"The child is crying for food." "But," said the mother, "it has all the food it will take." "The question of starvation" replied the doctor, "is not how much food is taken but how much is assimilated and goes to nourish the body."
Pain in the body is often only the outcry of starvation. You eat enough but the stomach is not doing its work, and the nervous system is starving. CORPORATION COMMISSION.

Question of Compelling Railroads to Pay Back Taxes On Rolling Stock-Jim-Crow Car Law-City of Raleigh's Suit Against Southern R. R.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., July 28. The Corporation Commission will meet again to morrow and resume consideration of the question of compelling certain railroads in the State to pay back taxes on rolling stock that they have heretofore failed to list for taxation. The Southern has already had a hearing on this question; to-morrow the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company, of Baltimore, fur nishing cars on the Seaboard, and the Seaboard and Roanoke, which supplies the Roanoke and Tar River railroad with roling stock, will have a hear-

The Commission will decide all these cases together. There seems to be little doubt as to the liability of the Trust Company for the taxes claimed, but as to the other roads there is some

Jim Crow Car Law.

Another matter of importance to come before the Commission to-morrow is the "Jim Crow" car law. . It comes up on complaint against the Southern. This road's method of executing the law is very unsatisfactory to the travelling public, and it is pretty certain that the Commission will compel a change in it.

Complaints against the Southern are: 1. That it divides all its cars. 2. That it does not put both classes of negro passengers in one car, but second class passengers are at the front end of the train and first class passengers are at the rear end-an arrangement objectionable to white people and inconvenient to colored people. 3. That adequate accommodations are not provided for the travel on its trains. It is pretty certain that an order will be made by the Commission correcting all these abuses. The Southern will be made to conform to the excellent "Jim Crow" car system in vogue on the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line: The first pas-senger coach toward the engine divided for the two classes of colored pas sengers. The next car, undivided, given to white passengers holding second class tickets, and the third car used by white passengers having first class tickets.

The traffic on the Southern, certainly on the main line and on the Greensboro-Goldsboro line, is sufficent to justify the running of at least three cars on all trains. There has been a notorious lack of proper accommoda-tion on this road this Summer. Farmers' Institute.

The first Farmers' Institute in the State this season will be held to-morrow at Wakefield, this county. A farmers' annual picnic was held to day at Fuquay's Springs, some fifteen miles from here. A number of Raleigh people attended it.

The city of Raleigh has commenced suit against the Southern Railway to recover the $3,222 paid by the city on a judgment in the Dillon suit. which was tried a year ago. Miss Hattie Dillon was hurt at the South street railroad crossing three years ago in a runaway. She brought suit against the city, alleging that the crossing was not properly constructed and on that ground recovered damages. Now the city sues the railroad, alleging that it was responsible for the defective construction.

The Erwin Cotton Mills Company of Durham, has bought one thousand acres of land on both sides of Haw river for a distance of about three miles, extending from the mouth of Roberson's creek up to and including the old Henley mill tract. The object of this purchase is to utilize the water power in operating two or more large cotton mills. In addition to the erection of the mills the company will also construct a railroad from their property either to Pittsboro or to some point on the Raleigh and Augusta Air Line Railroad. Already one route has been surveyed and several will be surveyed before a location is made.

[Special Star Telegram.] Simonton Issues Another Injunction. A restraining order, issued by Judge Simonton at Flat Rock, on the bill filed by the Western Union Telegraph Company against the North Carolina Corporation Commission, similar to the restraining orders issued by him in behalf of different railroad companies last week, was recorded in the United States Circuit Court here to-day. The order restrains the collection of taxes under the recent assessment made by the Corporation Commissioners, and provides that no taxes shall be collected from the Western Union Telegraph Co. except on the assessment of $600,000 valuation. The order is made returnable before Judge Simonton September 13th, at Asheville. It was to-day served on the commissioners, the State treasurer and State auditor, restraining the commission from certifying the new assessment to the State auditor, and the State treasurer from collecting taxes except on $600,000 valuation. The assessment last year was $750,000, and this year the commission increased it to $1,000,-000. Judge Simonton cuts it down to

THE STANDARD BALE.

Report of Special Committee of Savanah Cotton Exchange.

Report of special committee of the Savannah Cotton Exchange, on the 24x54 standard bale of cotton: Your committee, after a careful in vestigation of the 24x54 standard bale movement, beg leave to report:

That we find by recent practical expe iments, that an alteration of the cotton press boxes to the measurement of 24x54 inches, a degree of density can be secured in compressing cotton which will greatly reduce the size of the bale for shipment on rail and ocean carriers. That the country press boxes, with the exception of a few that have been changed to the 24x54 standard dimensions, range in measurement as follows: 28x58, 30x66 and 33x72. That the average thickness of a 500 pound uncompressed bale of sotton is 43 inches; the average space occupied by a bale of cotton based upon these dimensions would be 85,713 cubic inches, against 51,728 cubic inches for the same amount of cotton packed in a 24x14 standard press box-a saving i space of 31 per cent. in favor of the standard bale, which is an important tem in storage. That the bale, as it leaves the gio, is a neater package, better covered with bagging, therefore better protected against damage by exposure, and is more easily handled. That two bales can be loaded flat into an ordinary two horse wagon body, which enables the carrying of the cotton to the market without damage by rubbing of the wheels.

That the ordinary bagging when the standard bale has been compressed, entirely covers it, which makes it a neat and well protected package for shipment. That the larger the bale is in excess of the 24x54 standard dimensions, the less density per cubic foot can be secured in compression. The least of the above mentioned three irregular size bales, namely, 28x58 inches, averages, after ordinary compression 38,016 cubic inches, against 20,736 cubic inches, for the same amount of cotton packed in a standard press box of 24x54 inches—a saving in space of 45 per cent. in favor of the 24x54 standard bale of cotton; which reduces ocean rates proportionately.

That ocean rates on cotton are based upon the number of pounds that the bale contains to the cubic foot. A saving in space of 45 per cent. on account of increased density in compression, which can be secured by packing the cotton in standard press boxes, will result in a reduction of at least 40 per cent. in the ocean cotton rates. For

Take irregular size bales-1,000 bales, Savannah to Liverpool, 500,000 pounds, at 45c...$2,250 Against standard bales— ,000 bales, Savannah to Liver pool, 500,000 pounds at 45c. less 40 per cent. increased den-a saving in favor of the standard bale.... Equal to 90c bale. That we learn from the actual experiences of a large number of ginners throughout the States of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama that the cost of changing their gin press boxes to the standard dimensions was nominal, ranging from $1 to $5. The cost depends largely upon the make of the press box in use, and whether or not the ginner makes the change himself or employs others to do the work for him. That heavy bales of cotton, weighing, say from 500 to 700 pounds, can be packed in a 24x54-inch press box with as little power as is required for the same amount of cotton to be packed in a 28x58-inch press box. Therefore your committee is convinced that the 24x54 standard bale of cotton is a great improvement over the old irregular size bale, and we heartily recommend and urge that all ginners change their press boxes to the 24x54 standard dimensions without delay. We further recommend and urge that all farmers insist upon

box of the 24x54 standard dimensions. HENRY T. WILLIAMS, President. J. P. MERRIHEW, Secretary and Superintendent

The three conventions dealing with arbitration, the laws and customs of war and the adaptation of the Geneva Convention to naval warfare, were not signed by Germany, Austria-Hungary, China, England, Italy, Japan, Luxemburg, Servia, Switzerland or Turkey. The United States signed only the arbitration convention and that under reserve. Roumania also made reservation.

The three declarations prohibiting the throwing of explosives from bal loons, the use of asphyxiating projectiles and the use of dum-dum bullets, were not signed by Germany, Austria-Hungary, China, England, Japan, Luxemburg, Servia. Switzerland and the United States signed only the declaration regarding the throwing of explosives from balloons.

APPEAL TO COTTON FARMERS.

Advised to Hold One-Third of Their Cros Until After December. By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

"Estimating the current crop at 11.-200,000 bales, it means a shrinkage of 200,000 bales, it means a shrinkage of 1,277,000 bales, or a crop of 9,923,000 bales for 1899-1900."

Complaint of American Competition-Verdict of German Press On Outcome of Peace Conference-England and the United States Reviled.

[Special Berlin Letter Copyrighted 1899 by the Associated Press.] BERLIN, July 29.—The papers this week have been giving their verdicts on the outcome of the peace conference at The Hague. The tone of the comment of papers friendly to the conference generally is one of disappointment that so little has been accomplished, while those opposing indulge in gleeful felicitations that no more was accomplished. The Sageblatt considers that the form of arbitration adopted marks an important step toward securing the peace of the

The most important result the Post sees is that a method is now open to nations for settling difficulties, saying: "While the conference has not ushered in the millenium, still it shows hat the powers are earnestly striving to preserve for the peoples the blessngs of peace.' The National Liberal Boersen Zei tung calls the final protocol a funeral oration, and says the results equal The Kreus Zeitung, referring to the United States and England says: "The nations that boasted loudest of their humanity made the stoutest resistance to really practical humanitarian propositions. The Kreus Zeitung further points out that while England and the United States stood together in opposing the prohibition of bombs filled with noxious gases, the United States backed up England's refusal to abandon the dum-dum bullet. The platonic declaration of the conference for the principles of the Czar's proclamation," the Kreus Zeitung continues, "intro duces absolutely no change in existing conditions.

The Associated Press correspondent's recent interview with Dr. Schwarzenstein has been reproduced in the newspapers here with comment mostly friendly to the United States, but the Deutsch Tages Zeitung takes occasion to express distrust of the government, and says: "All depends upon the means employed for preserving friendly relations with the United States. American friendship is not worth having if it must be purchased by the abandonment of important German interests, especially economic advantages, or by keeping cool when German dignity is wounded The Solingen Chamber of Commerce reports that exports from that district to the United States have fallen off forty per cent. as the result of the Dingley tariff. The Dresden Chamber of Commerce complains loudly of the increase of American competition, especially in manufactured articles. and explains that American superiority in the world's markets is due to the extraordinary activity of the United States consuls and to the immense capital ol American manufacturing companies, permitting the greatest possible division of labor and specialization, enabling them to produce cheap-er in spite of higher wages. The report admits that Americans sell at low. even cut throat prices, but explains this by the assertion that high duties enable manufacturers to sell at high prices at home while they dispose of their supplies abroad at the lowest prices. The rate of the falling off in exports to the United States leads to the view that exportation will cease entirely and that it will become necessary for German manufacturers to build branches in the United States.

The motive power of the Berlin street cars is being rapidly changed from horse to electricity. The result is that collisions are of daily occur rence between electric and other cars and wagons.

Telegraph boys will be experimentally employed in Berlin, replacing men. The change will begin soon. A German officer has invented an acetylene searchlight which can be carried by one man and which will illuminate everything for a hundred yards. It is expected to be of great use in searching for the wounded after a battle and during bridge building at

The announcement that one of the great American insurance companies has decided to comply with the requirements of the Prussian law, in order to be readmitted to do business here, is received with the greatest consternation in insurance circles. The Deutsche Versicherungs Zeitung this week has a strong protest, asserting that experience shows that American companies are untrustworthy, and warning the government against again giving them the right to do business
