GOD, IF TRUE.

Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary the Interior, has been quoted as say ing within the past few days that the President is in favor of the repeal of the State bank tax and that when the tariff bill now before the Senate is disposed of he will send a special message to Congress upon that subject. As far as we know it was not stated what he will recommend but the probabilities are that he will favor the repeal upon certain conditions to apply to the State banks that may be established after the repeal. The President has committed himself unreservedly to maintaining a sound and stable currency. This was the ground upon which his veto of the seigniorge bill was based, and the ground upon which he would veto any silver bill that might be abled the Sugar Trust to buy its raw passed unless accompanied by an act providing for keeping up the supply of gold to enable the Government to promptly meet its obligations in gold. In his veto message he virtually admitted the necessity of increase in the volume of the currency when he said he believed the seignlorage could be coined with safety provided authority were given for the issue of of the pockets of the people, whether bonds when in the judgment of the Secretary it might be necessary to keep up the gold reserve. As there is not the slightest probability that silver men in Congress will ever give the Secretary authority to issue bonds at his discretion, it is evident that if there is to be any material increase in the volume of currency during this administration it must be by the establishment of State Whether the President thinks this way or not there are thousands of his fellow citizens who the sugar cane, but of the rich men do, as there are thousands who who own large plantations and regret that he didn't recommend sugar mills, which now require something of this kind before the expensive machinery, which the North Carolina asparagus, $3.50 to $5.00 silver question was sprung.

Guthrie. A young white man, about twenty years of age who gave his name as John Reynolds, was arrested in this city yesterday, charged with stealing $310 in gold and currency from Mr. John W. Guthrie, a boiler maker, living on Sixth street, between tle and Queen. Reynolds arrested early in the forenoon by Constable Millis at the house of Etta Willard on South Fourth street and was put in jail to await an investigation of the case before Justice R. H. Bunting.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the accused was taken to the office of the magistrate. Reynolds was attended by counsel, Messrs. A. J. Marshall and Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., Jr., while Herbert Mc-Clammy, Esq., appeared for the com-

Mr. Guthrie, from whom the money is alleged to have been stolen, testified that Saturday night last he was at the Opera House waiting to purchase a ticket, when Reynolds, whom he had met once before, tapped him on the shoulder and asked him to have a drink. They went down town and had several drinks together. "I got full," he said, "and Reynolds went home with me, going into my room. We both went to bed; he blew out the light. About one o'clock he left, and when I recovered from the effects of the spree, $310 was missing out of my trunk. I had $700 in it. I had a warrant issued for Reynolds and identified him at Etta Willard's, on Fourth street, where Constable J. W.

RATTLING RAILROAD RACE:

Thousand Mile Bade Between Trains Over the Atlantic Coast Line and the Righmond and Danville Route:

The Florida Times-Union of Saturday gives the annexed report of an exciting railroad race between rival lines. It appears that the R. & D. claims a victory; but, read by the light of THE MORNING STAR, it seems from the accounts given by both sides that it was the "other fellows" who won:

When the Savannah, Florida and Western and Atlantic Coast Line and the Florida Central and Peninsular and the Richmond and Danville announced some days ago that each would run a through hotel help train from Jacksonville to New York, leaving on Thursday and at the same hour and within a few minutes of each other, all the railroad men in Jacksonville and along the two ines clear to the destination, knew that t was going to be a race, a race for a thousand miles and a race for blood. Just before the race there flashed out orders from the dispatcher's office in both railroads to have the track cleared. to sidetrack everything for the hotel help specials, and they did it, and the two trains went through screaming. The F. C. & P. and R. & D. had the advantage of a line thirty-eight miles shorter than the S., F. & W. and Atlantic Coast Line and saved twelve miles more by not running into Savannah, having an engine in waiting at the junction. The S., F. & W. put in to Savannah and spent fifteen minutes there for Yesterday afternoon another special came from New York with the announcement that the Savannah, Florida and Western arrived at 8.20 and the Richmond and Danville at 8.45. The time of leaving of the Savannah, Florida and Western train from this city was 10.15 and tye Florida Central and Peninsular left at 10.86. The time of the Savannah Florida and Western between this city and New York was twenty-eight hours and twenty minutes, and that of the Richmond and Danville and Florida Central and Peninsular twenty-eight hours and twenty-four minutes. There were just four minutes difference in the time spent on the road between the two trains, and that was in favor of the Savannah, Florida and Western, consider ing the thirty-eight miles longer hau was greater than that of its rival. It was a close race, and one of the most exciting ever run in the world. The actual running time of the trains was over lorty miles an hour. Both railroads run help trains out on the 11th, and it is whispered around that it is to be another race for more

The State Treasurer Sues.

A summons was received yesterday from Wake county by Sheriff Stedman, to be served on the former Directors of the late Bank of New Hanover. The suit on which the summons issued is brought by S. McD. Tate, as State Treasurer, against those who were Directors at the time of the failure of the bank, though they are not sued as Directors, but as individuals, according to the verbiage of the summons. There is nothing in the process to show the basis of the civil action; but it is presumed the object is to hold those who were Directors individually liable for the State's deposit in the Bank of New Hanover when it failed. The defendants are summoned to appear at the next term of Wake Superior Court, to begin April 28d.

WHAT A FORMER TILLMAN SUP-PORTER SAYS OF THE OUTLOOK.

The Governor Playing a Desperate Game -The Men Forming the Constabulary Ruffians and Desperadoes-The Darlington Affair Only One Move on the Chess Board.

The New York Sun of the 6th instant gave the following as the result of an interview with a gentlemen who, while his picture may seem somewhat overdrawn, evidently knows what he is talking about:

"This Darlington tragedy is not the end of the matter in South Carolina. It is the beginning. It is not merely an obstinate effort on the part of Governor Tillman to enforce his obnoxious dispensary law; it is a deep-laid political scheme, with Winchester rifles back of it, and the election of Tillman to Senator Butler's seat next fall as its object. There are bad times in store for the "Palmetto State."

This is the prophecy of Mr. E, Motz made last night to a Sun reporter, regarding the condition of affairs in South Carolina. Mr. Motz, who has lived in South Carolina for fifteen years, is half owner of the Brewer gold mine, having been a partner of Senator Hearst, of Cal ifornia, who had an interest in the mine He is also the postmaster of Brewer Mine, and a Republican in politics, al though he voted for Tillman when the latter first ran for Governor. Mr. Motz arrived in the city yesterday, having come up from his home at Brewer Mine in the northeast of South Carolina. He has studied the political situation careully, and can see little but trouble in the

"In this fight," said he, "we are not combatting the dispensary law, although God knows that is obnoxious enough. s the way that it is carried out, the concomitant outrages that we are fighting. The dispensary law originally was a so to the Prohibitionists who elected Ti man. They were not satisfied with the way it worked, and when the Governor's first term was over he made a plea for re-nomination on the ground that he hadn't had a chance to try the law fairly. He was re-elected, and then he got his Legislature, which was merely pocket edition of a law-making mathine that he carried in his pistol pocket to pass amendments to the law, one of which gave him the power to appoint special armed constables to an unlimited extent at $2 a day and expenses. Then came the law giving right of search in private houses without warrant. These two things combined formed the basis of the worst kind of outrages by the constabulary.

'The men that formed the constabuary were ruffians and desperadoes. They were appointed because they were known to have killed their men. Now see what they proceeded to do. They went ahead to search private houses and private property in the hope of finding what we call 'blind tigers.' A 'blind tiger' is where liquor is sold clandes tinely. There are none in private houses; they are in drug stores or small notion stores. But Tillman sent his spies—every one calls them spies thereto search private houses. There were scores of outrages committed by these spies. Here are a couple of cases in point: in Charleston they broke into a room where a woman was in confinement, notwithstanding the protests of the nurse. They ransacked the room, turned everything inside out, and finally departed, having found noth-· The fright occasioned by their breaking in caused serious complications, and the sick woman was for a long time on the point of death. Another case not so serious, but just as senseless, was in Sumter, where a Charleston woman was visiting some friends. She drove to their house from the station, leaving her trunk at the station to be sent on afterward. Some one told a spy that the trunk contained whiskey. He broke it open, tossed out all the clothes, turned things upside down; then, having found nd whiskey, dumped the clothing, all muddled, back in, stamped it down and clused the trunk. The lady, who had previously sympathized with the Goveror, is now strongly anti-Tillman, Now, in regard to the Darlington ragedy, the trouble arose over a man named Floyd, whose brother is the dispensary clerk there. Floyd himself kept blind tiger, but he turned informant When the twenty spies arrived they were met by the mayor and the chief of police, who counselled them not to exercise the right of searching private houses, assuring them that there were no blind tigers in the houses. The spies then raided the blind tigers, one of them being at the hotel where a man named Rogers was clerk. When the spies went back to the station Rogers went with them and called Floyd a rascal and a traitor. . There was a fight and McLendon, the spy, interferred. Rogers went up town and meeting the Norment brothers returned with them. He and Floyd fought again and Chief of Police Dargan arrested them. In the course of his explanation to the chief. Rogers said that

McLendon had interferred to help Floyd. Frank Norment, who was sitting on a barrel said: "That's right, Rogers would have used ning up only for that."

"You're a liar,' said McLedon to Nor-"You're a liar yourself,' retorted Norment, jumping down from the barrel. and as he spoke McLendon drew a pisol, thrust it between the chief Rogers, and shot Norment dead, the point of his pistol being within four feet of his haart, McLendon yelled: "Let her roll, boys," and the fight followed. All this was told me by an eye-witness, who was one of the few men on that platform who wasn't hurt, and it is the correct account of the affair. "Now, the people were not fighting

Tillman's dispensary law there. They are not fighting it anywhere. They will ndt fight it. It is the outrageous and unconstitutional actions of the constables that we are fighting, and will continue to fight. This Darlington affair is only one move on the chess board and Tillman has plenty of other moves in reserve, and we shall see them later. He is playing a desperate game and staking every thing on his chances of winning. One must understand Tillman to understand the situation. Tillman's politics are simply Populistic Tillmainsm. He s a Populist, but he is for Tillman first, last and all the time. He is a demagogue, and therefor a liar. He is also a bully, and, like all bullies, something of a coward; but he has the pertinacity of a bull-dog. How, here is his programme as I and many others in South Carolina believe it to be: "His political chances are dwindling

The Prohibitionists have fallen away from him. The mechanics have deserted his standard. His one ambition in life is to be elected to Senator Butler's seat next fall. To do this he is contemplating a little private force bill of his own, with his dispensary spies for intimidators at the polls. It is his only chance. Wherever he establishes a new dispensary there is a new electioneering post for Tillman's candidates. Now, he understands the temper of South Carolinians. He knows that they will not endure his armed spies searching their houses, and he will goad them into resistance. You will find him causing uprising first in this place, then in that, Then by Fall, when election comes, and when the people are thoroughly exasperated, he will make some move that will cause an uprising. There is his chance. Martial law will be declared. chance. Martial law will be declared.

the editor who would publish it would do so with the knowledge that Winchester rifles and pistols were loaded for him. I tell you Tillman will stop at nothing. But unless I have read the people of South Carolina wrong, he will be defeated, even if every voter has to fight his way to the ballot box."

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

- Salisbury Herald : Six freight cars loaded with chickens came down the Western road yesterday morning, The chickens were fed and watered here and then forwarded to New York.

- Hillshoro Recorder: Will Dezern, one of the burgiars who robbed Mr. Ben. Kinion on the night of March 22nd, was brought out of jail and carried before Thomas D. Tinnin, J. P., Monday, Messrs. Graham & Graham, counsel for Dezern, waived an examination, and he was re-committed to fail. Mr. Kinlon has recovered nearly all of the $400 stolen from him

- High Point Enterprise: A man was arrested at Randleman last week and sent to jail for passing counterleit money. This makes the third case where Randolph men have been caught with counterfeit money, and it is believed that there is a regular "mint" in operation somewhere below Asheboro. The matter has been reported to the Federal authorities and they are now on the

- Lexington Dispatch: Farmers who were in town Monday attending the meeting of the County Commissioners talked freely in regard to the damage resulting from the freeze last week Some say that the wheat crop is injured fifty per cent., while others think it will revive and make some approach toward an average crop The opinion seems to be unanimous that winter oats will be killed outright. From all quarters we hear that there were no fruit this year.

Consum was the cause of her death. not an uncommon thing for rich specimens of go d ore to be picked up on the street where macadamizing is being done. It all the gold that is now on the streets were sold it would pay for the city hall and build the city an elegant park. That is what expert miners

- Wilson Advance: We learn that the acreage in tobacco culture in this county will be about the same as last year, but in Pitt and Greene it will be doubled. Wilson is looking forward to a big trade in the weed next fall. We are informed that at a church conference in Pitt county last Sunday, a good sister arose in meeting and asked for a collection to be taken up to send Winston. She was asked if she meant Winston, N. C., and she replied in the affirmative; adding that she desired the gospel carried to the heathen in Win-

- Charlotte News: The Charlotte broom factory is now in full blast and on the start is turning out thirty dozen brooms a day. The work is of such superior quality and the material so far above the average that the orders can hardly be kept up with. - This morning while at work planing a large piece of wood on the mammoth wood planer at the Wilkes Iron Works, Martin Salter, a colored man, got his left hand caught in the large planing cylinders and cut nearly off. The hand was shaved down to the bone, making the exact thickness of a thin plank. The pieces of flesh were scattered over the oom in a sickening manner. - Greensboro Record: Saturday night a wholesale raid was made on the store of R. A. McCracken, on Ashboro street, near the residence of G. T. Glascock. An entrance was effected through the back window and for their trouble the thieves got away with two boxes of fine tobacco, one box of costly cigars seven sacks of flour, 80 pounds of bacon sugar and other things "too tedious to mention," as they say in a sales bill - T. T. Major Young caught up with the young man's "crookedness" several days ago and dismissed him from his employ. At that time, however, he did not know that Hogan had caught him for so much. Bills which the young man collected continued to come in receipted. Major Young says that his shortage with him will amount to several hundred dollars. He lest here aying he was going to his home in Orange county. He has several brothers

"Deserves Generous Support." Newbern Journal

The Wilmington STAR is receiving many compliments for the enlarged Sunday edition, which it intends to continue, with a prospect, we believe, that the enlargement may be extended to the week day editions also. The STAR completed its 54th semi-annual volume on the 22d inst. It has been devoted to the interest of Wilmington and neighboring counties during those 27 years. It deserves generous support, and we are glad to see these evidences of its prosperity.
