THE OLD HYMNS.

Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N, Y

F. L. STANTON. There's lots of music in 'em-the hymns of long ago-And when some grayhaired brother sings the ones I used to know. I sorter want to take a hand-I think of days gone by—

"On Jordan's stormy banks I stand, and cast a wishful eye?"

There's lots of music in 'em-those dear, sweet hymns of old-With visions bright of lands of light and shining streets of gold, And I hear 'em ringin', where memory dreamin' stands,

"From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strands."

They seem to sing forever of holier sweeter days. When the lilies of the love of God bloomed white in all the ways, And I want to hear their music from the old-time meetin's rise Till "I can ready my titles clear to

We never needed singing books in them old days-we knew The words, the tunes, of every one the dear old hymn books through, We didn't have no trumpets then, no organs built for show;

We only sang to praise the "Lord, from whom all blessings flow." And so I love the old hymns, and when my time shall come-

Before the light has left me and my singin' lips are dumb-If I can only hear 'em then, I'll pass without a sigh "To Canaan's fair and happy land, where my possessions lie!"

THE WAR CLOUD IN SOUTH AFRICA

The Boers Make Defiant Reply to the Demands of Great Britain.

AN ULTIMATUM EXPECTED.

No Immediate Aggressive Action Expected Unless President Kruger Takes the Initiative Before the Arrival of British Troops.

By Cable to the Morning Star. PRETORIA, September 16 .- The reply to the Transvaal government was handed to the British agent here, Mr. Conyngham Greene, at 11 o'clock this morning. It will be published here Monday at 9 o'clock A. M. There are no further developments in the situa-

CAPE TOWN, September 16 .- Further telegrams from Pretoria to day confirm the forecast of the reply of the Transvaal to Great Britain which does not accept the demands of the British government as a whole. Great excitement prevails at Pre toria over - the consequences which may ensue. The young Boers are asking to be led into the field immediately. It is impossible to predict what will be the situation after the delivery of the reply in London. The feeling here is that it will be impossible for the imperial government, and undignisied upon its part, to again enter upon an interchange of arguments. The royal Munster regiment has arrived here.

Serious Phase of the Crisis.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Sunday will be an anxious day for Great Britain. The reply of the Transvaal government, it is known to-night, has been formulated and is in the hands of the British agent at Pretoria. Furthermore the wires at the foreign office are busy with a long dispatch from the British high commissioner in South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner, to the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, which is being rapidly repeated to the latter's Birmingham home. so that the contents of the Boer reply will probably rest to-night with Great Britain's colonial secretary.

Unless South Africa is peopled with false prophets, the Boers have either evaded or defied what practically amounted to an ultimatum from the British cabinet. From the tenor of their recent communications to Mr. Chamberlain, they could scarcely be expected to do otherwise. However, as frequently pointed out in these dispatches, this presumed action on the part of the Boers does not make war : certainty, though it does place the British cabinet in a position where it must take steps so aggressive that war or utter ignominous submission will be the only alternative remaining to the Transvaal. This new, seri ous phase of the crisis also gravely increases the probability that the Boers will take time and diplomacy by the forelock and raid Natal, confiscate the mines, arrest the Outlanders for high treason, and otherwise resent, while the British transports are in mid-ocean, what they believe is an attempt to rob them of their independence. If the course of diplomacy is not foreshortened the British cabinet will meet again and formulate specific demands, far more sweeping than the recent ones. These will be transmitted to President Kruger in the shape of an ultimatum.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

Winston Republican: Mr. Charles M. Kreeger, of Tobaccoville, this county, furnishes us an item not ordinarily to be seen in newspapers. During the past season he has picked 42,600 blackberries and dewberries. He counted the berries as he gathered

- Maxton Scottish Chief: One of our most energetic farmers was in our office this week. He says he planted his cotton crop with the exexpectation of making 25 bales. So far he has picked over his crop the third time and has only gathered 5 bales up to date and thinks he has half of his crop gathered. He says there is plenty of cotton in his section that will not produce more than one bale to every 10 acres in cultivation.

- Statesville Mascot: A severe storm in the Mooresville section Saturday afternoon did much damage to timber and cotton. A large amount was beaten from the bolls. The cotton crop in that section is only half as good as it was last year. — Mr. J. A. Justice has commenced the manufacture of tile for hearths, floors and walks at his place near the cotton mill. He exhibited quite a lot of samples of various colors in this office Tuesday, and they are as fine as we have seen.

- Greensboro Telegram: A very peculiar case of hydrophobia is reported by the Stanly Enterprise. About two years ago a dog, seemingly in play with Charles Little, a young man who lives in Stanly county, dropped some foam on Little's hand. Sores broke out on his hand. The dog proved to be mad. Some time ago Little started to Albemarle, but going a few miles he refused to continue further. Later, he became mad and was carried to the hospital at Morganton for treatment. The hospital physicians diagnosed the case as a very plain case of hydrop-hobia and the young man died in terrible agony last Friday.

- Wilson Times: The Murderer of young Turnage, the negro Elijah Joyner, passed through here Wednesday on his way to Greenville from Raleigh, where he had been taken for safe keeping. He was in charge of the sheriff of Pitt county. He looks hale and hearty, and talks freely about the killing of Turnage. He says he held him to get money and, fired the building to cover the proofs of death. —Last Saturday afternoon lightning struck a tobacco barn on the C. A. Young farm, near the city, superintended by Mr. Ed. S. Toney, knocking off one of the gable ends, knocking off one of the gable ends, and descending into the barn, burnt bit like her." Editor—"That's lucky. the leaves from the stems of about 200 | We can use it for some one else then." pounds of tobacco and not injuring the stems of the leaves. It was a peculiar sight to see the sticks taken out with only the stems hanging to he strings.

- Fayetteville Observer: The readers of the Observer will remember that during the election excitment last November, a white man named Archie Sauls, killed a man named Herring during a political quarrel at Bea-man's Cross Roads in Sampson. Sauls had been a fugitive since. Yesterday we were informed by two citizens of Roseboro that on Sunday last it was learned that Sauls was in the neighborhood of Roseboro, and a posse of forty men started in pursuit. When they came in sight of Sauls he began firing on his pursuers, who in turn opened fire and soon riddled him with bullets. Our informants say that there was a man named Bass with Sauls at the time, and that it is thought he was also killed, but as the posse did not stop to investigate, and left Sauls where he fell, this was not ascer-Sauls where he fell, this was not ascertained. The shooting occurred near Sauls's father's and about four miles from Roseboro.

Health officers of Augusta, Ga., yesterday quarantined against all infected cities and all points where yellow fever exists.

FIGHT FOR THE FARMERS. [Columbia (S. C.) Record.] The farmers of Marlboro county do not intend to allow themselves to be caught napping. They are | the same month last year. alive to their interests, are determined to protect them, and invite the farmers of other sections the main money crop of the Southern farmer. It is true, he has not realized much from it in recent years, but he has hope that its price will again rise to a remunerative point. But, if the round bale trust succeeds in carrying out its plans, it can absolutely dominate the cotton market. The price of cotton will not be fixed in Liverpool, but in the office of that trust. There is but one way to defeat this new and gi gantic trust, and that way has been pointed out by the Marlboro farmers in a series of resolutions which are published in to day's Record. The farmers of the South must stick to the square bale and stand like a stone wall against the round bale trust. That is their only hope. They must not only stick to the square bale, but they must make all their bales of the standard size, 24 by 54 inches, recommended by the cotton exchanges, ginners, compress men and cotton trade generally. In this way only can they protect themselves. The newspapers of the South, the public leaders and the farmers' organizations should take up this fight and make it to a finishsuch a finish as will teach greedy capitalists that they can never control the cotton crop and pluck the Southern farmers. The newspapers can perform a great public service by pointing out the evils which will fol-low establishment of round bale plants throughout this section and the benefits which will follow by sticking to the standard square bale. If they are derelict in performance of this duty they will suffer from the blight which will inevitably follow control of the cotton crop by the round bale TWINKLINGS.

NEW SHOE STORE, GEO. O. GAYLORD'S J. R. BOYD, General Manager. CURPENT COMMENT.

- Mr. Astor declined one of Kipling's poems because it reflected on England. If Kipling is wise he will offer him something warm on the New York tax assessors .- Washington Post, Ind.

- A break has come in the Klondike boom. Many of the navigation companies are going out of the business, finding it unprofitable. Travel is diminishing constantly, and prices of freight and necessities of life are being liberally scaled. There is no doubt a great deal of gold in that section, and that much business will be done there for a number of years, but will be upon what may be called a legitimate basis. The boom days are about over .-Savannah News, Dem.

- A writer in the August number of Harper's Magazine disposes completely of the story that there was a massacre at Fort Pillow during the civil war. The Confederate forces simply whipped the stuffin out of the Union troops there, and did it in a purely soldierly way. Forrest was pitted against a commander who was a baby in his hands, and he licked him as he had licked abler men before and as he licked abler ones afterward. If there was a useless sacrifice of life it was en tirely the fault of the Union general. - Atlanta Journal, Dem. - If General Otis were the able commander that Corbin insists he is and that the President has heretofore believed him to be, there should be some variation in the stories about him that come from Manila. The best of men have their detractors, and there are always grumblers who give pessimistic reports, but when a man is doing well these are more than offset by the number of his champions and of those who are more than willing to speak well of him. Otis has no champion except Corbin, and none of the men who know him best and have had most experience with him has a good word to say for him. -Philadelphia Ledger, Ind.

- Raleigh News and Observer: Friday afternoon Darham Smith, an aged white man, fell dead while working at the turpentine still of Mr. J. D. Ballentine near Varina on Mr. Mills railroad. Smith was about seventy years old and leaves a wife and ten or twelve children. Less that two years ago Smith became a convert to Mormonism and since that time his house has been headquarters in that section. There are some fifteen or eighteen Mormons in that section of the country. The funeral of Smith will doubtless be the first Mormon funeral held in the country.
