ZEB WHITE HAD A HEAP OF FUN WITH THE VARMINT.

The Possum Hunter's Story of the Tricks He Played on Poor Bruin and the Way the Unforgiving Beast Beat Him Out of the Hide.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.] "One September day," said the old possum hunter of Tennessee as I essed him for a story, "I was sittin on mese yere steps smokin my pipe when a b'ar suddenly appeared out thar by the co'ner of the pigpen. I didn't git flustrated. I seen the b'ar was pore in flesh, and I knowed his fur wasn't prime. It ain't no use to kill a b'ar jest fur the sake of killin. Besides, thar was some thin sort of cute lookin in his face. As we looked at each other he cocked his ears and seemed to say: "'Hello, Zeb White! I've called around to see yo'. I won't be wuth killin fur two months yit, and meanwhile, if yo' don't mind, we'll hev some

"I took it that he said that, and the old woman took it that way, too, and so I didn't skeer him off. He sauntered around fur a spell and then disappeared, but I knowed what he was up to. I had two hives of bees, and he

"WE LOOKED AT EACH OTHER." had marked 'em down and would be back some night arter honey. It wasn't an hour befo' I moved them hives out of his reach and replaced 'em with two hives filled with straw. I shet the old dog up in the house that night, and 'long 'bout midnight he begun to whine and growl. I jest got to the winder when the b'ar showed up. He was arter that honey, and he hadn't no time to waste. One hive wasn't 'nuff' fur him, and he knocked both over as soon as he got within reach and then made ready fur a feast. When he found them hives hard packed with straw, he knowed it was a joke, and mean over it that I laughed fur half an hour. That b'ar went away feelin hurt in his feelin's, but I was suah he'd come back ag'in some other night and try to pay me off. "I had jest penned up a likely pig, and that b'ar was bound to hev pig meat if he couldn't hev honey. He was suah to be back the next night, and so I spent two hours greasin the roof of the pen with soft soap. When I was through, it was so slippery that even claws wouldn't take hold. On the second night, 'bout 11 o'clock, the b'ar showed up ag'in. He had bin thinkin of fresh pork all the afternoon and had got hungry over it, and arter one look around he climbed upon the roof of the pen. It had a steep pitch to it, and it dropped off into a gully, and that b'ar had skassly got up before he was slidin down like a log of wood. He shot off the roof into the gully like a big ball, and me and the old woman laughed till the tears came. Three times the b'ar tried it, and three times he was dumped. I yelled at him and called him names, and his feelin's was hurt ag'in. He was so 'shamed 'bout things that he wouldn't even fight the "I knowed the varmint wouldn't gin up that way, but would keep comin back till he got sunthin. It struck me that he'd go fur the chickens next, and so I had a trap all ready fur him. He was too cute to step into it, and arter roamin around fur awhile he went off. laughed at him and called him a mighty pore b'ar, and he appeared so lonesome over it that I almost pitied him. He didn't come back the next night or the next, but on the third night he showed up ag'in, and I had another joke ready fur him. I had headed the old dawg up in a stout bar'l and then wrapped the bar'l around with barbed wire. I used up 200 feet of wire around that bar'l, and the barbs stuck out like quills of a porcupine. As soon as the b'ar appeared the old dawg begun to bark and raise a fuss. I don't reckon that varmint had ever heard of a dawg in a bar'l befo'. and I'm suah be hadn't never met with no barbed wire. He jest walked around to make sartin of things and then "Lemme tell yo' that thar was mo fun in the next ten minits than most b'ars and dawgs and folks hev in a hull ar. Bruin started in to bust that bar'l by huggin, but he soon gin it up. Then he rolled it 'bout, but every time he struck it he got a prick. Sometimes he'd chase it, and sometimes he'd run away from it, and he did hate to gin up beat. It wasn't no use in him fightin that bar'l, though, and he finally let it go and sorter cried over it. He went off with his head down and a homesick shamble, and the old woman turns to me and asks: "'Zeb. what'll that b'arskin be wuth when snow flies?

" ''Bout $10,' says I.

" 'Then yo' air $10 out of pocket That b'ar ain't gwine to furgive yo fur hurtin his feelin's as yo' hev.' "'But what kin he do?' "'Dunno, but yo' jest remember what

"The old woman was right," continued Zeb. "That b'ar never showed up no mo' around my place. 'Long 'bout the fust of November I started out Steel Corporation. The proposition with my gun and dawg to gather him to arbitrate was turned down by the in, and I was reckonin on the value of his hide to git boots and shoes fur the winter. I routed him out after a long tramp, and what d'ye think he did? and he actually went right up to the doah and laid down and seemed to beg Sam to come out and shoot him. He was dead and bein skinned when I got thar, and all I got was a piece of the fresh meat. I had had a heap of fun, but that b'ar had beat me out of my winter boots to pay fur it." M. QUAD.

Taking an Exception. "Ain't you the ornery vagabone," said the sharp faced woman, looking at him more closely, "that made a chalk mark on the gate post when you went out of the yard after I gave you a meal of vittles last year?"

"I dunno, ma'am," replied Tuffold Knutt. "I had a spell of sickness an lost my memory after I was here last year." "If you lost your memory, how do you know you was here at all?" she retorted, preparing to shut the door.

"You are throwin me out, ma'am," protested Tuffold Knutt majestically, "on a mere technicality."—Chicago Tribune.

WORKERS OBEYED SHAFFER'S ORDER.

Wherever They Were Organized and Enrolled in Lodges of the Association.

GREAT STEEL STRIKE IS ON

More Plants to be Dismantled by the Steel Trust-Talk of Arbitration-Situation at Pittsburg-No Excitement or Violence.

By Telegraph to the Morning star. PITTSBURG, August 10.-The great steel strike is on. The general order of President Shaffer, of the Amalgamated Association, became effective to day and thousands of workers left their places to return at some indefinite time in the future, either victori ous or in humble defeat. The order to strike was generally obeyed wherever the workers were organized and enrolled in the lodges of the Amalgamated Association, but it will be Monday before an accurate count can be made of the men who have gone out. A great majority of the mills close down on Saturday and reopen Sunday night and the true test of the strength of the contending sides will be furnished by the number of men who return to work to-morrow and Monday The policy of the American Federation of Labor has not yet been fully demonstrated and that fact contributes another element of uncertainty to the situation. The action of the executive committee of the Mine Workers at Indiauspolis to-day in resolving to support the strikers cheered the Amalgalabor and the opening hours of the strike lacked spectacular action. All Quiet at Pittsburg. This city, which is the strike center, was calm and undisturbed. There was no excitement or violence, and the pulse of the community was normal. The police officials issued an order suspending for the time being the vacation system. They do not anticipate trouble, but want to have every man here and ready for duty in case it should come. They say that President Shaffer has counselled peaceful methods and that they hope the strikers and their sympathizers mated men and they are confident that the Federation will aid them to the fullest extent. The closing hours of will heed his advice. The strikers held a series of demonstrations in the outlying towns, and President Shaffer spoke a final word encouragement to his industrial troops. Great throngs of workers turned out to greet and cheer the leader and exchange pledges to main . tain the contest upon which they have More Plants to be Dismantled.

A striking development of the day was an official announcement from the American Tin Plate Company, to the effect that certain plants of the company crippled by the strike would be dismantled and removed to Monessen. Almost at the same time it was unofficially announced that there was a chance that the plant of the American Steel Hoop Company, at Warren, O, would be torn down and removed to some community more favorable to the corporation. The order yester day directing the Dewees Wood plant at McKeesport to be dismantled is already being carried out and the analyses. nouncement from the American Tin Plate Company created a marked impression. Representatives of the strikers insisted that the company was not in good faith in the announce ment, and that even if it was, it could not win with such methods. Oppo nents of the strikers counted the plan another victory, and declared that the strike must fail in the face of such decisive action. Offer to Arbitrate. President Shaffer began his final tour among the strikers early to-day. He left Pittsburg this morning and shortly before noon reached Newcastle. Two thousand organized workmen paraded there before his arrival and were lined up around the union station when he arrived. His welcome was an enthusiastic one. In the afternoon he spoke to 6,000 Union men in the ampitheatre in Cascade Park and submitted an offer for the submission of the issues of the strike to arbitration. This was his formal tender for arbitration: "Now in our willingness to settle the matter we are ready to arbitrate. Let the Amalgamated Association select one man and let the trust select the two to select the third. We will abide by the decision of the three. wish this to be generally known." The reference made by President Shaffer to the willingness of the Amalgamated Association to arbitrate was followed by the announcement here to-night in behalf of the strikers that on Friday an offer to arbitrate was formally submitted to the United States Steel Corporation. According to this statement the offer was made to J. P. Morgan, whose reply, rejecting it, was: "This is no time for arbitration.

The subject was discussed on Fri-day by President Shaffer, President Gompers, Joseph Bishop, Frank Morrison, M. M. Garland and an unnamed official of the American Tin Plate Company, and a basis for the submission of the question was agreed upon. It is said that President Shaffer opposed the plan at first, but was finally won over and agreed to cer-tain concessions in behalf of the Amalgamated Association.

The strikers are using the incident in their fight. They say that they went much farther than could be ex pected, and that they have been put on the defensive, which threatens the existence of their organization. Secretary Williams made the following statement to the Associated Press to-night: "A disinterested party called at the Amalgamated Association headquarters and offered to use his services looking to arbitration of the matter in dispute between the Amalgamated Association and the United States

Conflicting Claims.

At 1:30 this (Sunday) morning there is such a conflict in the strike reports that an estimate of the men who have joined the strike is impossible. It seems certain that the 9,000 men em-ployed by the National Tube Company at McKeesport will go out. The strikers claim that they will get many men in the two Pittsburg mills of the Carnegie Company, but the steel officials say that none of the men will go out. Conservative opinion at Wheeling, W. Va., awards the strikers 6,000 men in that district. Nine hundred men will leave the Republic works here in Poreign Representatives Hopeful of Signing of the Protocol.

By Cable to the Morning Star PEKIN, August 10 .- A spirit of compromise characterized the meeting of the ministers to-day, and the foreign representatives are hopeful of the signing of the settlement protocol in a few days after telegraphic communication with their governments.

The tariff will become effective two months after the signing of the agreement. It was agreed to-day that ship-ments made within ten days after the signing should not be affected by the new rates, regardless of the date of their arrival. The tariff will be 5 per cent. ad valorem, with a few exceptions. A majority of food stuffs, including flour and rice, will play 10 per cent. The tariff, coupled with the abolition of the likin tax, will probably be the subject of future negotia-

HE MISSED HIS GUESS.

The Friendly Young Man Met With a Painful Rebuff.

She was a bright, vivacious suburban girl about 18 years old. She was almost viciously opposed to young men who try to begin flirtations with young women In short, she was from Kenwood. He lived on the South Side and found his way home evenings, as also did the young woman, by way of the Illinois Central. He was only 20 and not a habitual flirt, but he was taking his first toddling steps into the dangerous and unknown. The youth had seen the young woman several times on the train, and once he cleared his phroat and raised his hat as she passed him on the way out of the train at her station. He wondered whether it was the slackening speed of the cars or a desire to get a better view of his face which made her half pause almost in front of him. After that day he longed for another opportunity to make further explorations and advance his picket lines. At last the blessed opportunity arrived. One evening he found the young woman sitting by herself on the train which was just about to pull out of the Randolph street station: He made for the vacant place beside her with the speed of a trolley car as the train started southward. "I beg pardon, is that seat taken?" he asked tremblingly as the blood rushed to "It is not," courteously responded the young woman as she moved slightly toward the window to make room for him. "Heavens, how delightfully easy!" he thought to himself. His head fairly spun at this encouragement. He must go in now to win. He must strike while the iron was hot. But in his delirium of joy he could not think of anything to say. But he must say something, or the young woman would think she had wasted her encouragement on unproductive soil. She would be disgusted with her lack of judgment in giving such a weakling a chance. Perspiration was standing out on the straw like a drowning man, he turned to the young woman and exclaimed in halt-"It's a pleasant evening." The young woman turned upon him with a peculiar kind of smile that nearly froze him to the seat and said, "Does oo like to wide on the choo-choo cars? Isn't oo afwaid to wide all by ooself?" The next second the seat at the side of the young woman was vacant, and the young man was disappearing through the rear door of the car.-Chicago Chronicle

Filtered Water. The filtration of the water supply of cities by means of sand filter beds, or mechanical contrivances, has rapidly advanced in this country during the past ten years, but it is far more general in Great Britain than here. Mr. Allen Hazen, an authority on sanitary engineering, avers that the fact is fully established that the death rate from typhoid fever is materially lowered by the filtration of I the water supply. In Great Britain cities containing an aggregate population of more than 10.000,000 people use a sand filtered water supply, and the result, it is claimed, is shown in London's freedom from typhoid.
