TWO SIDES TO IT.

There has been much rejoicing over the "return of prosperity" as the result of the advance in the price of wheat and corn. There is reason for the rejoicing because the bulk of the money which goes into the hands of the farmers goes out again in payment of debts or for something the farmer needs, and thus others are benefitted as well as he, but there are two sides to the prosperity question, which should be considered by those who think that high priced wheat means general prosperity and that it is going to make the country rich. It toreign purchasers paid the in crease in price and consumed all that wis sold that might be so, but as a matter of fact the bulk of the wheat crop, over two thirds of it, is consumed at home and our home people, although surrounded by abundance, have to pay European prices, or prices based upon the short crops and demands of other countries.

In this respect there is some resemblance between the advance in foodstuff prices, resulting from the demand abroad, and the prices of manufactured articles, resulting from the high protective tariff. American consumers have not only to pay the higher prices on imported articles to offset the higher duties, but they have to pay proportionately higher prices on home manufactures, which go up because there is no foreign competition to keep them down, and thus what the people pay in the increase of prices on home products is in comparably greater than the amount they pay on imported articles, because the volume of home products consumed is so much the greater. So with the volume of foodstuffs. We export say about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, for which our shippers receive the foreign market price, and we have to pay propor tionate prices for the 400,000,000 bashels consumed at home, which means that while foreign importing nations pay the increased price on one-third of the wheat crop, home consumers pay the increase on the other two thirds, which means that while foreign purchasers pay for one-third of the "prosperity" boom our own people who buy flour pay for the other two thirds.

There are forty nine States and Territories. Out of these only nineteen produce wheat' enough to feed their own people. All the others have to buy more or less from them. But only a part of the people in these have wheat of their own, so that the others have to buy wheat from them and pay the advance in price. A very larger percentage of the wheat grown is consumed in the States, and sometimes in the counties where it is grown, so that the increased price begins to strike right at home. Of course this is to be expected for when there is an increase in the price of any article the consumer must pay it and when there is an increase in the price of wheat the bread buyer must pay more for his loaf or get a smaller loaf, which is the same thing.

This shows that the "prosperity' for which there is rejoicing does not come from abroad, but lays tribute for the larger part of the money which comes from it on the American people, many of whom receive no compensatory equivalent and consequently the prosperity which comes to the wheat seller imposes a heavier burden upon them.

None of the Eastern, Middle or Southern States raise wheat enough to supply their own needs, and are all buyers to a greater or less extent from the nineteen States and Terri tories which do, and they all contribute their proportionate part of he tribute which goes into the pockets of the wheat growers of those States and Territories, and into the pockets of the men who speculate upon the wheat. It wouldn't be so bad if it all went into the pockets of the farmers, for then more of it would go back into the channels of trade again.

While the farmers are to be con gratulated upon, and while they deserve the "prosperity" that is coming to them, a large advance in the price of any staple of food is not an unmixed cause for rejoicing, un less there is a corresponding increase in wages and in the earning capacity of those who have to buy foodstuffs. Otherwise the American workman is put precisely in the same predicament as the workman of the countries which have to import their breadstuffs, and where dear loaves follow short supplies. Money becomes "cheaper," that is buys less while there is no more of it to buy with. The man who earns a dollar a day finds that he can't live any better on that than he could on seventy-five cents a day before the high prices came.

The only remedy for this state of ness. 25c.

affairs is an increase in the volume of money to stimulate industries, with increase of wages, thus enabling the wage-earner to meet the increased cost of living without feeling the burden. Then all might rejoice in prosperity to the farmer.

MINOR MENTION.

The lawyers who are defending

Luetgert, the Chicago sausage maker now on trial for the murder of his wife, are making a hard fight for him, but unless the miraculous happens, his prospects for being hanged are pretty good. Every day the evidence which the State produces draws the rope tighter around his neck. There are two things only which could break the force of the evidence already given-one the appearance of the missing woman, the accounting for her whereabouts it alive, or for her death, if dead from any other than the alleged cause, or proof of a conspiracy by the police, (as intimated by the defence) to procure testimony by bribery to convict; neither of which is likely to happen. The circumstances are all against the accused man from the start, for he concealed his wife's dis appearance and when it became known showed not the slightest concern and made no movement for her discovery, though he asserts that she straved off in a fit of insanity. Motive for getting rid of her is shown in the quarrels testified to, in his fondness for other women, and in the damaging letters produced in court written to one of them from the jail since his wife's disappear ance, all of which show a motive beyond doubt, strengthened by the finding of portions of a human body in the refuse removed from the vat in which he is said to have destroyed the body with caustic potash, and the rings the woman wore. If his lawvers can break that chain of cir. cumstantial evidence they will do something bordering on the marvelous, and even Luetgert, who spoke so contemptuously of them in some of his letters to Mrs. Feldt, will have to change his opinion. Another significant proof of the progress which the South is making n the manufacture of steel and the confidence felt that steel can be made in this section at less cost than it can be anywhere else was given in the press dispatch from Nashville, Tenn., published vesterday, in reference to the movement to draw the attention of the Government to the facilities which the South offers for the manufacture of armor plate, with the assurance that the capacity of the blast furnaces at Birmingham is now more than sufficient to turn out all the plate the Government needs. It is a demonstrated fact that Birmingham is now making steel of approved test and quality for less money than it is made anywhere else in this country. This disposes of the question of the relative cost, so that the only re maining question is whether Birmingham can do the work with the guaranteed requisites as to the quality of the steel plates furnished, promptness of delivery, &c. Whether the committee referred to succeed in their efforts or not the movement by them gives proof of the confidence ing to get there. Thirty years ago Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, who was then visiting the Birmingham iron and coal district, predicted that there would be the iron and steel manufacturing center of this counry, a prediction to the verification of which every day adds something. When a man puts himself up for a clown in a circus the bigger fool he makes of himself the more talent he shows and the better he pleases those who pay to witness his antics But the editor who plays the fool voluntarily or because it comes natural to him, or plays the fool be-felt that Birmingham is forging to the front as a steel maker, and is go-cause he takes it for granted that his readers are fools, does no credit to himself nor to them. This is suggested by the following bright specimen which we clip from the Hickory

STYNE-KEATHLEY.

Marriage Yaterday Morning at the Fit Baptist Church.

Shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday morning the bell in the belfry of the First Biptist church rang out merrily, imparting the joyous news that Mr. Luther Youce Styne and Miss Daisy Keathley, both popular young people of this city, had been made one. The wedding took place at 845 o'clock and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. When the auspicious moment arrived the organ, managed skilfully by Miss Bassie Bartt, sent forth the strains Mandelsonn's wedding march, and promptly, in perfect accord with the music, the bridal procession entered; the ushers, Messrs. W. A. Whitney, Jas. H. Taylor, J. F. L. Huggins and Jas. Woodroe, two each proceeding up the right and left centre aisles, respectively, and then the bride, leaning upon the arm of the groom, walked up the right centre aisle to the altar, which, together with its surroundings, had been artistically and beautifully festooned with potted plants, p.lms, ferns, etc., and were united in marriage by Rev.W. B. Oliver, pastor of the church.

Then, while the organ pealed forth the wedding chorus from Lohengrin and the bell was ringing merrily, the bridal party left the church; their next destination being the depot of the Atlantic Coast Line, from where Mr. and Mrs. Styne departed on the 985 o'clock northbound train on a tour embracing Baltimore, Washington, Boston, New York and Niagara.

The bride was habited in a bandsome dark green tailor made suit, while the gentlemen of the party wore the conventional black. Many and costly were the presents received by the happy [Special Star Correspondence.] RALEIGH, N. C., September 8. The Progressive Farmer, a paper that stands by Gov. Russell in all matters, comes nobly to his rescue in his fight against the two Wilsons of the Railway Commission. The Farmer makes several flings at Otho. The Rnamkatte states. man is a target of Butler and the balance of the Populists who are wallowing in the trough, but O.ho says public attention will be directed to others when his case is settled. There is no doubt but that Otho intends to give the public some interesting information about the rise of the Hon, Marion Butler.

Senator Butler is expected here to day, so Hal Ayer states. The campaign of the Populis speakers will most likely be arranged, Major Guthrie will hardly receive an invitation this year. The Governor's Guards, the local nilitary company, was inspected by Major B S. Royster this morning. The regroes here were hoping that the company could not pass. YELLOW FEVER SCARE

O ADDITIONAL CASES REFORTED IN NEW ORLEANS.

The Local Situation Vastly Improved-Dr. Guiteras at Quean Springe-Patients at Baloxi L kely to Recover,

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. NEW ORLEANS, September 8 - When he Board of Health met to-night, Dr. Ol phant had no additional cases to report to that body as having occurred in New Orleans and was able to say that the local situation had vartly improved and that there were no present pros. pects of evil resulting from the death of the Gelpi children. The public pulse here is vastly stronger and New Orleans is almost ready to declare that it has had a scare for nothing. Deep interest has naturally been felt ere in the outcome of the examination of Dr. Guiteras, who arrived at Ocean Springs this morning. Uader instructions from the superintendent of the Louisville & Nastville Ruiroad, Dr. Guiteras was put off in the woods couple of miles from Ocean Springs. It was not long therealter before the doctor ran up against the quarantine trocha, and the distinguished visitor had to fully establish his ideatity before he was permitted to run the line. On his arrival in Ocean Springs Dr. Guiteras went immed ately to work and in person investigated a number of cises of the prevailing sickness He found only two cases it is said, that deserve the term doubtful or suspicious, and in an answer to an inquiry be said be hoped to be able to wire the result of his examination to Washington this evening, It the meantime a correspondent will recommend to the city that he learned from a source that could not be doubted that Dr. Gaiteras, af.er his examination had not been entirely convinced that any yellow fever has existed or does exist in Ocean Springs. The local physicians are not prepared to say what effect an opinion by Dr. Guiteras, counter to that expressed by the four experts who declared the cases they investigated as vallow fever, would have.

A thorough canvass of the wards of Ocean Springs, completed late this evening, shows there have been seven hundred and forty eight cases of the prevailing fever since July 8th. There are now thirty-seven still sick. The total deaths have been nine, and in several ostances physicians' certificates show the fever was complicated with other diseases. There are telieved to have been only two deaths due to yellow iack. At the suggestion of Dr. Gant every house where there has been sickness or there is now is being thoroughly

There are sixty-five residents of New Orleans who are tied up at Ocean Springs anxious to get away, and some fteen from other points. There is a law in Mississippi against the violation of quarantine laws. Usnally in a vellow fever enidemic however an unwritten law, enforced by the shotgun, obtains, and that is the law which is now in effect at Ocean Springs and Blloxi people are not absolutely convinced that the fever there is Yellow Tack. Dr. Harralson has so pronounced the cases, but when he has completed his investigation at Ocean Springs, Dr. Guiteras will be asked to visit Biloxi and determine positively whether or not Da Harralson has correctly diagnosed the disease. Whatever the fever is, it has had a good effect, for on all hands residents are carrying into effect Mayor Howard's recommendation to put their homes in proper sanitary condition and to abstain from congregating anywhere in crowds. This morning the three patients at Biloxi are doing well, and it was thought they would recover. Their homes have been completely isolated and thoroughly disinfected.

ASSAULT AND OUTRAGE.

Young Lady of Macor, Gorga, the Viotim.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star, MACON, September 8-Miss Sallie Chapman, aged 20 years, living with her brother-in-law, J. C. McInvale, in this city, was assaulted and outraged in her bedroom soon after day ight this morning. A nine-year old girl was in the room with her but was so frightened she could not give an alarm. Miss Chapman does not know whether the man was black or white. She was frightened and so hurt that she became insensible and has not yet recovered her wils. The whole town is wrought up to a high pitch of excitement. This is the second assault of a like nature in the las: two weeks in this city.
