Carry Out the Negotiations.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. WASHINGTON, May 6.-The latest advices received here indicate that President Marroquin, of Colombia, has almost decided not to call a special session of the Colombian Congress, to act upon the Panama canal treaty. When the call was issued for an election of the members of the Colombian Congress it was the intention to call a special session about the 11th instant, the call naming the Panama treaty as the first subject to be considered; financial measures to follow. But the opposition developed to the treaty has been more pronounced than the President supposed, and he has thus far refrained from naming the day of meeting, hoping that as the election progressed the government would be reasonably sure of a majority to carry out its programme. But the opposition continues to gain and the prospects for a government majority are so doubtful that President Marroquin now seems indisposed to act. In that event, the Colombian Congress

would under the constitution assemble July 20th in regular session. At that session it might take up the canal treaty but much doubt is felt here as to whether or not the treaty would be This outlook, however, does not dis courage the officials who had to do with the making of the treaty. The United States government has gone so far in its negotiations with Colombia that confidence is felt here that President Marroquin will feel himself bound to carry out the engagements into which he has entered. The Colombian constitution contains some peculiar paragraphs enlarging the pow ers of the executive in case of disturbed conditions beyond any degree known in the United States, and if there is the slightest sign of forcible opposition to the government or of revolutionary uprisings, such as have been hinted at in the stories from Kingston, Jamaica, and from Isthmian points, indicative of a purpose to sever the isthmus from Colombian sovereignty, the president may arrogate to himself dictatorial power and himself go to the length of ratifying the canal treaty with the United States. CONSTANTINOPLE, May 6 .- The irritation in Turkish official circles against Bulgaria is constantly growing more acute and the government of that principality has been formally notified in rigorous language that the Porte holds it responsible for the outrages arising from the freedom of action which the Macedonian agitators living in Bulgaria have been allowed. It is reported that the Porte has de cided to mobilize the whole of the second and third army corps stationed at Adrianople and Salonics, respectively. The police of Constantinople have arrested sixty Bulgarians and have made numerous domiciliary visits, including one to the residence of the secretary of the Bulgarian dip'omacy agency, whose papers were seized. At that moment a rough looking stranger appeared around the end of the plazze, and a revolver in hand, ordered Mr. Sturtevant to throw up his hands. The order was not obeyed and Miss Sturtevant stepped in front of her father to shield him from harm just as the intruder fired, the bullet entering her body with fatal result.

If the meeting at the "blind tiger" Bunday night, told of by the widow, can be proved, the assassin and the plotters may yet be

At least three men know who assassinated James Marcum, and though they are silent it is believed their fate is sealed. Such knowledge in Breathitt means death or exile. There are also others yet who know who assassinated Jim Cockrell. They will not be overlooked. If these people remain or there is the possi-bility of a rigid investigation by the law, I believe that they wil be put out of the way at an early day. Several families are preparing to follow the example of more than fifty people who during the last six months have fled the county. Male members will leave immediately, and when they have found a home the women and children will follow."

War With Great Britain.

By Cable to the Morning Star. LONDON, May 6 .- Foreign Secretary Lansdowne has proclaimed a British Monroe doctrine in the Persian Gulf, and has practically notified the competing powers that any attempt on their part to establish a naval base or fortified post in those waters means war with great Britain.

"I say without hesitation," said the foreign secretary, dealing with the subject in the House of Lords yesterday, "that we should regard the es-tablishment of a naval base or a fortified port in the Persian Guif by any other power as a very grave menace to British interests, and we should certainly resist it with all the means at our disposal." Lord Lansdowne preceded this ex-plicit enunciation of British policy by a review of the situation there, as it affected British interests, contending that so far as the navigation of the Persian Gulf was concerned, Great Britain held a position different to that of the other Powers, both because it was owing to British enterprise and expenditure of life and money that the gulf was now open to the commerce of the world, and because of the protection of the sea route to India Lord Landowne's attitude in this matter generally meets with approval, although the answers thereto from Treasurer James S. Sturtevant, of the the other powers interested in the gulf are awaited with some anxiety.

No advices have been received here from the scene of the collision since yesterday. The hydrographic office has charted the Saginaw as a dangerous obstacle in the path of coastwise shipping. It is learned that the cargo of the Saginaw while not complete, was very valuable. ## THE SECONDHAND STORE.

An Incident of Everyday Life In the Metropolis. Into the secondhand shops of the metropolis is continually pouring a stream of finely made and little worn garments of good material that tell a sad story of decline from better days by those who part with the clothing.

Stylish dresses of finest cloth, of silk and satin trimmed with lace, no longer proper after financial reverses, go into these shops and bring to the former wearers a few dollars that under changed conditions seem so much more than did the large sums paid for them.

And into these shops go purchasers who desire goods better than those they can afford to buy in the firsthand stores, and so from those who are going down to those who are struggling up go the finery and substantial garments that are fitted to serve two masters. Into one of these shops the other night there came a timid looking woman, and when I saw her I stepped into a corner darkened by a profusion of hanging garments, for I thought that she had entered because she believed the woman in attendance to be there alone. She asked to see some street dresses, and a number were shown her. The bargaining was protracted. The saleswoman insisted that her prices were low and that she was really asking no profits on her goods, yet the other hesitated, while dress after dress was laid before her.

Finally a gray street dress was spread before the customer. "This is a great bargain," said the shopkeeper. "You can have it for their Utility In Advancing the In terests of Business Men. There are many instances of where a ie catch line well drilled into as been of great value in build-The best catch line is att fits your business best, and discoverer of such a line is apt to due more to inspiration than to effort. Pick the distinctive feature of your stock or business methods and endeavor to express it in a breath. If you can coin a phrase that expresses your central business idea or emphasizes some feature that marks your store alone, you can make good use of it. It puts into condensed form an idea that will get hold of people and influence them if persistently presented to them. One fact about your business well lodged in the heads of people is as good as a score that do not penetrate.

You can make people believe about what you like if you go about it properly. If a man comes to you today and tells you there will be a panic inside of six months, you will pay no attention to him. If another comes tomorrow with the same story, he will get no attention, but you will idly wonder what is getting into folks. The third man you will argue the matter with. and you will begin to see signs of disaster yourself. By the time the tenth man has made the statement you will be ready to tell folks the same story yourself.

Probably you yourself could not be influenced in such a manner, but the common run of people are built that way and will believe what they are told often enough. That is why an expressive catch phrase does good. It comes to stand for you and your methods and of necessity is remembered when goods in your line are wanted.

As ordinarily used such a phrase is of little value, because it is not proper ly hammered into people. Such a line should go on letter heads, billheads stationery, envelopes, should go into every ad. or circular, should be seen about the store and should appear on labels. Put it on a sticker to attach to goods and packages. Let people see it everywhere. If it means what it says, people are going to respond to it. -American Druggist.

GOT RID OF THE HIRED MAN. A friend who has about eighty acres in crops to care for and who usually keeps one hired man to assist him is getting along without help this season and doing pretty well at it too. He keeps two teams of horses, and he went and bought a gang plow which requires the two teams. He got a twenty-five foot drag and rigged a little cart behind it, so that he rides all day. He will use a hay loader in the field and a hay fork at the barn. His wife has agreed to milk the two cows and look after the garden and drive the horse on the pulley when he fills the barn with hay in consideration of not having a hired man in the home to provide for, and, while he may not have wholly solved the problem this year, he says that he will so shape his work another season as to be independent of hired help even though he does not do quite so big a business. CORN FOR FODDER CROP. We are asked about corn for a purely fodder crop. It's a big thing and hard to beat. We prefer the fore part of June for planting. Drill in a bushel of seed per acre (better more than less), plant regulation width and aim to give the crop two cultivations. There will be nubbins on the stalks so planted, the stalks will be tall and slim and may be cut, bound and shocked with s corn harvester, and if properly put up an acre of good corn land will thus furnish four tons or more of the best fodder on earth, every particle of which will be eaten by the stock. Where the land can be spared this is even a better way than to cut up the field corn, as it is so much nicer to handle. Try it for the dairy.

POOR SEEDS. We have run up against a lot of poo garden seeds this spring-not one sort, but several sorts. They were purchased from one of the most reliable seedhouses in the country, but for some unknown reason not over 50 per cent of the corn, beans, radishes, lettuce, beets, peas, lima beans and parsnips had vitality enough to germinate. This is a very aggravating thing. The complaint is quite general this spring and may have its origin in the abnormal heat and drought of last season. In

HAWAIIAN FISHERMEN.

Hands and Teeth Play a Part I Capturing the Octopus.

The native fisherman of Hawaii, while an adept with the hook and line, does not scorn to use his hands to capture his prey when occasion arises. The bonito is the fish most generally caught with hook and line, and as the hook used is of mother of pearl, made from the shell of a mollusk now quite rare, which glistens with an iridescence similar to the shimmer from the scales of the smaller kinds of fish on which the bonito lives, no bait is needed. The barb of these hooks is of bone, and two tufts of hog's bristles attached at right angles to the barbed and keep the inner side up, so that the When a likely fishing ground sea. has been reached, the fisherman, standing up in the canoe, casts out his line violently, so that the hook falls with a slap on the water and attracts the attention of the fish. The line and hook are then drawn rapidly toward the boat, as though it were a spoon, and the bonito, taking the hook to be a small fish, rises to it immediately. It is fortunate for the fisherman that he has to waste no time in baiting his hook, for this method of casting frightens the school, and the fish disappear within ten or fifteen minutes. An ingenious plan by which very arge fish are caught is by planting a long pole on the shore in such a position as to cause it to lean decidedly toward the water. On the top of this a bell is arranged so that it can swing clear of the top of the pole. A block and fall are also attached to the pole close to the top, and a long line, with baited hook at the end, is run through the block and allowed to float out to sea, the land end being tied in a slipknot to the bottom of the pole. As soon as a fish is booked its struggles cause the bell to ring, whereupon the fisherman runs to the pole, loosens the slipknot and plays the fish until he has drowned it, when it is hauled ashore. In fishing for octopus the native dives to the bottom and with a stick pokes around in the small holes in which the octopus lives. When he touches one, it seizes the stick and allows him to draw it out of the hole. When he reaches the surface, the native grabs it with his hands and bites into the head, thus killing the animal.
