A HORRIBLE STORY.

Shipwrecked Seamen Prolonged Life By

Drinking Blood of Companions.

By Cable to the Morning Star. LONDON, Nov. 20 .- The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Wellington,

N. Z., cables that the eight survivors of the steamer Elingamite, who were rescued on a raft by the British survey sleamer Penguin, admit that while their minds were unhinged by hunger some of them prolonged life by drinking the blood of their companions. This was mostly done by mutual consent of the two parties, incisions bing made in their skins and each sucking the blood of the other simults cously. Those of the castaways refusing to do this were "tapped" whilst they were asleer, and it is alcommission "or get out of the union." leged that the stewardess died of exassistion through loss of blood taken by this process.

The correspondent adds that the tory of the survivors has caused a feeling of horror in Wellington, their the anthracite coal country. action being regarded as inexcusable, as the raft was only four days and a half afloat.

the islands, under both Presidents McKin ley and Roosevelt had been of an absolute non-partisan character. President Roosevelt had not intended to speak at this reception, but the assemblage would not be denied and he spoke briefly.

The reception tendered by the col ored people was truly remarkable. General Wright earned their undying gratitude during the two yellow fever epidemics twenty years ago, by remaining here when most of the whites had fled and seeing that the sick were cared for. The hall was packed, gal leries and pit, to the point of suffoca-tion and the whole spirit of the proceedings breathed admiration for their

of D. friend. General Wright, in addressing the colored audience, talked chiefly of their future, telling them of the dif-ferent problems before them. He said that it would perhaps have been better for both races had the change from slavery to citizenship not come so sud> denly. The following is the President's speech to the negroes: "General Wright has succeeded i the Philippines by displaying just those qualities which each one of us must in a lesser degree display, if we are to be good citizens here at home. There is nothing peculiar in government. Good government consists in supplying the old humdrum, everyday, common-place virtues which all of us learn, but which all of us do not practice. If a man is fearless, is honest, has consideration for others and is gifted with the crowning grace of common sense, he is going to do fairly well. "We all of us, tend to business on fall together. If any set of us goes down the whole nation sags a little. If any of us raise ourselves a little then by just so much the nation as a whole is raised. Every man who does markedly good work on the one sphere of government, by just so much helps all of us and elevates all of us. It is a great thing when we can point to any American who has tendered signal service in any position. It makes all of us a little better Americans, and makes us feel spurred on to do a little better work as citizens, each in his own sphere of activity." At the conclusion of the President's remarks, the entire audience of more than 3,000 united in singing "God Be With You Until We Meet Again."

At mid-night the presidential party left for Washington over the South-ern railroad. Col. L. S. Brown, general manager of the Southern, was in charge of the train. No stops will be made on the way. The train will reach Washington at 6 o'clock Friday morn-

Judge Gray then announced the de-

After William's time the rulers of England, with possibly here and there an exception, swore with great frequency and vigor. It is related that even Queen Bess, whose auburn locks did not belie a fiery temper, would break into a string of expletives that would rattle the royal windows and frighten the household and royal attendants from all sense of diplomatic recourse .- London Tatler.
