"I suffered for four years with what four physicians pronounced ulceration and prolapsals of the uterus," writes Mrs. Ada Brocks, of Kirby-ville, Taney Go., Missouri. "Also inflammation of blader and urethra. My case was chronic and complicated. Had several good physicians, but kept getting worse. Had been confined to my bed five months when I wrote to you. I received your reflip very soon and then dismissed my physician and began taking Dr. Piesce's medicines. I took eight bottles of his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Madical Discovery,' and basan to get better at one. In two months I could sit up in a chair, and kept getting better. THE ANIMAL IN MAN

WHICH OF THE SPECIES CONTROLS YOUR SPIRIT?

Or Mayhap You Are, as the Writer of This Article Intimates That an Analysis May Prove, a Whole Menageric In Yourself,

Of all animals upon earth man came last. All of earth's animal creations are bound up in man. As to the first statement there is no difference of opinion. The Bible and Darwin agree that man was created last of all the animals.

Very superficial observation will convince you that man contains in his mental make up all of the "inferior" animals, or at least a great many of them. You, Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith, who read this are in your single self a sort of synthesis of the entire animal creation. If you could be divided into your component animal parts, there would be a menagerie In your house, and you, Smith or Jones, would be missing. That thing we call a soul would be floating around, impalpable, looking for its house to live in. Of course you can see the animal make up in your neighbor more readily than n yourself.

How do men describe each other? Do they not speak as follows and mean exactly what they say: "He is as sly as a fox." "He eats like a pig." "He has doglike faithfulness." "He is as brave as a lion." "He is as treacherous as a snake." "He was as hungry as a wolf,"

Our good and our bad qualities alike are mapped out in our humble animal relations. The horse stands for ambition, which strives and suffers in silence. The dog represents friendship, which suffers and sacrifices much, but whines loudly when injured. We have no doubt that of the 12 passions which enter into Fourier's complex analysis of man each has its prototype in some one animal.
To rebel at the animal combination which makes up a man would be folly. The Maker of us all, from ants up, naturally gathered together the various parts in lower animal form before finishing the work of man. A harmoniously balanced mixture of all the animals is calculated undoubtedly to produce the perfect man. Therefore study your animal make up. Analyze honestly and intelligently the so called "lower" creatures from whom you derive your mental characteristics. If you have not yet done so, study at once some good work on embryology and learn with amazement and awe of your marvelous prenatal transformations. Then do your best to control the menagerie that s at work in your mind. Stupery Mr. Pig if he is too prominent.

Circumvent Mr. Fox if he tries to rule you and make of you a mere cunning machine. Do not let your old dog Tray qualities of friendship lead to your be-In short, study carefully the animal qualities that make up your temperament and prove in your own person the falseness of Napoleon's irritating statement that a man's temperament can nev er be changed by himself. It may interest you to note that when man becomes insane the fact is at once made apparent that his mind, dethroned had acted as the ruler of a savage menagerie. Many crazy men imagine themselves animals of one sort or another. all of them display the grossest animal qualities, once their mind is deranged. Women of the greatest refinement sink into dreadful animalism when insane. Heine tells of a constable who in his boyhood ruled his native city. One fine day "This constable suddenly went crazy. . . And thereupon he began to roar like a lion or squall like a cat." Heine remarks with calculated naivete: "We little boys were greatly delighted at the old fellow, and trooped yelling after him, until he was carried off to a mad-

There is, by the way, much of the nat-ural animal in "little boys." It takes years to make a fairly reasonable creature of a young human. For that reason many ignorant parents are foolishly distressed at juvenile displays of animalism, which are perfectly natural. The same Heine, whose writings you ought not to neglect, describes beautifully a human menagerie. We'll quote that, and then let you off for the day. Heine was living in Parls in the forties and used to visit a curious revolutionary freak named Ludwig Borne. Of this man's house Heine wrote:

"I found in his salon such a menagerie of people as can bardly be found in the Jardin des Plantes (the Paris zoological garden). In the background several polar bears were crouching, who smoked and hardly ever spoke except to growl out now and then a real fatherland 'Donnerwetter,' in a deep bass voice. Near them was squatting a Polish wolf in a red cap, who occasionally yelped out a silly, wild remark in a hourse tone. There, too, I found a French monkey, one of the most hideous creatures I ever saw. He kept up a series of grimaces, each of which seemed more lovely than the last," etc. If Heine's polar bears, wolf and monkey had studied themselves, as we advise you to study yourself, they might have escaped the sarcasm of the sharpest tongue ever born in or out of Germany .-New York Journal.

-Richard Stillman Powell in Harper's Barar. A WOMAN'S EXPEDIENT.

Clever Scheme to Enable a Prisone to Cut His Way Out of Jail. "Whenever I see that particular brand of canned peaches," said a New Orleans grocer, indicating a row of tins on the top shelf, "I am reminded of something very queer that happened here several years ago. One day in the summer of 1896, if I remember rightly, a refined ooking woman of about 30, dressed in deep mourning, came into the store and bought a couple of cans of California peaches of the brand I have just pointed out. She had a cab and took them with her, and I thought no more of the incldent until she returned next day, carry-ing the tins in her hand. 'I have a sick brother at ---,' she said, naming a small town in Alabama, and was intending to send him these seaches, with a bundle of other things, yesterday. But on second thought I believe I will buy a few more delicacies and get you to ship them sepa-

"There was nothing peculiar about the request, and I assured her I would be glad to attend to the matter. She ordered $4 or $5 worth of different articlesjellies, olives, marmalade, and so onpaid the bill and gave me her brother's name, directing the things to be sent to him in care of captain somebody or other at the Alabama town which she mentioned before. As soon as she left I got out a box and began to pack up the consignment, but as soon as I came to the peaches I noticed that the two cans which she had returned were both slightly 'blown,' as we call it in the trade. In other words, the tops bulged outward trifle, indicating that a little fermenta tion had been going on. Not wishing to send a sick man anything but the best I set them aside and put in two fresh cans from the shelf. The box was shipped by the first express.

"Nearly six months after this episode, continued the grocer, with twinkling eyes, "we were cleaning out our old stock and ran across those two cans of peaches I picked up one of them carelessly and, my hand being wet, a piece of the label came off. You may imagine my surprise to see a lot of small saws soldered to the side of the tin, and on further examina tion we found that they completely encircled the can and that the other was in exactly the same condition. At that began to have a faint inkling of the truth and lost no time in making a few inquiries. I found that the Alabama captain was the sheriff of his county and the invalid brother had been one of his official guests. He was a burglar and had since been sent to prison for ten years. The scheme was pretty shrewd In the first place, the sheriff would not be apt to be suspicious of a package of goods coming direct from a reputable business house, and, even if he opened the cans before giving them to the prisoner, there would be nothing wrong in-

"The cook must have been bitterly disappointed when he examined the substi-tutes that I sent. The saws, as we afterward found out, were highly tempered and could cut steel bar like yellow Who was the woman in black, did you ask? I have no idea, probably a sister or wife or sweetheart. I never laid eyes on her afterward."-New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He Talked In His Sleep. If precociousness is a sign of early decay, then a Williamsburg mother ha reason to worry. Recently she went out to spend the afternoon, and before leaving she instructed her 5-year-old hopeful that he was to take his after noon nap, as usual. Upon her return she asked him if he had been to sleep during her absence. "Yes, mamma, he replied. But she was not satisfied. "Are you sure you were asleep?" she asked again.

"Of course I was," he said again. Turning to the nurse, she said, "Was he asleep while I was away?" "I don't think so, madam. I heard him talking and laughing to himself." "What do you say to that?" turning to the youngster. "I must have been talking in my sleep," was the calm reply. Still more recently the child was throwing a baseball around the yard, and it broke a large plate glass window in the next house. His mother told him his father would punish him upon his return home that night and as a lesson said he must tell his father of the accident and how it happened The fact that he must tell his father seemed to worry him more than the breaking of the glass. But the mother was immovable, and that night at sup per he told of the occurrence tearfully out still defiant. When his father asked him if he threw it at the window purposely, he said, "No, but how could I tell it was going to curve?" The punishment was remitted.-New York Sun. A Bear Aboard Ship. "Bears make good pets," said Lieutenant Clark. "When I was in the revenue service at Alaska, we had one on the boat, and he made things hum. We named him Wineska. He used to climb to the crosstrees, going up hand over hand by the ratlines. One day he ventured out on the yardarm, and there he staid. We had to get a rope and haul him down. Once he vaulted over the head of our Chinese cook and went into the locker, where he helped himself to sugar and butter. "We had a tackling made for him. much the same as a harness of a pet dog, and would drop him overboard, with a rope attached, to take his bath. Once he landed in a native boat and nearly frightened the occupants out of their wits. He was as playful as a kitten, and, although sometimes he disobeyed, he was never treacherous or unkind. When he was lost or hid himself, as he often did, we would look in the dark till we saw two balls of fire. These were his eyes and gave him away every time."-New Orleans Pic-

GOVERNOR OFFERS REWARD.

Por the Arrest and Conviction of the Murderers of Two Italians at Erwin, Mississippi.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. JACKSON, MISS, July 20. - Governor Longino this afternoon offered $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of each of the murderers of Giovanni and Vincenzo Zerio and the wounding of Salvatore Liberto by a mob at Erwir, Miss., several days ago. The Governor this morning received a letter from Secretary Hay enclosing a copy of a note from the Italian charge d'affaires, in which Secretary Hay asked to be advised whether the persons killed were Italian subjects or had been naturalized. Replying to Secretary Hay to night, Governor Longino states that his private advices are that none of the Italians named above was a naturalized American citizen but that he will make official in quiry and report later.

The Governor advised Secretary Hay that he went in person to Washington county the second day after the unfortunate occurrence and learned from the sheriff who had been telegraphed, that the Italian consul at Vicksburg had asked for protection for these Italian subjects. The Governor found that the sheriff upon the receipt of his telegram visited the scene of the murder, but was unable to reach there in time to ascertain the names of the guilty parties. The crime was committed under cover of darkness and the murderers fled. The Governor had a conference with the criminal judge and the prosecuting attorney of the county, both of whom expressed purpose to exercise the full power of the law for the apprehension and punishment of all concerned in the crime The people of Greenville, the county seat of Washington county, where the murder occurred, held a mass meeting and by resolution deplored and condemned the action of the guilty par ties, and requested a special term of the circuit court in order that the stain may be effectively wiped out by the lawful and proper punishment of the criminals. The Governor to-night transmitted a copy of these resolutions to Secretary Hay, whom he assures that every effort will be made to apprehend and punish the guilty parties.

WEARY WILLIES' PARADISE.

Why the Hobo That Drifts to Central America Never Drifts Back. "A good many typical American hoboes drift down to Central America." said an official of a local banana company, "and one good thing about it is that they never get back again. The country seems to suit them up to the hilt. I have been watching the tramp travel for several years, and it has afforded me considera ble amusement. Some of them scrape up enough money to pay for a deck passage, but most of them stow away or go down as roustabouts. When they land they generally drift a little distance into the interior, and that settles it.

"In Nicaragua and Costa Rica especially life is very easy for an ablebodies man who has an aversion to working and is not very particular about his surroundings. All he has to do is to marry a native woman and settle down in some little banana or cocoanut grove for the balance of his days. To my certain knowledge that is exactly what has been done by a large number of Weaty Willies from the United States. I call to mind one case on the south end of the Mosquito reservation. "A thoroughbred American tramp, who looked as if he had just stepped out of the pages of some comic weekly, drifted down there about three years ago and is now enjoying life as a landed gentleman He managed to annex a half breed wife and with her a scraggy little banana grove. It is not much to look at, but abundant to supply the simple needs of the household. They live in a filthy native hut. The woman does all the work, and the ex-tramp dreams the happy hours away in a homemade cocoanut fiber hammock. He is very solid with all the neighboring Indians, who have an indiscriminate respect for a white skin. and I suppose they contribute to his support. Anyhow, he confided to me last time I saw him that he hadn't done a lick of work since he struck the country. The natives make a kind of rum out of wild cane, and he gets boiling drunk whenever he feels so inclined. "Altogether it is an idyllic life for a fellow who has ridden brake beams and dodged constables throughout the inhospitable states. By advertising the attractions of the country and supplying transportation we might get rid of the tramp incubus altogether."—New Orleans Times-
