REPUBLICAN TESTIMONY

In commenting yesterday on the Hanna outlook in Ohio we published an extract from an address to the Republicans of Ohio by Hon. A. L. Conger, ex-Republican Congressman from Akron.

While showing the utter unworthiness of Mr. Hanna, as a man to be entrusted with the management of a party professing to have high and patriotic purposes he makes the following allusion to the relations between Hanna and the President:

"We esteem President McKinley highly, but there is no disguising the fact that Mr. Hanna is really the President as far as dictating national policy is concerned."

That Col. Conger herein says of the tin-plate business is equally applicable to many other lines of business which were also protected for a consideration in the way of money contributed before the election, and for which there is no more justification or excuse than there is for the monstrous plunder of the people for the benefit of the tin trust.

We trust that Col. Conger will issue some more addresses, for they will make valuable additions to Democratic campaign literature for the next Congressional and Presidential campaigns.

MINOR MENTION

When yellow fever, cholera, or other imported diseases make their appearance in this country, there is a scare, a bustling to clean up, and a flight, quarantine and counter quarantine, shot-gun patrols of border lines and all that sort of thing, and yet these are diseases, preventable diseases, too, which are not imported, which prove much more fatal than either yellow fever or cholera, and yet they are not looked upon with one tenth of the dread these imported are.

The champion yawner is a young woman of Williamsport, Pa., who yawned with such a yawn the other day that she unhinged her jawbones, and it took a doctor and two men some to prize them back into place. She didn't enjoy the operation and will henceforth wear a yawn gauge.

"Whether filibustering continues or not," remarks a contemporary, "Cuba has crying wrongs which should be righted." Cuba with her wrongs has got beyond the crying stage and has gone to fighting, which Spain minds a good deal more than she would the crying.

Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, who is a "sound money" Democrat, says Mr. McKinley will stand no more show of running his "currency reform" plan through the Senate than he would of steering a flock of geese through a cyclone, or words to that effect.

There is a man employed shoveling dirt on an Indiana railroad who is a graduate of two European universities and speaks eight languages, but he cannot shovel dirt a bit better than some of his fellow shovelers who never went to school.

When the New York Judge asked a man on trial for stealing an umbrella, "What did you get on it?" and the purloiner answered, "Rain," the Judge reined him up and sent him up for two years and a half, thus showing his appreciation of wit.

Gen. Tracy, who wants to be Mayor of Greater New York, asks what Mr. Low "means by non-partisanship." Why, he means that all the other partisans should vote for Low. Gen. Tracy shouldn't ask silly questions.

As one of the signs that the nations are preparing for a prolonged peace, eighty-seven warships are now being built in English shipyards. Thirty-four of these are for foreign Governments, the rest for the British fleet.

When the Dingley bill was under discussion the opponents of its excessive protection took precisely the same position that Col. Conger takes here, that tinplate had protection enough under the Wilson bill, more than enough, and that every cent added to the duty was just that much plunder taken from the American people for the benefit of the grabbers who dictated the duties in consideration of their contributions to campaign funds and the assistance they rendered in the election of McKinley.

And yet the Republican Representatives and Senators, in spite of the fact that they knew they were plundering the people, in spite of facts presented and protests made, obeyed Hanna's command and carried out the bargain that he made before the election and before the nomination of McKinley with the tin-plate trust.

If Hanna is to be condemned for bargaining with them, should the party which through its President, Congressmen and organs confirmed the bargain and turned the plunder over to them escape? If he is to be condemned they should be still more condemned for he was simply trading on a prospective, and was not guilty of any breach of trust, while they were trusted agents, were guilty of a breach of trust and betrayed the people who trusted them and delegated them with power and they did it knowingly and willingly to carry out an immoral contract.

All that Col. Conger herein says of the tin-plate business is equally applicable to many other lines of business which were also protected for a consideration in the way of money contributed before the election, and for which there is no more justification or excuse than there is for the monstrous plunder of the people for the benefit of the tin trust.

About 40,000 negroes in Ohio voted for McKinley last year, and what in the way of recognition have they to show for it? A half dozen little postmasterships—in Southern States.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. deid discretion in keeping out of New York. While the result of the election there may have more or less bearing upon national politics, still it is a local fight in the local features of which the people of that city are more directly interested, and they might very properly resist the interference of outsiders just as many of them are now resisting the interference of outsiders in the Washington administration and the political boosters of Gen. Tracy, Platt's man. Mr. Bryan has shown good sense not only to keep out of that fight, but in refraining from expressing any opinion that would commit him to either of the contending factions.

While Mr. George and his committee have shown good judgment in not calling upon Mr. Bryan, Mr. George has not shown as good judgment in making his war especially upon Tammany, and Mr. Croker, the so-called Tammany "Boss," whom he says he will do his best "to send to the penitentiary" if elected Mayor. There is a Republican machine in New York controlled by a Boss—one Mr. Platt, who happens also to be a United States Senator, but Republicans who are supporting candidate Low score this machine and this Boss, but Mr. George seems to reserve all his denunciations for the Democratic machine and the Democratic Boss. Perhaps he thinks the Low Republicans can attend to the Republican machine and Republican Boss, but in our opinion he doesn't show level-headed gumption in not taking a whack at them, and at Mr. Low's party also, while he scores old Tammany and Boss Croker.

An Arkansas man has a cornfield of 1,000 acres, on land which was until recently covered by a lake, which it is claimed will yield 200 bushels to the acre. The corn was sowed broadcast and the stalks grew so close together that a rabbit couldn't work his way between them. This beats that South Carolina story of a big yield, or the liar beats the other fellow.

The bike scorchers must be making things hot in Chicago, and the police authorities hot also. The policemen have been ordered to shoot any scorchers who refuse to stop when halted. But the policeman who obeyed that order and shot some one, might find himself in an ugly fix later when arraigned for murder or something of that kind.
