

FIVE OR TEN CENT COTTON?

Whether the next cotton crop will bring a low price or a high price, a price that will pay the planter or put him on the verge of bankruptcy...

This is all the more remarkable in view of the past experience our cotton-planters have had and the penalties they have paid for indiscriminate planting...

We have heretofore published communications on this subject found in the columns of other papers urging planters to keep the cotton acreage down this year...

This is so apparent to any one who gives thought to it that it is remarkable that planters would need any urging to keep the cotton acreage down.

ANOTHER WASTE PRODUCT.

For half a century or more cotton seed was a waste product. Now it is worth over $50,000,000 a year...

Wherever there is a saw-mill in Georgia—and there are thousands of them—a feature of the landscape is an immense sawdust pile...

What to do with this sawdust is a question that has long troubled the mill owners and speculators.

It is a waste product, and treated as such, it is a waste. In Germany, however, it is used in a variety of ways...

Some time ago the Commissioners of Agriculture in the cotton-growing States held a meeting to discuss the question of acreage...

Mr. Stevens in his official capacity and as a planter has done as much as any man in the South to check the folly of overproduction of cotton...

The American mills, or a considerable number of them North and South, some time ago reduced the hours of work to reduce the stock of goods on hand...

The English mills followed their example. This was not on account of the higher price of cotton, but on account of the decreased demand for goods in the Eastern markets...

With less demand than there was last year would it be reasonable to expect higher prices than this crop brought, and with an increased supply coincident with decreased demand for goods wouldn't it be even more reasonable to expect reduced prices for the raw material?

It is not necessary to say that the world's consumption needs then the buyer will make his own price and the planter will have to take it or leave his cotton on the plantation.

There isn't a planter in the South who does not know this, but there isn't one in ten of them who lays his plans accordingly.

It is all the more remarkable in view of the past experience our cotton-planters have had and the penalties they have paid for indiscriminate planting...

A distinguished Southern Bishop some time ago discovered that after eating a reasonable quantity of peanuts, nicely parched, he could lie down and sleep like a top...

I never felt better in my life. I believe I could get along on peanuts and milk for the rest of my life. Peanuts are very nutritious. They contain almost as much protein as an equal amount of the best beefsteak.

This opens up the way to a wide range of suggestions and remarks, but without yielding to the temptation, who knows what a mighty boost this may give towards solving the cook question, cheap living, etc.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

(Special Star Telegram.)

RALEIGH, N. C., March 25.—Two speeches were delivered in the Court of Impeachment to-day, both for the defence. They were by Hon. F. H. Busbee and Hon. B. F. Long.

Busbee spoke to-day for two hours. He showed no error in their decision of the Shell fish Commission case, and if they had, are not impeachable for an error; that they appear at the bar of the Senate and ask only justice.

Lectured at Lexington, Ky.—Started on a Slimming Tour—Several Saloons Visited and Threatened.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. LEXINGTON, KY., March 27.—Mrs. Carrie Nation opened her lecture tour here to-night, a small audience being present in the Opera House. She arrived from Cincinnati at noon and after dinner in her room at the Phoenix Hotel and a brief audience with reporters, she spent the afternoon sleeping in keeping them clear of her. Nation. In one saloon she was jeered, but boldly called the proprietors to task and told them she would come back and smash their saloons when she was done with Kansas.

COTTON GROWERS IN TEXAS.

Call for Meetings to Be Held in Every County to Agree Upon a Reduction in Acreage.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. DALLAS, TEXAS, March 27.—Colonel E. S. Peters, president of the Texas Cotton Growers' Protective Association, to-day issued a call to cotton growers of every county in Texas to meet at their respective court houses on the first Saturday in April, to agree on a reduction in the acreage of cotton. In his call President Peters says: "If the cotton acreage of the South be reduced the price for the staple will go below six cents next fall, which will result in the greatest financial calamity that has befallen the Southern farmers in years. Now is the time for action, because the price for the staple will be fixed according to the acreage planted this Spring."
