COTTON.

New York Commercial Chronicle FRIDAY, April 12 .-- The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South tonight, is given below. For the week ending this evening (April 12), the total receipts have reached 40,407 bales, against 46,500 bales last week. 51,573 bales the previous week: making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1888, 5,313,744 bales, against 5,162,104 bales for the same period of 1887-8, showing a increase since September 1, 1888, of 151,640 bales.

The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 93,078 bales, of which 54,725 were to Great Britain 12,978 to France and 25,375 to the rest of the Continent.

To-day a buoyant opening on a much better report from Liverpool was followed by some decline as that market reacted, and the selling movement continued, until prices returned to about the closing figures, of yesterday. Cotton on the spot advanced 1-16c on Monday and again on Tuesday, with a good business for home consumption. Yesterday there was an advance of to with a pretty full business. To-day there was a good business for export at 10% for middling uplands. The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 539,500 bales.

If President Harrison continues to stand by what has been attributed to him as a "Southern policy" to ignore the political power of ignorance, of course the party lines will be changed, but we have the declaration of Fred Douglass the other day that his race goes for "unification," and that the Southern question can only be settled by amalgamation of the races. Now, if the pro-posed conference of the colored politicians in Washington shakes President Harrison's present determina-tion and moves him to recognize the negro element as the majority of the party in the South, the whole thing will remain where it has been, and Sherman will try his Congressional election machine on the South, and organize his party on the census, and not on the voting at elections.

There was no chimney place in the room, lest dynamite should be dropped down it; and no coal was burned in any room which he occupied, because he once saw a murderous Nihilist engine which looked outwardly like a lump of coal. He was so afraid of poison that he always had the wine that he drank uncorked before him. LETTER FROM THE UNIVER SITY.

or, Battle's Fine Address-A Valuable CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 13.— At the request of the Historical Society, President Battle delivered last night his lecture on the "History of the Supreme Court of the State." To say that it was well done is to say only what we all know of everything of this sort that Mr. Battle undertakes. The number, the variety and the excellence of the public addresses given by him in the course of the last decade are very remarkable; es-pecially remarkable when one takes into consideration the amount of other work he has done for the University and for the cause of Education generally.

The history of the Supreme Court of North Carolina has never before been attempted. Mr. Battle has collected an immense mass of material which could not possibly be considered within the limits of any ordinary lecture, but which it is to be hoped he will yet give us in a book.

Books, books, books, we need books, we need more light, and more men who, like President Battle, hold the pen of a ready writer. Such men ought to have it on their consciences to write books about North Carolina. "A book's a book, although there's nothing in it," says one authority; also another says "a book is the only immortality."

When Mr. Battle enters the "sixties" his friends should by all means influence him to drop all side work and devote himself to the history of North Carolina. No other man in the State is now so well prepared, or can do the work as he can.

He presents the history of the Su-preme Court as full of interesting matter. The ground was first cleared by a consideration of the fundamental constitution of philosopher Locke. John Willoughby, Christopher Gale, Edward Moseley. These names stand out in the dim and confused outlines of our early judiciary system. No superior court judges appear. Spen-cer, Ashe and Iredell. These three for many years represented the whole bench of North Carolina, and at a most important time in our history. High character, industry, inflexible rectitude have characterized our Supreme Court Judges. For several generations, with few exceptions, this court has held the confidence of the Sketches and anecdotes of Hender son, Taylor, Daniels, Ruffin, Gaston, Pearson, Battle, Ashe, &c., all given with much raciness and cordial humor, the way in which the Judges performed their part during the civil war and the subversion afterwards one party or the other. It cannot be of the State government, generally conditional. A judgment for the possession of land, to be stricken out if | with peculiar wiedom and moderaing those violent times. Writs of habeas corpus were issued within the sound of the enemy's cannon. Mr. Battle's references to his father, our excellent and well remembered Judge Battle, were all that a son's should be. The whole lecture was crammed with instruction, with valuable, thoughtful, and interesting matter. Wherever the bar is a strong one in our State, Mr. Battle should be solicited to repeat it. We repeat that falsity of the pretence may be, if it succeeds in cheating, the offence is constituted.

Cited to repeat to the pretence of the whole mass of material collected by him should be one day given to us in a book that may adorn our libraries and go down to our children's children.

Mr. Battle was one of the ornaments of our bar while he practiced at it. He will win a more enduring fame when he comes before the pubhe as the memorialist of our highest court.

The University is looking forward to the celebration of its first centennial at the next Commencement, and hopes to see an unusual gathering of its sons. From the tone of the many letters received we might suppose they will all be here. Mr. Battle's boys express a great enthusiasm. I belong to the older regime, and venture to hope that Gov. Swain's boys will not show less loyalty. Let those whose "beards fall white before the razor" come up and take a look once more at scenes long loved and lost awhile. Nothing is more picturesque than a good gray head, and nothing gives such dignity to a gathering.

NAVAL AFFAIRS.

Result of Manouvres of the British Ficet a Disagreeable Surprise. WASHINGTON, April 17.—Recent reports manouvres of the British naval flee contain some matter not entirely reassuring contain some matter not entirely reassuring with respect to some of our new naval vessels. In these mancouves about six vessels of the Archer type participated. The result was a disagreeable surprise to Sir Wm. Reed, chief naval constructor of the Admiralty. It was found that the vessels pitched and rolled about to such an extent in a moderately heavy sea as to render them very poor "gun pistforms," to use a technical expression, which means that the guns were so unstable that they could not be directed with any approach to accuracy be directed with any approach to accuracy of fire. They were also very wet ships. These defects are supposed to result from the excessive weight of ordinance. It was recommended that the six-inch rifles be replaced by five-inch guns, and the anchors moved further aft.

The significance of this report to naval officers here lies in the fact that the new gunboat Yorktown is patterned after the Archer, and will carry the same calibre and weight of ordnance.

Failure has also attended the efforts of the British constructors to build a twenty-knot ship of which the Navy Department here is attempting to build two, under direction of an act of Congress. The Shedered meds, which was built for a twenty-knot ship, has never exceeded nineteen knots, but has developed more than the estimated horse-power—an indication to constructors here that it is not possible to drive a vessel of that length at twenty knots. The British authorities have taken the same view and will build another set of these boats of greater length. Other vessels of the same type have failed to develop anything like the necessary 9,000 horse-power, so that the promise of success of our boats is not

COTTON. The New York Sun's Report of Market Yesterday. *
By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Sun's review of the cotton market to-day says: Cotton futures were active and buoyant, closing 14@19 points better for this crop, with next crop up 7@14 points, nearer options showing most improvement. tions showing most improvement. It was a regular field day for brokers, business awelling to an unusually large aggregate. Bulls declared that the market had "cor-Bulls declared that the market had "cor-nered itself," and certainly some extrava-gant reports were in circulation to indicate a scarcity of desirable lines of spot cotton. Bears were wholly at sea and floundered about without rudder or compass, though neither Southern nor Liverpool advices seemed to justify the excitement. The first early rise was followed by a decline under some selling, but there was a quick under some seiling, but there was a quick rally and the close was firm at the best prices of the day.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Fluctuations in Prices on the Chicago

Exchange. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CHICAGO, April 17.—Wheat was inactive to day. Outside trading especially was small, there not being enough action in the market to stimulate outside business. A ent local trader, however, was credited with being a large buyer, and to these purchases was the strength of to-day large-

A fair business was transacted in corn, notwithstanding the narrow range of values. The market opened at yesterday's closing prices, fluctuated frequently within a range of 10fc, closing about the same as Oats were quiet and steady during the morning, but after midday offerings be-came free and a weak feeling set in, prices declining $@ to. The market closed easy at almost inside figures and total yesterday's sales. Mess pork was quite active at times, but prices ruled irregular, though averaging higher. Opening sales were made at ten nigher. Opening sales were made at ten cents decline on yesterday's closing figures, and after frequent elight fluctuations developed considerable strength, and prices were advanced 20@23ic. Later prices receded 25@27ic, and the market closed steady. Trading was only moderately active in lard, and the feeling was ateadier. Early prices were advanced 2ic closing Early prices were advanced 2ic, closing quiet. Fairly active trade was reported in short ribs. Prices ruled irregular. Early in the day the feeling was firmer and prices were advanced 6@7+c; later the market weakened and prices receded 10@12ic, and the market closed quiet at the reduc
