paper of the Government that the holders claim to be payable in gold. The gold standard organs and orators admit this, but still contend that it is "intrinsically" a 50-cent dollar, but passes current as a 100cent dollar because the Government is pledged to maintain it at a parity with gold and does it. This is a fraud, that is the way they say the parity is maintained is a fraud. The parity is maintained simply because the silver coin bears the stamp of the Government, is not redeemable in anything, but is a legal tender money which the taker knows he can pass for the same value that he paid for it. They do not assert that the silver dollar is redeemable in gold and therefore convertible into and as good as gold: they dare not do that, but they do it indirectly by saying that a silver dollar may be exchanged for a greenback dollar, the greenback dollar is redeemable in gold and therefore and thus the silver dollar is, and consequently all the silver dollars are redeemable in gold through the instrumentality of the convenient greenback.

This is the thinnest kind of a fraud. In the ordinary business transactions silver may be, and doubtless is, readily convertible into greenbacks, and the greenback dollar, the silver dollar and the gold dollar have for all practical purposes precisely the same value, but let a man undertake the business of converting his silver into gold, if he has enough to make it a matter of importance, by trading it off for greenbacks to get gold out of the Treasury, and see how long he can do that without paying a premium on the greenbacks, such a premium as would to enable the anti-McKinleyites to so reduce the profits on the gold as to discourage that kind of bartering. But the very fact that the silver dollar is not convertible into a gold dollar without the go-between agency of the greenback is proof conclusive that the parity is not maintained by virtue of convertiblity but in some other way. It is maintained simply because the people recognize the stamp on the coin and accept it at its the people, and that maintains the parity and makes the silver dollar, as far as the people are concerned, as good as the gold dollar.

This talk about the "intrinsic" value of the gold and silver dollar or any other kind of a dollar is nonsense. There is really no intrinsic value in them. Common usage and his reticent position or rather

The man who has done more than any other man to give him his present prominence and apparent hold on the masses of the Republican party and to whom he will be indebted for his nomination, which is pretty certain, and election, which is not so certain, is Mark Hanna, a large manufacturer in the city of Cleveland, who has managed his campaign from the beginning, spent much of his own money, and many thousands of dollars "contributed" by other manufacturers to carry States for McKinley, in which he has been remarkably successful. Mr. Cannon then presented a revised bill, omitting the French spoliation and Bowman actiwar claims and several andividual claims, all included in a single amendment, and mov.d that the rules be suspended and the bill be passed. This was opposed by Messrs. Mahon of Pennsylvania, Richardson of Tennessee. Evans of Tennessee and Wellington of Maryland, chiefly on the ground that the President had made no objection to the war claims and the House and Senate had voted that they ought to be paid. The House, however, refused to go with these gentlemen, and passed the bill-179 to 43.

Mr. Cannon then presented the latest report of the conferees upon the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, and it was agreed to.

The House refused to make any furher concessions regarding appropriations for public building and ordered a further conference.

Mr. Boutelle of Maine, Republican, called up the conference report on the Naval Appropriation bill, which had only shortly before been rejected in the Senate, and after some discussion ordered a further conference.
