"THE ENEMY."

We expected to find in the address of the President of the Alliance at its regular annual meeting a statement of the condition and progress of the order, but we didn't find it. We found instead a Third party message, a document the purpose and inspiration of which was to bolster up the Third party and rope the Alliance as a body into it.

He doubtless had good reasons for his stlence as to the growth and progress of the order, for there is a pretty well grounded belief that since Marion Butler and his Third party assistants have been bringing their pressure to bear to force the Alliance into the Third party the Alliance has not only ceased to grow. but has begun to decay, and that the order is far from being numerically as strong now as it was twelve months ago. One thing is certain, and that is if it was increasing in membership the President would not have failed, especially when it is so often asserted that the membership is decreasing, to have called attention to it, for that would have been an emphatic negative to the assertion to the contrary. His silence, under the circumstances, may be taken as pretty conclusive evidence that Third partyism is destroying the Alliance.

We refer to this address because it shows how far the Alliance has been diverted from its original purposes by the political aspirants who have wormed themselves into it, and to show the tricky methods that President Butler resorts to to deceive the people to whom and for whom he speaks.

After referring to the steady "progress?" of the Alliance towards the Third party, he delivers himself

"While the organization has been making this progress, what has the enemy been doing? And here we might ask who the enemy is? When, under unjust conditions, a certain class or people are robbed of the fruits of their labors, some other class gets and accu-mulates what the other loses. The great majority have been losing their wealth, the fruits of their labors; a small majortheir wealth, earned and produced by the majority. Then the enemy is this small class who are not wealth-creators, but who are rapidly accumulating the wealth of the country—this class, and those who serve them either for pay or from ignorance and party prejudice, as fossooth many or all of us did until re-

This is a purposely deceptive and a shamefully dishonest paragraph. He asks "what was the enemy doing," and then answering his own inquiry proceeds to tell who the "enemy" is. and dishonesty and also his folly. Every one who has accumulated Republican party is? Col. Harry will respond promptly with the cash. wealth at the expense of others are Skinner would not have the hardihood It is not fair to read a paper without the "enemy." And not only these to say yes to either of these inquiries, | paying for it.

but "those who serve them either for pay or from ignorance and party prejudice as, forsooth, many or all of us did until recently" are enemies of the Alliance. "Until recently" Mr. Butler served them, according to his own confession, but whether for pay or from ignorance or party prejudice he does not enlighten us. According to Mr. Butler then all of the Alliance men who had not accepted the third party programme were enemies of the Alliance, which means, if it means anything, that the majority of the Alliance were its enemies, and it means further, that every man in the Alliance who refuses to jump onto the third party platform is an enemy of the Alliance and has no business in it.

But reading further on in the ad dress we discover whom he does realy pronounce the "enemy:"

"What is the enemy doing to preven unity of action? They are trying to blind the great issues at stake by appeals to sectional prejudice. Their scheme is to drown reform with prejudice, to divid reformers with the cry of force bill. The scheme will be worked by politician and the newspapers backed by tremen dous and powerful agencies. If he tried Mr. Butler couldn' more effectually have shown th hand he is playing than he did i this paragraph. Who is raising the "cry of Force bill" "to divide the reformers?" The Republicans are not using it for they are trying to dodge it. They don't like to hear it any better than Mr. Butler and his Third party associates do. It is the Democrats who are raising that cry to warn the people against the infernal schemes of the Republican lead ers to get possession of the ballo boxes in the South, a scheme in which they have the aid and comfort, whether intended or not, of the Third party statesmen like Mr. But ler. The enemy then, according to Mr. Butler, is the Democratic party. not the Republican party. There is no fight against the Republican party. His efforts will now be main ly devoted, as he said in his speech in the third party convention, to fighting the "enemy," the Democratic party, and while he is doing so giving the Republican party a lift. He and those who with him put a third party ticket in the field announced the fact by their refusal to accept Harry Skinner's condition that as between the Democratic and the Republican party they would rather see the Republican in power in this State. Mr. Butler shows his dishonesty in make it appear that the "enemy," that is the Democratic party, is responsible for all the ills that have befallen the people, and the robbery to which the many have been subjected for the benefit of the few. He speaks of one class as robbed by another class who have "accumulated their wealth earned and produced by the majority." Doesn't Mr. Butler know that the conditions to which he refers here are the result of policies pursued in the administration of the Government for the past thirty years, and that all this wealth-accumulating by the few at the expense of the many has been within this time? And doesn't Mr. Butler know that within all this time the Democratic party has not had full control of the Government at any time, so as to change that policy or adopt one of its own? And yet he would convey the impression that the Democratic party, which he pronounces the enemy, is responsible for this, and that therefore it is the enemy that the Alliancemen have to fight. If this was ignorance it would be ex-

this, because, taking together the

MINOR MENTION.

Col. Harry Skinner declined the Third party nomination for Governor because the convention refused to accept a condition that he made, that he be permitted to withdraw if the Republicans nominated a ticket. His reason for making the condition was that he did not wish to become instrumental in returning the Republican party to power, and overthrowing white supremacy in North Carolina. He was afterwards nominated for Congress in his district, made the same condition, which the convention refused to accept, and he declined that nomination. But he accepts the nomination for Third to fight it out on that line. His alleged reason is his antipathy to Cleveland, who, he says, is in sympathy with Wall street, or the money power. For sake of argument, admitting this, which however is not true, is Mr. Cleveland any more in sympathy with Wall street than Benjamin Harrison is? Is the Democratic party, which Col. Skinner, who calls himself a Democrat, is fight ing and trying to destroy as a Here is where he shows his deceit national organization, any more in subscribers who are indebted to us sympathy with Wall street than the for the WEEKLY STAR, and hope they and yet he is pursuing an inconsistent and self-stultifying course, the only effect of which will be, if it has any effect, to help re-elect Benjamin Harrison and keep the Republican party in power. He rightly deprecates and thinks the overthrow of white supremacy in North Carolina would be a great calamity, and yet he is working to perpetuate the only party in this country which has ever contributed directly or indirectly to that. In fighting the Democratic party Harry Skinner is fighting for the Republican party, and he knows it.

The defenders of the McKinley tariff tell us that farm produce has advanced in price eighteen per cent. since the passage of the McKinley bill. They assert that this is one of the happy results of the McKinley tariff and that therefore it is a great thing for the farmer. It is not true that farm produce has advanced eighteen per cent, and it is not true that the advance is in any way the result of the McKinley tariff. The demand for farm produce and the better prices received were simply the result of the short grain crops in Europe, making it necessary to import an extraordinary quantity of food stuffs to feed the starving people in Russia, and to supply the shortage in other countries which had in former years imported much wheat and rye from Russia, The tariff had nothing to do with it. But if it hadn't been for the tariff our grain-shippers would have received still better prices for they could have exchanged their grain for such merchandise as there would be sale for in this country, and they would thus have found a market for more grain than they do now with tariff restrictions in the way. But conceding for sake of argument that the tariff had the effect of raising prices, who was benefitted by it but the grain growers of the West? Has it raised the price of cotton, the great staple of the South? Not much. And yet the Southern farmer is asked to keep in power the party which helps the farmer of the West, legislates to raise the price of his grain which the Southern planter buys, and lets the Southern planter shift for himself and get along the best he can. The Republicans are patting the Third party people in the South on the back, for that's what they expect the Third party contingent.to do.

United States ex-SenatorB K. Bruce, colored, now Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia, (one of the best offices in the District, by the way), has recently been on a tour of inspection in some of the Southern States, to see and report the situation on the field of politics. On his return to Washington he unbosomed himself thus to a reporter of the

"The outlook from a Republican point of view is, I think, auspicious, most encouraging and satisfactory, and the prospects of a handsome victory by a thor oughly united party, minus assistant Democrats, Mugwumps et al., were never better, never filled with brighter hopes nor fortified with better cheer. "The signs are ominous, and, as I said before, full of hope and encouragement and before the campaign shall have thoroughly opened every vestige of the disgruntlement so laboriously harped upon will have evaporated, and we will have an old-time victory for Harrison and Reid, reciprocity, good government, peace, prosperity and plenty. "How do the colored people like Har rison?" asked the reporter. "No man who has ever occupied th Presidential chair has had their confi lence to a greater degree than Mr. Harrison. He has done all in his power to protect them in the exercise of their egal rights and has appointed a greater number of them to office than any of his predecessors. The colored voter is emphatically a Harrison man.

This is the situation as B. K Bruce sees it. It is evident that he sees no indications of the colored sovereign deserting Mr. Harrison and going over to the Third party. cently changed their subscriptions to And yet the Third party engineers profess to be able to control colored votes enough with disappointed Democrats to carry a half dozen Southern States for Weaver. Bruce knows his people better than they do, if they believe what they say.

Jerry Simpson has got himself into deep water among his Kansas constituents and all because he innocently declared in a paper he wrote for a Boston review that things had come to such a pass in his State that "the men were selling their honor and their manhood and the women their virtue." Now he is busy trying to explain to his indignant constituents how he didn't mean that. Perhaps it was like the resolution to pay the soldiers the difference between greenbacks and gold. A mere expression of "sentiment" which wasn't to count. In retaliation for Mr. Harrison's retaliation proclamation the Canadians of Hamilton cancelled an engagement with Gilmore's band. But Gilmore's band didn't propose to have its wind cut off in that style, party elector at large and proposes and said they'd be blowed if they didn't bow anyhow. And then they went and retaliated with their horns.

THE RICE CROP.

The rice crop on the Cape Fear river s unusually fine and far better than any in the last few years. The weather has been favorable to the crop and the only danger now is from storms, that some times play havoc with the most encouraging prospects. Rice planters never feel safe until the equinoctial storm period has passed.

The crop in South Carolina and Georgia is also fine. It is about ten days ate and the acreage in Georgia is considerably less than last year.

The Louisiana planters have already begun threshing rice, and in fact their rice is already on the market. Louis iana will this year raise the largest rice crop in her history. The crop will reach up into millions of bushels. Last year Louisiana raised over 1,000,000 sacks of rice. This year, it is claimed the crop will be several times that amount. A million sacks is equal to 8,400,000 bushels.

Rice planting was only begun in Louisiana to any extent about filteen years ago, and now it appears that that State will soon be able to supply the demands of the entire country. Altogether, it is probable that for th first time since the war this country will raise all the rice it needs at home. The importations of Japan rice that were made in the spring are about exhausted, and the stock remaining on hand will not affect the market as was the case last year. Prices are expected to rule low on account of the immense supply and also because if at any time the prices exceed a certain limit, importations of Japan rice will be made by the

Young Lady Killed by Lightning i

Brunswick County. Information was received last nigh from Farmer's Turnout, in Brunswick county, of a most distressing occurrence near that place yesterday at noon-the killing of Miss Kate Potter by a flash of lightning. Miss Potter was an estimable young lady, the daughter of Mr. Ben Potter, who lives about two miles south of the Turnout. She was visiting her sister, Mrs. Lyles, wife of the section master at the filteen-mile post, and was seated in their house with the family at the time. The house was struck by lightning, but no one besides Miss Potwas injured.

SERIOUS AFFRAY Near Whiteville-One of the Parties Not Expected to Live-Two Bad Accidents-Rev. E. W. Wooten Painfully Hurt. WOOTEN, N. C., Aug. 28.

DEAR SIR: Your correspondent has been informed that a little affray occur- claimed for Brunswick. red at Pine Log on the W., C. & A. R. R., about two miles from Whiteville, N. C., between Bill Butler and Queen Dy-son, in which Butler received such injuries he is not expected to live. Dr ackson was summoned and he pronounced him in a critical condition. Both were either drinking or drunk, The weapon used was a hand-car pole. Your correspondent did not visit the scene, but he obtained the above from a reliable source. Mr. H. B. Collin, of this place, re ceived-a bad wound a few days ago by falling off a fence. Also, Rev. E. W. DEATH OF DR. THOS. F. WOOD.

It is our sad duty to-day to chronicle he death of one of the most distinuished physicians and one of the best nep in North Carolina, Dr. Thomas F. Wood of this city passed away yesterday about 2 o'clock, p. m., and the ouncement of his death was received with sincere sorrow by this entire community-as it will be wherever he was known. And yet, we venture to say, that accompanying every expression of regret that was uttered, there was another, to the effect that it was well with him in the world to which he has been transferred.

Dr. Wood was a native of Wilmingon, and was fifty-one years of age, having been born in this city on the 23d day of February, 1841.

He was Assistant Surgeon of the Third N. C. Regiment during the late war, and has lived and practiced his profession in this city ever since 1865. He always kept abreast of the most advanced ideas in the science of medicine, and was recognized as an accomplished and learned physician by the most distinguished medical writers and practitioners in the country. He edited the N. C. Medical Journal, and contributed many valuable papers to it and other similar periodicals, as well as to the newspapers on general subjects, especially n the line of biography. He was a deligent and careful student of botany, and was perhaps as well informed upon the botany of North Carolina as any of his contemporaries; and he was also unusually well informed upon the history of the State generally and particularly its military history. He was an ardent North Carolinian from boyhood, and did much for the State in peace and war.

We do not intend to give a full or exended account of his character or career in this brief notice; that will be done elsewhere and by competent hands. But we should fall far short of justice, and deny ourselves a satisfaction if we failed to say a special word as to Dr. Wood's Christian life and work in this community. He was one of the most devout and humble Christians that ever lived in Wilmington, and he showed his faith by his works, which were abundant and fruitful. His piety was an unostentatious but active and earnest force, which was felt and cordially recognized by all with whom he came in contact. He was a member of St. James' Church, and entered into rest with a calm and confident trust in God's promise to those who believe in His Blessed Son.

It has not been without anxious hought and frequent misgivings that I have reached this conclusion, for the training of young men for the gospel has been justly recognized in responsible work to which it could call sons, and at this particular juncture, the chair to which I was called offered one who wishes to see our Southern Church increase its efficiency in active, aggressive work for Christ. But a calm and deliberate survey of the whole situation, together with the considerations that you have so lovingly and faithfully urged upon me, has convinced me that even if the other work is greater, the work of this Church is my work. I look to your faithful support and co-operation in every effort to advance the interest of this Church and bring it to the highest point of efficiency and usefulness, to lemonstrate to the Church at large the visdom of this decision.

I need hardly say that I have been profoundly moved by the resolutions dopted by the Church, by the Edgar Woods Society, the Ladies' F. M. Society, the Ladies' Aid Society and the young people of the Church, and by the many personal words that I have received in private conversation and by etter from our now scattered people. While my heart has gone forth in responsive love to you, it has gone up in orayer to God that I might be more worthy of your love and confidence.

I can assure you that at no moment of this period—even when the claims of the Seminary seemed most likely to prevail-have I been one whit less keeny alive to every interest of this Church than during all these years when it has absorbed all my thoughts and all my energies. Its most devoted member could not have felt more anxious solicitude for the future of its work and the rogress of its development than has filled my waking and my sleeping hours. And now that the question is decided l hope to devote myself to its interests with new energy, and I pray that a new baptism from the Holy One may rest upon us as the seal of the Divine appro-

GERMAN-AMERICANS.

NEW YORK, August 22 .- The German

American Cleveland Union has issued an address, signed by Carl Schurz, Oswald Ottendorler, William Steinway, Henry Villard, Louis Windmuller and Gustave H. Schwarts. The address gives reasons why the signers think Cleveland deserves the votes of naturalized Germans. It says: "Above all. we wish to state that he is a thoroughly honest man, which fact his most loes do not dare to dispute. No one ever attempted to create the slightest suspicion in this respect. When he returned to private life, after having held the highest position in this country, his name was as unsulfied as that of Washngton. Among his most marked characteristics are his undoubted courage and his adherency to his conviction. his career as Governor of the State of New York and as President of the United States he demonstrated in the most impressive manner that in this respect he is second to no other historical character of this country. As the bearer of executive power, he invariably subordinated party interests to common welfare. He never hesitates to solve the most important question according to his own unbiased convictions, resisting all pressure rom other members of his own party On several occasions, seeing his party in danger of being misled, he successfully and unflinchingly withstood their pressnre without considering the opposition of party leaders. We need not refer to the firmness which, notwithstanding the strong position of his party in the South and the West to bring about unlimited coinage of silver, he unhesitatingly warned them of the danger liable to arise from such a policy. His innate sense of duty cannot be better proved than by the fact that during his Prasidential administration as well as during his second candidacy, he never was a favorite with machine politicians whose aim was their own welfare. Grover Cleveland also distinguised nimself by more than an ordinary measure of political sagacity and statesmanlike foresight. This not only by his determined on the silver question, he has shown himself to be an admirable exponent of these qualities and by his highly creditable treatment of the tariff question orever secured for himself one of the most conspicious places in the history of our Republic. He keenly recognized in the protictive system, fostered by Republicans for so many years with the tendency of levying more oppressive duties, a steadily growing evil that required immediate and strong remedies. and he fearlessly expressed his views in his celebrated message to Congress. It was inscribed on the banner under which his whole was united. There is no doubt that by following the same banner it will win another victory at the end of the present campaign. Therefore, we earnestly beseech our fellow citizens to aid us in securing the election of Grover Cleveland, the independent, far sighted statesman, the true patriot, the honest and

We expect hearty co-operation on the part of German-Americans, more so as we are convinced they particularly should favor his candidacy as a true and people which are his triumphant sentiments. We do not hesitate to make this appeal to our countrymen, because the platform of the Democratic party is entirely satisfactory in regard to the main question. It calls for civil service reform; it advocates that gold, silver and paper money be placed on absolutely

TALMAGE IN THE SOUTH,

. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. BIRMINGHAM, August 22 .- Dr. Talnage to-day addressed the largest assembly ever gathered-in Birmingham. The Town Hall was crammed with an audience of 800 persons, and outside there hovered 30,000 more people, whom Dr. Talmage addressed from his carriage, alter the services in the hall. On the way back to the hotel Dr. Talmage was informed that 10,000 persons were still waiting on the other side of the Town Hall to hear him. He immediately returned and briefly addressed them, and the immense crowd, estimated at 20,000, sang "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow." The main doors of the hotel had to be bolted ahead of the doctor's carriage. CAR BLOWN UP.

Supposed to be the Work of Strikers at

Carnegie's Mills. By Telegraph to the Morning Star PITTSBURG, August 24.-A car loaded with ingots was blown up with dynamite or some other high explosive on the side-track of the Alleghany Valley rallroad early this morning. It was consigned to Carnegie Co.'s Thirty-third street mill. Fortunately there was no one within a hundred feet of the car when it was blown up, and fragments, which were scattered in every direction. did no injury. Vigilance of the police has not relaxed since the first guard was stationed around Carnegie's plants to protect property as well as the lives of non-union men employed in the mills, but placing of the explosive under the car was done while the officers were within a few feet of the track, yet they did not know anything about it until the explosion occurred, and have no clue to for the crimes.

By telegraph to the Morning Star FALL RIVER, MASS., Aug. 24.-Facts vere placed before the public to-day that Bridget Sullivan had long before he tragedy of the Borden home, fided to intimate friends certain facts which leave little doubt that there had been constant warfare going on in the Second street house. Mrs. Borden and her step-daughters were on anything but pleasant terms with each other, although the former tried in every way to establish pleasant relations. Lizzie showed more antipathy toward the elder woman than did her sister. It is supposed that at the inquest Bridget Sullivan divulged a great deal of important information of this character, and furnished the Government broad grounds on which to base the theory of motive ecautions Taken by the Government. By Telegraph to the Morning Star. WASHINGTON, D. - Raleigh Chronicle: The August drought is pronounced the worst in twenty years. --- Dr. James Law, a graduate of Cornell University, will be the assistant instructor in agricultural science at the Agricultural and Mechanical College. — The grape crop is nearly all picked. The hot weather injured it greatly. Grapes dried up on the vines. Though the season opened about two weeks late, yet it ended nearly as soon as in ordinary season. -- At the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue it is learned that there are now 221 licensed fruit brandy distilleries in this district. During the past year there were 520. There are now 96 registered liquor distilleries. At one, at La Grange, rum is made. The others all make corn whiskey.

- Raleigh News and Observer: On the Main street of this city in broad day Saturday afternoon, was enacted the most heartless tragedy that ever took place here. Thos. Allison, tobacco receiver for one of the tobacco factories here, shot and instantly killed W. H. Brown, shipping clerk for the mammoth tobacco concern of Sparger Bros. in cold blood. Allison was a brag marksman and had killed three men before Brown was a highly respected gentleman, who came from Georgia and is a strong Pythan. Yesterday Allison told Brown he could beat him in a foot race. Brown took it in fun and said he bet he couldn't, whereupon Allison said he would put up money and would be on hand this evening. He and own met and A cause Brown would not run. The former was drinking. While passing along on main street together in the business portion of the city, Allison told Brown he was not a man of his word and some short language passed. It is said Allison struck him with a stick and then dropped his stick and took out his pis-Brown seized the cane and before he could defend himself Allison shot him twice and snapped his pistol the third time. Brown reeled and fell, one ball taking effect in the breast and another in the side. Everybody turned out to run Allison down and he was soon captured. - Raleigh Chronicle: The execuive committee of the Board of Agricultural and Mechanical College met yesterday afternoon and accepted the resignation of Mr. J. R. Chamberlain as Professor of Agriculture. The Board then considered the matter of filling the vacancy and decided that Prof. Emery of the Experiment Farm, with assistance whan necessary, could fill the position until a suitable person can be found to fill the chair permanently .-- The exact value of the building burned at Caraleigh was $27,000. The insurance is $17,000. It is in eighteen companies. and the largest amount at risk in one of these is $1,275. Yesterday lumber was ordered for a new building, and if the orders for this and machinery can against the surging crowd, which ran be filled promptly Superintendent Chamberlain thinks the building will be in shape for work again in sixty days -The news of the crops in many and perhaps most parts of the country is not favorable. In some sections the crops are ruined. People are cutting down corn and saving it for forage, the ears not having matured by reason of the lack of moisture. Yet some parts of the county crops are sood. That is the state of affairs in this ownship, and in Middle Creek township the farmers say the crops are as good as they could desire. The twenty-six veterans from the Soldiers' Home who went to the encampment at Wrightsville returned yesterday. They say they had a grand time. One old soldier said, "God bless the ladies of Wilmington; we will never forget them." The people of Goldsboro served all the veterans with a fine dinner as they passed through that town. This was also a source of delight to them. -The town of Walnut Cove is greatly stirred up over a sensation which occurred there Friday night. Wesley James, a wealthy batchelor, who lived a life of recluse, never associating or having dealings with his neighbors, died there very suddenly. About one month ago stranger, named Grogan, came to ames' place. He purported to hail from Virginia. The stranger has suddenly turned up with a will from Mr. James, in which he leaves him all the property of the deceased. Grogan also holds deeds to all the lands of James. Great excitement prevails. Only twenty-five dollars in money can be found belonging to the deceased, hence there is strong supposition that the old man was murdered for his money. - There are now 179 convicts in the penitentiary and about 1.000 outside. Of the latter, all save 125, who are on the Great Falls canal, near Weldon, are on the farms near Weldon and at Castle Hayne. None are now in railway work.
