WHEN JAMMY COMES FROM SCHOOL.

When Jimmy comes from school at four, [erusalem! how things begin To whirl and buzz and bang and spin And brighten up from roof to floor! The dog that all day long has lain Upon the back porch wags his tail And leaps and barks and begs again The last scrap in the dinner pail When Jimmy comes from school.

The cupboard latches clink a tune, And mother from her knitting stirs To tell that hungry boy of her's That sup ier will be ready soon. And then a slap of p e he takes. A cooky and a quince or two, And for the preezy barnyard breaks. Where everything cries, "How d'y do?" When Jimmy comes from school.

The rooster on the garden fence Struts up and down and crows and CTOWS As if he knows, or thinks he knows, He, too. is (I some consequence.

The guineas join the chorus, too, And just beside the window sill The red bird, swinging out of view On his high perch, begins to trill, When Jimmy comes from school.

When Jimmy comes from school, take care!

Our hearts begin to throb and quake With life and joy, and every ache Is gone before we are aware. The earth takes on a richer hue, A softer light falls on the flowers, And overhead a brighter blue Seems bent above this world of ours. When limmy comes from school. -Philadelphia Press.

MODES NOW IN VOGUE.

Gowns No Longer Plain-Plaits and Folds-Wide Stiffened Skirts. Sleeves were large enough in the early spring and have increased in dimensions ever since, so much so that a fashionably dressed woman, especially in evening toilet, can scarcely enter straight through doorway, but must turn in rather a crablike fashion, right shoulder foremost, to avoid crushing the balloon on the left arm. But, after all, when not too exaggerat-ed, the mode of embellishing the shoulders and making the bodice and sleeves the salient point in a costume is more elegan and more in unison with the lines of form than the opposite extreme of an immens circumference of skirt, crinoline, flounces and furbelows and tight bodices with plain sleeves, making the shoulders and bust look far too insignificant. The plain, close fitting skirts we have had lately are so becoming that for the next three months there may be little change, except a slight difference in the cut. The front and side breadths will be gored, and the back breadth plain (instead of en bias, as heretofore) and mounted on the band, with three large plaits at the back. These must be lined with horsehair or some stiff lining to keep them out. Nearly all the bodices are made with round waists, and belts are worn with them. Even the tailor made costumes are not plain, as formerly. For morning wear tailors are making up cloth or fancy woolen materials with three folds or plaits in front and one at the back of the bodice, and in this case there is one wide box plait in the back of the skirt, which appears a continuation of the aforesaid plait in the bodice, though divided by the belt or band, and naturally the skirt plait widens out toward the ground. The more dressy style of robes for visits and 5 o'clock teas is made of silk, moire or some rich material. There is generally a small yoke richly embroidered on velvet, the sleeves from elbow to wrist the same also the waistband.

Nearly all the jackets, mantles and capes have high standing open collars, much re-sembling the medici collar of three or four

With other strange forms of life found in far Patagonia is the armadillo, an ani-mal with habits that cannot fall to interest amateur naturalists. There are two forms of the armadillo. Roughly speaking, one is like a hairy guinea pig with a pointed turtle shell over its back and head, while the other is like a thick turtle without any breasting the the turtle without any breastplate. The former is very rare even in its haunts in the Andes. The latter is everywhere abundant. As described by though it eats a great many things that are repulsive to civilized tastes, the arma-dillo is itself a most delicious article of food for any human taste, civilized or uncivilized. The variety in its bill of fare seems but to add delicacy to its flesh. A writer in the New York Sun, who has in his journeyings eaten nearly every kind of fish, flesh and fowl served between Ivigtut, Greenland, and Ushuaia, Terra del Fuego, claims to have found nothing quite so much to his taste as an armadillo baked in the embers of an outdoor fire on the desert of Patagonia.

Effects of Temperature.

ist, show that animals and insects oppose a wonderful resistance to intense cold ob-tained from liquefied atmospheric air. A dog placed in a copper receiver at a tem-perature of -60 to -90 degrees C. showed a rise of bodily temperature of .5 in ten minutes, and after 1½ hours had only lost 1 degree. A little later, however, nature gave up the struggle, the temperature fell rapidly, and the animal died suddenly. Insects resist a temperature of -28 degrees, but not -35 degrees. We have been in this city very near seven years and have not lost all told one hundred dollars by credit customers. With a record as clean as this; with men to run the business that know no rule but to work and attend to every branch Mr. Edison wears no overcoat even in the coldest weather. He has three suits of nether garments, which he puts off and on according to circumstances.

Whymper, the famous Alpine climber and the first to ascend Chimborazo, broke his collar bone a little while ago in trying to go up stairs in London. Simon Bolivar, the South American patriot, was a little man, only 5 feet 4 inches in height. He never smoked, but was fond of dancing and lolling in a hammock.

Purcell, the most extraordinary musical genius that England ever produced, died at the age of 87 from a cold contracted by being locked out of the house by his termagant wife.

Ex-Mayor Richard Vaux of Philadelphia is 78 years old. He is still hale and hearty and the same picturesque figure that has attracted the attention of his fellow citizens for years past. Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone will prob ably spend some time during the winter at Cannes, where they are to be the guests of Lord and Lady Rendel at the Chateau de Thorene, which is one of the finest villas on the Riviera. The novelist B. L. Farjeon is, of all the Dickens school, the one who follows most closely the master's path. He was pnce a journalist in New Zealand, but an encouraging letter from Charles Dick ens induced him to return to England, where he has produced 20 novels.

It is related of President Andrew Jackson that once when his favorite servant Charles, the White House coach man, was taken with malignant small pox and no competent nurse would come Old Hickory himself took charge of the case and attended his servant till he was recovered. .

Judge William A. Vincent has been rominently mentioned for the mayoralty of Chicago. He is perhaps the only man to whom President Cleveland has ever tendered direct personal apology. The president removed him from the office of chief justice of the New Mexito supreme court, but gave him a similar appointment in Montana.

STAGE GLINTS.

Frederick Warde and Louis Jame have been liked in "The Lion's Mouth' at Chicago. Franklin MacLeay's performance of Iago is considered by many critics the best since Edwin Booth.

Dominick Murray was once in a company which was personally rehearsed by Charles Dickens, the novelist. Effie Stewart, who sang in "The Messiah," has since been successful as Santuzza with the Duff opera company. David Belasco has a new play, "Heart of Maryland," and it is said Palmet may put it on before "Trilby" is ready.

Lace is plentifully used to ornament odices, and some wonderful specimens of mitation guipure have been produced. Russet shoes, made in a kind of material known as Bordeaux calf, which has a distinot grain to it, are very much in demand for winter wear, both for men and women. They are made with both cork and double soles for outside wear.

Men's caps are principally of Scotch tweed of light color. The most popular of these is the "golf," which has an extreme-ly low and full crown that nearly covers Received the highest award, the visor.

A prominent feature this season is the adoption of the Scotch edge for children's walking shoes. This is an extra wide and overlapping style of sole, which is only used for outdoor wear and has the merit of pre-venting the child from kicking out the ces or wearing the shoe over at the side. Heads are still used on fur boas, but it is newer to fasten such boas with tails and paws. Some are double and encircle the paws. Some are double and encircle the throat, and some are lined with satin and are much brender. The long boas only reach to the knee, and feathers are worn as much as fur.

A Deadly Drama. Which is now on sale at The following strange story is told of the manuscript of "Elaine," a drama by George-Parsons. It was accepted and produced by Miss Annie Russell, but no sooner had the lady proceeded thus far than she was taken ill, which entailed C. E. Gordon's, the withdrawal of the piece. Thereupon Mr. Lathrop sent it to Miss Mary An-derson. "She liked it" and was actually in negotiation to produce it when she also became ill, 'desperately ill.'
