A LIGHT IN THE YARD

MRS. GALLUP RECOGNIZES IN IT HER SUMMONS TO HEAVEN.

But She Fails to Get Any Information From Her Husband as to the Manner In Which She Should Act When She Enters Her Home Among

[Copyright, 1909, by C. B. Lewis.] When Mr. Gallup sat down for the vening, he had his newspaper on his knee and Mrs. Gallup was singing "Rock of Ages" and clearing away the supper table. He had been reading for a quarter of an hour when she quietly entered and sat down and said:

"Samuel, I don't want to disturb you nor make you feel bad, but I feel obliged to ask you a few questions. Last night at midnight Mrs. Watkins saw a light moving around in our back yard. It was a light which bobbed up and bobbed down and dodged this way and that, and when it finally went out it gave a great wink and a splutter. It was what they call a ghost lantern, Samuel, and it meant that there would be death in this house within a week. It'll be my death, of course. I've got 27 different allments, with heart disease throwed in, while you are as healthy as a cornfield. Yes; it'll be me, but I'm not weepin over it. I'm sittin right here as calm as catnip, but I want to know some few things." Mr. Gallup must have known of her presence, but he was too deeply interested in his paper to recognize it. He had found an article which said that a bedbug could be boiled in water for four hours and then come out with his ambition undaunted.

"I shall go to heaven when I die, of course," continued Mrs. Gallup as her roice broke a little. "I orter go there. Any woman who has whitewashed the cellar every spring for 27 years, besides makin soft soap, cuttin carpet rags, dyein over old clothes and makin one corset last her for 13 years, will go to heaven on the jump. What bothers

"I'M SITTIN RIGHT HERE AS CALM AS CATNIP." arter I git there. You know how company allus flustrates me. If three or four of the neighbors come in. I'm almost sure to fall off my cheer or knock over sunthin. How's it goin to be when I git up there and meet a hull pasture full of angels? There'll be millions of 'em, Samuel, and they'll all be lookin at me and wonderin who I am, and I'll be so upsot that I'll fall over my own

She paused to wipe the tears from her eyes with the palm of her hand. but as she had asked no direct questions Mr. Gallup finished the bug article and turned to one on the care of clotheslines.

"I don't want to be looked at and p'inted out and made fun of up there." said Mrs. Gallup as she sat with her eyes on the carpet. "All night long last night I couldn't sleep for thinkin that some of the angels would turn up their noses at me and want to know what on airth I was doin there. You remember Sarah Jane Bixby, who died two years ago? Sarah was snippy and sassy. If she went to heaven, it would be jest her way to want to know why I'd come flyin up there, with my rheumatiz and back aches. I'd have to sass her back, and then what would bappen? Angels do sass each other sometimes, don't they, Samuel?"

If Mr. Gallup had ever given the matter a thought, he was too busy to discuss it. .The statement was right before his eyes that 1,000,000 miles of clothesline went to destruction every year for want of being bung up in the wood shed when not in use, and he was reflecting on the carelessness of bumanity in general.

"I may git up to heaver in the night, when all the angels are asleep, and so I'll slip in all right. I hope that'll be the way, because it'll give me a chance to kind o' git used to the place before daylight. Do you think they have any breakfast up there? Mrs. Watkins says they don't, but I don't really see how they git along without it. I know I should feel a goneness all day without breakfast. And I want you to look at me, Samuel, and see if I'm the humblyest woman ever born. I have read that when we die we are changed as in the twinklin of an eye. I hope it's so. If it ain't, then I can't expect no good times up there. Them angels will be p'intin out my lop shoulder, my big feet and my wabbly knees and whisperin to each other that I'd better staid down on airth among the cabbages. Nobody as knows me can call me obstinate or sot, but I'll be snummed if I propose to die and become an angel to be made fun of. You'll be on my side about that, won't you?"

Mr. Gallup heaved a long sigh and seemed about to speak, but no word came. He had finished with the clothesline and struck an article about the easoning powers of the crow, and the most direct question from Mrs. Gailup would have passed unheeded. Her tears fell for two or three minutes, and then she asked: "And how about the beds up there?

You know we've slept on a feather bed ever since we was married, and I've allus bin particular to smooth it down from head to foot. I've got used to feathers, and if I changed off I'd jest lay there and kick around all night long. Do they hey beds, Samuel, or do they keep on flyin around all night long and singin "I've Reached My Home at Last?" Seems to me that flyin and you orter tell me so I'll know what to depend on. I might stand sass from a thousand angels, but I do want my own bed when night comes, and if one of my headaches comes on unexpectedly I want to know that I kin hav a cup of tea. Mrs. Watkins says they don't drink ten in heaven, but I don't see how she kin know." Mr. Gallup was not directly appealed to, and as he was reading that a crow had been known to feign death to avoid having a crowbar thrown at him he made no sign. "Waal, I've made up my mind to few things," said Mrs. Gallup as the silence grew painful. "I'm goin up to heaven to do the best I kin. I'll be nayburly with all the angels I meet and let 'em understand that I don't want no more'n my share of harps and wings and things. If I don't find anythin to eat or any beds to sleep on, I of it, and I won't be jealous if a few of 'em hev better clothes on or kin sing better'n me. That's how I'll act, Samuel, and then if they pick on me they'll git as good as they give. I kin be sassed and picked on jest so fur, but arter that they want to look out. Would it put you out any, Samuel, if I died at night instead of in the daytime?

As I said, if I died at night I could slip into heaven without any fuss, but if it's goin to make you any extra trouble I'll perish by daylight. What will be the most convenient hour fur you?" There was deep silence. Mrs. Gallup's tears made no thud as they fell upon the carpet, and Mr. Gallup was reading with bated breath that an ostrich covers 13 feet of ground at every stride when in full flight. The clock ticked, the silence grew deeper, and the cricket on the hearth fell into a doze. Then Mr. Gallup suddenly laid aside his paper, stretched his arms and legs, with a "Ho-hum!" and looked around to find Mrs. Gallup asleep in her chair. She hadn't gone to join the prised the British. When Harry Houdini, the American king of handcuffs, arrived in England, he tried to arrange for an exhibit of his skill at Scotland Yard, but the authorities refused to allow him an opportunity of putting on or taking off official handcuffs, says London M. A. P. So, accompanied by a skeptical London manager, he paid an ordinary call as an American visitor to the police headquarters. Mr. Houdini, after making the usual remarks on everything he saw and heard, casually asked a question about a pair of handcuffs. The guide took them down and answered:

"Oh, these are handcuff's impossible to remove.' Houdini was greatly interested, and the incident closed by the American visitor requesting his guide to lock the handcuffs on his wrists. Then he turned his back and succeeded in getting them off in a couple of minutes. One of Houdini's strangest adventures happened at a big hotel in St. Paul, Minn., where he was very well known. To his surprise, he found that a couple of men occupying the rooms on either side of his own appeared to be mounting guard over him. At first he only suspected this, but after a few days he was perfectly sure that one or the other of his neighbors shadowed his every movement. One afternoon, when Houdini was sitting in his own room, he heard the sound of scuffling outside the door. Flinging it open, he discovered his two unknown friends grasping a third man, who had evithat he was heavily handcuffed. "We're a couple of detectives, Mr. Houdini," panted one of the men. "This fellow made his escape from jail We knew that be wouldn't dare to go to a locksmith to get his handcuffs removed, and we suspected that he might come to you."

Great Drawing to a Bobtall Pair. "The most remarkable draw I ever saw made at poker was in a Chicago club one night," said a Chicago man. "There were five of us in a little social game, with a limit of $25 and all jack pots. A friend of mine whom I will call Jones was dealing. I was first under the guns and passed, as did also the two men sitting next. The tifth man-we will say his name was Brown -opened the pot for $5. Jones didn't have the shadow of a thing in his hands, but he raised Brown $10, in tending to stand pat and bluff it out. Brown had three aces, and he came back at Jones with $10 better.

"Now,, instead of laying down, as a wise man should in a case like that, Jones determined to see it through He knew, of course, that it would be use less to try to bluff, so he drew three cards to a king and queen of spades. Brown had drawn two cards to his aces and had got a small pair As a balt be led off the betting with $5. Jones hadn't looked at his hand until Brown bet. and when he picked up his cards he almost fell dead. He had drawn an ace, jack and ten of spades, making a royal flush. They raised each other back and forth until one or the other had all his money in, and when the hands were shown the game broke up right there."-Washington Post

The Time to Break the Rule. There is an anecdote in some volume of French theatrical memoirs narrating an experience of Mile. Clairon, the great tragic actress, with a pupil of hers, a girl of strong natural gifts for the histrionic art, but far too frequent and too exuberant in her gesticulation. So when the pupil was once to appear before the public in a recitation Mile. Clairon bound the girl's arms to her side by a stiff thread and sent her thus upon the stage.

With the first strong feeling she had to express the pupil tried to raise her arms, only to be restrained by the thread. A dozen times in the course of her recitation she was prevented from making the gestures she desired until at the very end she could stand it no longer, and in the climax of her emotion she broke her bonds and swung her hands to her head.

When she came off the stage, she went humbly to where Mile. Clairon was standing in the wings and apologized for having snapped the thread. "But you did quite right!" said the teacher. "That was the time to make the gesture, not before!"-Brander Matthews in Harper's Magazine.

The Old Reliable. Its Interesting Sessions in Win-

PARKHURST'S AMENDMENT

Pound Conditions in the South No Worse Than in the North-Committee Fecommends Liberal Investment in Education of Girls.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star WINSTON SALEM, N. C., April 20 .-The conference of education here closed to day. Bishop McVickers, of Rhode Island, Mr. Walter H. Page and Dr. Charles Parkhurst were the principal speakers. The latter said he found conditions in the South no worse than in the North. He said he would rather have lived in Gomorrah than in New York city, and as to Philadelphia, that is the worst place in the country.

The report of the committee on plat form and resolutions was adopted. It

"We recognize the value of efforts itherto made to solve our educational problems, both as respects the methods to be used and also as re gards the sheet quantity of the work to be done. But we also find in the facts as presented at the sessions of this conference the imperative need of renewed efforts on a much larger scale; and we also find in the improved financial outlook of the country and in the advancing state of public opinion better hopes than ever before of a large response te this greater need. As the first great need of our people is adequate elementary instruction, and as this in struction must come to children so largely through mothers and women teachers in their homes and primary schools, we desire to emphasize our belief in the wisdom of making the most liberal investments possible in the education of girls. "Whereas, therefore, the conditions existing in the Southern States seem ripe for the large development as well as further improvement of the schools, and, whereas, this conference desires to associate itself actively with the work of organizing better school systems and extending their advantages to all people, "Resolved, That this conference proceed to organize by the appoint ment of an executive board of seven. who shall be fully authorized and empowered to conduct: First. A campaign of education for free schools for all the people, by supplying literature to the newspapers and periodical press, by participation in educational meetings and by general correspondence, and, "Second. To conduct a bureau of in formation and advice on legislation and school organization. "For these purposes this board is authorized to raise funds and disburse them, to employ a secretary or agent, and to do whatever may be necessary to carry out effectively these measures and others that may from time to time be found feasible and desirable."

A New Book For Men

Special Arrangements Whereby a Free Copy Can Be Obtained by Every Reader of This Paper.

For weeks the presses have been busy turning out the enormous edition of Dr. J. Newton Hathaway's new book—"Manliness, Vigor, Health"—necessary to Health"—necessary to satisfy the public demand. Dr. Hathaway has reserved a limited number of these books, and these he has specially arranged to send free by mail to all readers of this paper who send names and full address to him.

For 20 years Dr. Hathaway has confined his practice almost exclusively to diseases of men, and during that time he has restored more men to health, vigor, usefulness and happiness than any ten other doctors in the country combined.

Dr. Hathaway treats and cures by a method entirely his own, discovered and perfected by himself and used exclusively by him, Loss of Vitality, Varicocele, Stricture, Blood Polsoning in its different stages, Rheumatism, Weak Back, all manner of urinary complaints, Ulcers, Sores and Skin Diseases, Brights Disease and all forms of Kldney Troubles. His treatment for undertoned men restores lost vitality and makes the patient a strong, well, vigorous man.

Dr. Hathaway's success in the treatment of Varicocele and Stricture without the aid of knife or cautery is phenomenal. The patient is treated by this method at his own home without pain or loss of time from business. This is positively the only treatment which cures without an operation. Dr. Hathaway calls the particular attention of sufferers from Varicocele and Stricture to pages 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31 of his new book.

Every case taken by Dr. Hathaway is specially treated according to its nature, all under his general personalsupervision, and all remedies used by him are prepared from the purestand bestdrugs in his own laboratories under his personal oversight.

Dr. Hathaway makes no charge for consultation or advice, either at his office or by mail, and when a case is taken the one low fee covers all cost of medicines and professional services.

Dr. Hathaway always prefers, when it is possible, to have his patients call on him for at least one interview, but this is not essential, as he has cured scores of thousands of patients in all sections of the world whom he has never seen. His System of Home Treatment is so perfected that he can bring about a cure as surely and speedily as though the patient called daily at his office. J. NEWTON HATHAWAY, M. D. F

CONDITIONS IN THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Aguinaldo's Address - Insurgents Still Tranblesome-Civil Government Trial of Conspirators

By Cable to the Morning Stat Manila, April 20.-Aguinaldo has been removed from the Malcanang palace to a private residence on Solano street. The guard placed over him has been modified. General MacArthur informed the representative of the Associated Press that the effect of Aguinaldo's address to the Filipiaos would undoubtedly be beneficial. Aguinaldo composed his address without assistance. The original draft was in Tagalo. It was afterwards translated into Spanish.

It is believed Aguinaldo is sincerely desirous of peace. He is not an edu-cated man, but is possessed of considerable character and improves on acquaintance. Aguinaldo is not anxious to visit the United States and it is considered best that he should remain here, pending the completion of the work of pacification.

The insurgent prisoners at Olongapo will be returned to Manila. Many prisoners are released daily, in exchange for guns surrendered. General Trias (who surrendered March 15th at San Francisco de Malabon) is accomplishing much in securing the surrender of outstanding insurgents.

Bands Still Troublesome. Luban, in Samar, Malvar, in Batangas, and Minio, in Abra province, are still heading bands large enough to be troublesome, but it is almost certain that these three leaders will surrender within a month. The serious charges against General Cailles have placed him in a different category, but the fairest investigation will be offered Cailles in case he surrenders.

It is understood civil government will be established soon. The precise date has not been fixed on account of the administrative difficulties confronting the commission. It will probably be delayed until July 1, otherwise the military are ready. The trial of members of the Mando-Ducat secret society, who are charged with burying alive Filipinos who were opposed to the insurrection, and the trial of iusurgent agents, has elicited he fact that in one locality all the local officers, the parish priest and the president were the chief offenders. A reign of terror was secretly inaugurated, and persons refusing to contribute to the insurgent cause were buried alive by the direction of the president. All the details of the conspiracy have been unearthed, many arrests have been made, there is abundant evidence, and it is probable that all the ringleaders will be hanged.

Evils of Middle Life.

Men of middle age have by no means generation of ideas, the decay of home feeling, the loss of faith in fellow men, the unconscious development of hereditary traits at the expense of carefully trained motives and acts are among the besetting evils. There comes a time in the life of a man who has been held in place by school, church and society when he feel; that he is master, takes control and sails out. It behooves us to keep up our moral vigilance to the end of life.-President
