He was at my ranch as a guest for a few days, and one afternoon as the cowboys were about to round up a bunch of cow ponies the young man said that he would enjoy a good ride in the saddle. He said he was used to riding only thoroughbreds, and he didn't think we had a horse good enough for him. The boys convinced him that they had one of the finest horses on the plains, and if he knew how to ride he was welcome to the animal. He was apparently insulted when questioned about his ability to ride and answered that he could ride any kind of a horse. A sleepy looking broncho was accordingly brought out from the corral and saddled. Though the beast appeared half dead, he was the worst bucker in the herd. ""'E's lifeless,' said the foreigner when the pony was brought to him. The boys said the nag would wake up after the first mile, and milord got into the saddle. The first buck jump placed him on the horse's neck, and after the

Were Remarkable. On one occasion during the civil war dreamed that I was standing beside a road when there came marching along it a strong column of prisoners, with guards at intervals on the flanks. I asked one of these guards who the prisoners were and where they had been captured. He informed me that they had been taken in an engagement with the enemy on the day before and that there were 1,900 of them. I then asked some bystander what day of the month it was and was told it was such a day of a certain month, some six weeks later than the date of the dream. The whole dream was extremely distinct, and it made a strong impression on me. I related it to a number of my comrades within the next few days and then thought of it no more. Six weeks later, on the morning of the very day that had been mentioned in the dream as the date when the col umn of prisoners had passed before me, I was on picket two miles distant from the point where I had seemed

By Telegraph to the Morning Staf PARKERSBURG, WEST VA., November 24.-Terrific rumblings and reports startled the citizens of Bingamon Creek, some distance from Shinnston. at 5 o'clock yesterday. They rushed from their homes and beheld the hillfrom their homes and beheld the hill-side caving in, and a great avalanche of earth, stone and coal rolling toward the creek. It seemed that the crust of the whole earth was being broken by some subterranean force, and the spec-tators contemplated an earthquake with dire results. At daylight it was seen that five coal mines in that vicinity had been utterly destroyed. The strata of limestone above the coal had been rent and the bluff of the hill, half a mile long and seventy feet deep. half a mile long and seventy feet deep, precipitated to Bigamon creek below, a distance of 100 feet, forcing the stream out of its natural course some distance. Many of the boulders in the avalanche were thirty feet long and ten feet thick, and contained 3,000 and ten feet thick, and contained 3,000 cubic feet. Many large trees came down with the rocks. The bluff just adjacent has a crevice about forty feet long, and eight feet wide at the greater end. It is expected to fall shortly, and destroy an-other mine. Quite a number of miners employed in the mines that were de-stroyed were on their way to the stroyed were on their way to the mines when the disturbance occurred, and were fortunate in such a narrow escape from death. They could not have been rescued. The destroyed mines had been worked a great many years, but were properly propped and in excellent condition. The cause of the avalance his unknown. The damage is estimated to involve a loss of about $300,000. Many men will be thrown out of employment indefin-itely owing to the destruction of the
