In Which a Red Headed Girl Baby and Handsome White Girl Figure. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. Strained. RALEIGH, N. C., May 20 .- This morn ing a red-headed girl baby, with blue eyes, a month old, was found near the railroad depot in a vacant lot, in a basket. The child was nicely dressed and had additional clothing. The Chief of Hard. Police found out that a handsome white girl came on a train from Selma last evening, with the baby, was met at the depot by a man, and they registered at a leading hotel as Mr. Edwards and his sister, Miss Edwards. No child was with them. They left on the early morning train, but were arrested at Henderson. They have sued out a habeas corpus, claiming they are not the parties wanted. COTTON. the southern portions of the district injuring cotton and wheat in Union, Anson and Richmond counties.

WESTERN DISTRICT .- A very heavy rain and hail storm occurred on the evening of the 12th, in the southeastern portion of the district, covering the eastern half of Gaston county and the central part of Mecklenburg county, and extending southeastward into the Central District. It was especially severe at Charlotte, where 3.06 inches of rain and hail fell on the 12th and 13th. Over the area covered great damage was caused to wheat, cotton and other crops. In other parts of the district the rainfall has been beneficial. Total amounts for the week: Lenoir, 1.80 inches; Asheville, .73; Mt. Pleasant, 2.43; Salisbury, 2.57; Dallas, 3.50; Charlotte about 4.50. H. B. BATTLE, Ph. D., Director.

YEARS IN A VAULT. Features Almost Perfect and Clothing Un-tarnished.

There are eight bodies lying in an ld vault in Greenlawn cemetery in Indianapolis, Ind., in a wonderful state of preservation. On one shelf scared. in an ordinary pine casket lies the body of a soldier named Switzer, laid away twenty-three years ago, whose features are still as distingushable as in life. His blue uniform is faded but little, the brass buttons are but slightly tarnished and his moustache has a long, martial sweep. His hands are tightly closed about the national colors. An iron casket incloses the remains of Mrs. A. C. Bryant, enombed more than 20 years ago. fer face still retains its original outlines, and, save the yellow discoloration, looks life-like. The white silk dress in which her form s wrapped still holds its gloss, and there is a withered bouquet of roses on her breast. Close at hand lies Mr. Saul, placed there in 1862, and while his face has fallen away, his spotless shirt front, with its studs, and his dress suit appear as if donned yesterday.

Still another remarkable preservaon is noticeable in the body of dward Elliott, who died of excesve cigarrette smoking four years His mustache still has'a jauncurl, there is a withered rose in is buttonhole, and his broadcloth ess suit and clossy shirt front bear o sign of their master's decay. The ault in which these bodies lay is of mmon brick, exceedingly well entilated, and in this is supposed be the secret of the unusual prervation of the bodies therein.

Schilling announced that the pension plank was left to the soldier member on the committee, with an inquiry whetherit was satisfactory, and on his acquiescence it was adopted unanimously. Davis of Texas, a lank sixfooter in a light suit, who had electrified the convention during the Downally speech by a long weird hoop of exultation, was conducted to the platform and to the intense delight of the Convention repeated the unearthly Indian-like trill. Then he announced himself as an ex-Contederate and declared himself for the platform, every plank and every resolution. An extraordinary spectacle followed.

Wadswell of Indiana, an ex-Union soldier, rushed up to the ex-Confederate Davis in full view of the Convention, and the two-one-time mortal foesgrasped hands.

R. W. Humphrey of Texas, organizer of the Colored Alliance, seized with the inspiration of the movement, suddenly joined the ex-soldiers and amid a perfect cyclone of enthusiasm, a delegate moved the adoption of the platform as read. The convention went wild, the delegates mounting the tables and chairs, shouting and yelling like Camanches. A portion of the convention, in thunderous chorus, sang to the tune of "Good-bye, My Lover, Good-bye," the words, "Good-bye, Old Parties, Good-bye," and then the Doxology. In the forest of flags and State ners that had gathered with their bearers around the trio, the Kansas man, on the shoulders of two colleagues standing on chairs, raised the Kansas banner and held it aloft above all others. The tumult, surpassing in its remarkable suddenness and vigor anything that had previously taken place in the convention, lasted fully a quarter of an hour, till it ceased from sheer exhaustion of the delegates. Several delegates seconded adoption of the report, one suggesting that it be by a rising vote. "Question! Question !" came from all parts of the hall, but the pent-up enthusiasm had to have vent and one after another of the orators relieved themselves.

The platform proper, exclusive of the resolutions, was then adopted by a rising vote. Delegate Miller, of California, threw in a bone of contention by offering this resolution: "Resolved, that we favor abolition of the liquor traffic." Confusion became worse confounded. Fifty orators were clamoring for recognition. but the first to succeed was Schilling, of Wisconsin. He opposed discussion of the question of prohibition at this time. Schilling declared that the resolution proposed by Miller had been fully considered and voted down by the committee on platform. To spring it now was plainly throwing a firebrand into the convention, and in his opinion it was a deliberate attempt to cause a split in the party. The prohibition amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

The resolutions were then adopted with only three dissenting votes.

After the recess the roll of names was called for members of the National Committee, the convention adopting the innovation of appointing three members from each State, instead of one member, as the old parties have done. Alliance Congressman J. G. Otis, of Kansas, nominated H. E. Taubeneck, of Illinois, as chairman of the National Executive Committee. There was a great outburst of cheers when Taubeneck's name was mentioned. Taubeneck was chosen by acclama-
