CENTRAL OFFICE, RALEIGH, N. C. The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Weather Crop Bulletin, issued by the North Carolina Experiment Station and State Weather Service, for the week ending Friday, June 12th, 1891, show that the early ppart of the week was decidedly be-low the average in temperature, with northeast winds. The latter part of the week was such warmer, but with a deficiency of sunshine and showers nearly every day. These conditions have not caused much immovement in the crop prospects. Farmers have had so little time beween rains to work crops that all are merrun with grass in many places. Wheat is being harvested, and this gop at least, though affected by rust in some places, is reported in good condition. A good average yield is expected. Cotton is in poor condition indeed. It has not all been chopped ret, and in many places grass is higher than the cotton, The plants generally small. Very favorable dition with a late fall would probably not bring cotton up to an arerage yield Tobacco is in excellent shape, and the reports that the acreage has been considerably increased are confirmed. Bugs are damaging the potato crop in the astern district. The crop is being parketed. The weather conditions have been nearly the same in all the districts, rainfall badly distributed. 4. ___ THE WILSON FAMILY.

Enormous Fortune Made by Two Brothers in the Shipping Business. Mr. Arthur Wilson, who figured so commontly in the baccarat trial, is ow about 55 years of age. He is he son of a small keel-holder in Hall, while his wife is the daughter of a provincial postmaster. Mr. Wiland his brother, Charles Henry Vilson, were born and bred in Hull, lagland, completing their education Kingston College, in that place. They engaged in the shipping busisess together, and by industry, enegy and strict attention to their bisiness, have built up 'one of the largest shipping firms in he United Kingdom. One of their ines is the well-known Wilson Line, the steamers of which ply between New York and Hull, which is the adquarters of the firm. The enormous fortune of the nothers has been amassed during he past twenty years, and recently, then their shipping business was umed into a limited liability company, with a capital of £2,000,000, il the shares in the concern were stributed among the members of the Wilson family. Mr. Arthur vilson has an income that is estimated at £100,000 a year, while that of his brother is probably fully equal to it. Besides he fine country seat called Tranby roft, hear Doncaster, the Wilsons have a sumptuous London residence Grosvenor Place, and at both of hese residences they have been for several years past entertaining on a avish and generous scale.

The elder Wilson is a quiet, unosentatious man, and was strongly opposed to the playing of baccarat and other gambling games at Tranby oft, as was shown by the evidence cited at the trial. Mrs. Wilson, lowever, seems to have feared that he family could not keep "in the wim' with the Prince of Wales' set, mless the humors of the Prince and sintimates were acceded to.

Mr. Charles Henry Wilson, the bother of Mr. Arthur Wilson, has btained a more substantial, although ess ostentatious, position than his other. He married a daughter of olonel Wellesley, bought from a eer Warter Priory, Pocklington, where he resides, and since 1874 has epresented Hull in the House of mmons in the Liberal interest.

STONE RIVER PEARLS.

Tennesseean Finds Many Valuable

Specimens in Shoal Mussels. Mr. J. L. Smith is the great pearlunter of Tennessee. For a number of years past he has devoted most of is time during the summer months o this pursuit, and has taken pearls to the value of thousands of dollars from the streams of Middle Tennesnessee. He is to-day the best posted man in pearl lore in the South. He knows just where to look for the pearl-bearing mussel, and no matter how mum the secretive bivalve may appear, he slips his thin blade beween his shells, pries open his mouth and makes him spit out the glistening treasure that he carries oncealed upon his person. Mr. Smith returned yesterday from Raft Shoals, on Stone river, a lew miles from its confluence with the Cumberland, where he made a most successful two days' haul, which estimates will return him something like $300. He brought back him, besides numerous small beauty, weighing ten grains; one reighed eight grains, two six grains and one three grains. 'ME RIDE," BUT HE DIDN'T. How a Nervy Engineer Drove an Ugly

Indian from His Cab.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Mark McDonald, a veteran knight of the throttle, was surrounded by a group of friends in the Laclede corridors yesterday, to whom he related one of his latest yarns. His first trip on the Union Pacific in 1859, and how an "Injun" rode, was the subject of the tale. He was ordered from Omaha to the Chevenne Division, and there got orders to return to Grand Island and take enlow the cloudy weather and east to gine 4,126 back to Cheyenne. Going over the road both ways at night, he did not learn much of the lay of the land, and stations at that time were a long way apart. Firing up the engine about the middle of the afternoon, he started out and stopped about 160 miles away for water. It was dark when he got to the tank, and taking the packing hook he tied some waste around it and saturated the stuff with oil, which when lighted made a very good torch. "When I got back into the cab," he said, "after quenching the torch, I found I had a visitor, a big buck Indian, gazing at the steam guage. I was surprised when he nodded to me, and did not return the salute, My fireman lay asleep on the water tank, and there I was left with an ugly redskin wrapped up in a dirty white blanket tied with a strap, in which was stuck a navy pistol and a bowie knife.

"When I motioned him to get off he said 'No' in broken English, and, patting the seat, said, 'Me ride.' 'No,' said I, 'you cannot;' and he tapped his revolver and again said, Me ride.' Having no weapon with allow and with eagerness depicted which to defend myself, and not knowing how many of his kind there were lying about, I was much perplexed. Suddenly the thought struck me to break the water glass. I threw my oil-can against it, and it exploded with a loud report. The steam and person's nerves, but the old man water caught the buck full in the does not mind it a bit. He enjoys face, and he bounced from the cab. yelling wildly. When we pulled out again the fireman came into the cab | him through the iron bars with an more scared than I was. He had expression that would lead one to crawled onto the tank at the approach of the redskin and pretended to be sleeping."

A RAILROAD INTO THE SKY. The Electric Road to be Built to the Summit of the Sierras. An electric railroad, it is announced, is soon to be built from Pasadena, Cal., to the summit of the Sierra Madres Mountains, directly back from the city. The road is to begin at the ending of what is known as the terminal road, which runs from Los Angeles to the suburb of Pasadena Alladena, there entering Rubio Canyon between Los Flore and Eaton Canyons, running up to its head, crossing by a ridge to Eaton Canyon, up which it will wind to Wilson's Peak, covering a distance of twelve miles. It will attain an altitude of 6.000 feet, with a grade of 7 feet in 100.

It was supposed that the steep canyons and washes would present great difficulties, but the survey made shows that the road can easily be built with but one tunnel and but five or six bridges, the longest being but 250 feet. The road will have a gauge between the standard and narrow. The rails will weigh fifty pounds to the yard, somewhat heavier than those used on the famous Denver & Rio Grande road. Sharp curves will be avoided, the shortest having a radius of ninety feet. The cars will be mounted on heavy eight-wheel Pullman trucks, six in all. It is estimated that a speed of five miles per hour will be attained going up and six or seven coming down.

The possibilities that the road to Wilson's Peak will open up to tourists are interesting. It will be possible to take a bath in the Pacific at Santa Monica, say in February, with a water temperature of 61°; lunch at Pasadena, pick your oranges' strawberries, lemons or limes, not to speak of countless flowers; take the train for Alladena, pass through acres of wild flowers, and two hours later step from your car into a forest of mighty trees, their limbs bowed with the snows of a real Eastern Winter. A sleigh is ready, and, wrapped in robes, you are whisked away around Wilson's Peak-on a sleigh ride, while in your bottonhole is an orange blossom you picked but a few hours before and your eyes are still regaled by the orange groves below.

CAN TALK WITH MONKEYS. A San Francisco Man Who is Believed Have Mastered the Simian Lingo.

San Francisco Examiner. A mysterious individual haunts Woodward's Gardens, to whom is attributed the gift of conversing with monkeys in their own language. He is a little old man who has seen about three score years and ten, but as he is always alone and speaks to no one very little is known about him. For nearly a year past the old gentleman has daily visited that former popular resort, deposits the entrance fee, and, as quickly as his feeble strength will on his seamed and weather-beaten countenance, proceeds at once to the monkey cage.

The monkeys recognize him and set up a chattering and howling that would grate on a sensitive it, and beams on the quadrumana that make every effort to reach think that his soul was wrapped up in them.

Finally the noise subsides and the old man gazes into a dozen comical expectant faces pressed against the bars, with twenty-four pairs of bright eyes looking at him, and utters a few guttural sounds that astonish and please the monkeys. He perfectly imitates the sounds of most of them, and all arrange themselves in a semicircle and with great seriousness listen to all he has to spect to every living issue, who in his say. Sometimes his tone is serious, record and his personality is the best when all the monkeys put on a very type we have of the illustrious achieveabject expression and look as sorrowful as a monkey can. Then again, when the tones are different, the monkeys will dance about with every evidence of delight, and all begin to jabber at once, until the old man points his finger at one of the largest. All remain silent while he seemingly carries on a conversation with one of the older ones, imiof a monkey as well as any human being could. Sometimes the conversation lasts an hour or more, when the little man bids his friends adieu until the mor-

It is said by some that the little man was once a sea captain, whose crew were murdered by the natives on the coast of Brazil, and he made his escape to the forests of the interior with no companions but the monkeys for many months, and subsisted entirely on the wild fruits and other food berries that he could gather. It is supposed that he obtained some knowledge of their method of communication during the months of his enforced residence in the wilderness that enables him to engage the attention of the monkeys at Woodward's Gardens.

When accosted the old man will not reply, and his mysterious behavior is a source of much comment.

THE PRINCE OF WALES

Continuation of the Crusade by Press and People on Account of the Baccarat

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. LONDON, June 16.-The popular crusade against the Prince of Wales shows no signs of abating in strength or bitterness, After a lecture delivered at Carnarvon, Wales, by Henry M. Stanley, the band played "God Bless the Prince of Wales. The Welshmen, however, no sooner heard the first strains of the familiar air than they raised a storm of hisses which almost drowned he voice of the band. At seven reigious meetings held in various parts of the country yesterday, the Prince of Wales was roundly denounced for the share he took in the baccarat scandal. At the Methodist Conference now being held at Leeds, the visit to Tranby Croft was classed as a "gambier's orgie." In a letter published to-day in the Pall Mall Gazette the writer asks why a captain in the Household Regiment who is wanted by the police in connection with the Cleveland street scandal, who is now residing in Tunis, should have been allowed to resign, when Sir William Gordon Cumming was dismissed from the army for his share in the Teanby Croft scandal.

As evidence of the attitude of the press and public on the question of royal prerogatives, a letter which is published in to-day's issue of the Standard, which is a sturdy Conservative organ may be cited. The writer of this letter calls attention to the fact that during the course of the royal picnic at Virginia on Saturday last, some members of the family of the Prince of Wales violated the law relative to the close of the season for fishing by fishing in those waters. The writer calls upon the local authorities to prosecute the law-breakers under the statute, and not to exempt from punishment those members of the royal family who may be shown to have viois published by the Standard, goes far to show the feeling that has been aroused by the actions of the Prince of Wales. - Oxford Day: Rev. Dr. Black, Superintendent of the Orphan Asylum, has returned home from Granville court and brought with him, the orphan boy, Hudson, who was so cruelly whipped by a farmer named Carr. The little tellow had some ugly bruises on his body. The court fined Carr $500 and required him to pay the boy $150 and the Orphan Asylum $300.

The State Convention-McKinley Nominated for Governor with a Full State Ticket.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CGLUMBUS, Jnne 17.-The second day of the Republican State Convention of Ohio opened bright and clear. The sun was still warm and the heat very oppressive, but both heat and sun were powerless to abate the enthusiasm of the Republican hosts who had gathered n anticipation of the stirring scenes of the day.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported, amid applause, the name of Gen. Asa S, Bushnell, of Clark county, for permanent chairman of the Convention, and E. J. Kessinger, of Athens, for permanent secretary. Chairman Bushnell's address was brief. Nominations were declared in order, and ex-Gov. Foraker arose to present the name of McKinley for Governor. At the sight of the familiar figure of the ex-Governor and sturdy campaigner, the Convention fairly went mad with enthusiasm. For over applause and cheers a minute reverberated through the immense building, while Foraker bowed smilingly to the compliment. "Gentlemen of the Convention," he said, "I have now a most pleasing duty to perform. This contest upon which we are about to enter is to be in some respects of unusual character. While it is to be hoped that we are not to be called upon to confront greater number of enemies in the agregate, yet surely it is known that we are to be compelled to contend against a greater variety than ever before. In the irst place, we must fight that time-honored enemy, the Democratic party, which,-it would appear, that even the Devil himself could not kill [Applause.] And in the next place, nobody yet knows how many third parties. Laughter We do know, however, that the political shibboleth of each and every one of these political organizations will be "anything to hurt the Republican party." [Laughter] Not only is the governorship of the great State of Ohio it stake but that contest involves more than the governorship, more than the General Assembly, more than public institutions. It reaches out into National politics. The United States senator will depend upon its result, and more important still than all this, it will deter mine whether this great State of Ohio is to go into the next great National contest of 1892 at the head of the Republican or at the head of the Democratic column. [Applause] We shall win this fight:

but we must not be content with sim ply winning it. We must win it triumphantly, decisively, overwhelmingly; and to that end we must select for our standard-bearer that man who of all others can most surely command our undivided strength. We must have as our leader

a fit representative of our views with re-ments and moral grandeur of Repub canism. "This Convention to-day means tha 500,000 Republican voters of Ohio have got together and are proud of this party and its principles; proud of its represer tation in official place, in both State and nation. We are proud of the conservative, patriotic General Harrison, who sits in the White House. [Cheers.] We are proud, too, of that brilliant magnetic statesman who has taught law tating all the grimaces and actions to Europe with respect to America-James G. Blaine. [Cheers, hat-tossing and fan-waving for over a minute.] We are proud, also, of the representation of Ohio in the Cabinet of the President of the United States in the person of one

Charles Foster. [Applause.] Ohio is the Lookout Mountain of the political battles on which we are enter ng, and Wm. Mckinley, Jr., is the Joe Hooker of the Republican party [cheers] and we are the boys [laughter] who in tend to follow him up its slope and rugged mountain sides, and help him plant the flag of Republicanism in triumph there, [applause,] and next year, inspired by this glorious achievement all the columns from Maine to Oregon will be turned against the common enemy and as to them it will be as to Bragg in 1865. [Laughter.] Their lines will be broken and before the resistless onslaught they will be swept back into the depths of defeat and despair. [Ap-

CHICAGO MARKET REVIEW.

Fluctuations in Prices of Grain and Provisions.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. CHICAGO, June 17,-Wheat displayed a good deal of strength at the start and for a time ruled 160% cent above yesterday's close. News generally favored the bulls. July opened at 96 against 95% c at the close yesterday, and sold up to 96%c. But at this point New York parties began to sell heavily, selling became general and prices quickly weakened, July falling off to 95%c. It fluctuated within a narrow range during the remainder of the session and closed at 95%c the same price on yesterday.

Corn was strong and the bulls buoyant, July selling up 2 cents from yesterday's close, subsequently lost about 1 cent on the decline, recovered part of it. Cash corn went to a premium of 41/4c; the shorts covered fully, outside buying orders were generous, and the selling crowd seemed to be pretty well bailed out. July opened at 56@56%c, sold at once to 56%@56%c, broke to 56%@ 55%c, and advanced to 57%c. The market was also helped after it passed the call price by purchases made against calls sold. But the demand gradually slacked, offerings increased, and the market lost some of its strength. and July fell to 561/2c. There was another fall to 561/sc, and the close was Oats were disposed to follow corn and

CONFEDERATE MONUMENT

Unveiled at Pensacola, Fla.-Imposing Ceremonies - A Great Gathening.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. PENSACOLA, June 17.-To-day has witnessed the greatest assemblage ever gathered within Pensacola's limits, the Middling .......... 8 1-16 " ccasion being the unveiling of a Confederate monument. The monument is located in the centre of R. E. Lee square, the site being eighty feet above the waters of the bay. The monument is constructed of granite from Richmond, Va., surmounted by a figure representing a Confederate soldier of 1865, modelled from a painting belonging to the State of Virginia and hanging in the capitol at Richmond. The whole structure is over fifty feet high. Every military organization in the State—save two—being fourteen in number-participated in the parade. The head of the procession, which was formed a mile from the monument, reached that point before the formation was completed. The inscriptions upon the monument are as follows: South face—"A. D. 1861—A. D. 1865.

The renowned heroes of the Southern Confederacy, whose joy it was to suffer and die for the cause they believed to be just. Their unchallenged devotion and matchless heroism shall continue to be the wonder of ages. East face-"Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America; soldier, statesman, patriot, Christian; the only man in our nation without a country, yet twenty million people mourn his death." West face-"Edward Eglesworth Perry, Captain of the Pensacola Rifles, Colonel of the Second Florida Regiment, General of the Florida Brigade, in the Army of Northern Virginia. Among the first to volunteer in the defence of his adopted State. Faithful in every position to which his merit advanced him. his life and deeds constitute his best monument." North face-"Stephen R. Mallory, Secetary of the Navy of the Confederate States of America. 'Tis not in mortals to command success, but we'll do more, Sempronius: we'll deserve it.' This monument furnished the first monumental recognition of Jefferson Davis. The exercises were as follows: W. D. Chipley, Master of Ceremonies introduced Rev. H. S. Yerger, who opened the exercises with prayer. Song by school children-"My country, 'tis of thee."

The monument was unveiled by Miss lennie Henderson, of Tallahassee, grandlaughter of Col. Ward, of the Second Florida Regiment, who fell at Williamsburg, Va, Music-"Dixie."

NOT ONE SORE NOW.

Baby Afflicted with Bad Sores and Eruptions. No Relief. Permanently Cured by the Cutieura.

During the summer of 1889 my eighteen-months' old infant was so afflicted with eruptions that ordinary domestic remedies failed to give any relief. On his hips would often appear the seeming track of a little wire-like worm, and on other parts of his body had sores cyme and remained till I procured the CUTTCURA REMEDIES. For some time I used the soap and salve without a blood medicine, but they did not do so well as when all were used together. It has now been nearly a year since the eruption was healed, and I very much feared it would return with the warm weather of this year, but the summer is passed and not one sore has appeared on him.
MRS. A. M. WALKER,

Sore from Waist Down.

I had three of the best physicians in Paducah, and they did me no good. I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and they have cured me sound and well. I was sore from my waist down with eczema. They have cured me with no sign of return. I owe my life to CUTICURA, for without a doubt, I would have been in my grave had it not been for your remedies. Allow o return my sincerest thanks,
W H. QUALLS, Paducah, Ky.

Cuticura Remedies.

If the thousands of little babies who have been cured of agonizing, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases could write, what a host of letters would be received by the proprietors of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Few can appreciate the agony these little ones suffer, and when these great remedies relieve in a single application the most distressing eczemas and itching and burning skin diseases, and read read active as a seady and accurate the seady said accurate the seady and accurate the seady accura and point to a speedy and permanent cure, it is posi-tively inhuman not to use them without a moment's
