you say is true and much to be deplored, yet we must remember that s question of greater importance, both to your peop's and to the whole people need our first attention We want to see to it bat every man who has the right to vote. should do so if he so desires, and that his role shall be counted. Secure to him all these rights, and in time all these civi rights of which you speak will follow." It is clear now that this little Indiana demagogue will worry his little brain and vex the South over the negro vote.
