

THE GUARDIAN OF OUR BODY

The foremost biologist of our day, Metschnikoff, has shown the world cience that there are leucocytes in our od that act as scavengers or policemen. ese policemen which are called phagocytes look out for the noxious or poisonous elements in our blood. Various offending elements are picked out of the blood and tissues by these policemen and destroyed. Therefore our lives are protected by these blood-cell-policemen, the phagocytes, and we enjoy immunity from disease so long as our blood contains plenty of phago-cytes and red blood corpuscles.

"A new broom sweeps clean"—and in order to put our own house in order we must get rid of all the poisons in the blood with a new broom such as an alterative extract made from roots and herbs—without the use of alcohol, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a specific for making rich red blood—for eradicating the poisons from the blood. In some way the policemen in the blood are increased in her and strength-so that we are put in the best possible shape to resist disease—to cure neuralgia, colds, catarrh, and in "The more study as "The more study and time is given to the subject the more we find that the blood is the center of life"—says Dr. R. V. Pierce, the noted specialist of Buffalo, "the health and comfort of the average person depends entirely on this blood supply—for the heart must have pure blood or it will not pump and keep the body supplied regularly like the beautiful automatic engine it is. The nerves must be fed on pure blood—or we suffer the pain of neuralgia, which is the suffer the pain of neuralgia, which is the cry of the starved nerves for food. Head-aches, cold in the head, catarrh—and many things are due to stagnation of the Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a mild laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

AUTO RACE FOR VANDERBILT CUP

Exciting Event Witnessed by Thousands of People on Long Island.

WAS CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS One Man Killed, Another Seriously Injured, Many Lives Placed in Jeopardy and Many Thousands of > Dollars Expended, By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW : YORK, Oct. 8. - Four-wheeled rehicles of all sorts of incongruous shapes, rushing along the road at a speed from sixty to ninety miles an hour, the air resounding with the 'honk honk" of horns, the clanging of bells, and the shouts of guards, signal flags waving and fluttering, and an occasional cheer from thousands of throats was the atmosphere in Minols, Homestead, Garden City and other Long Island suburbs of Greater New York to-day, during the three hun-dred mile auto race for the William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., cup.

One death, one man in hospital eriously injured, many lives placed in jeopardy during seven or eight hours of the day and many thousands of dollars expended, is the result. The story of the race itself is one of ntense excitement and nerve tension. After running for seven hours, some imes at a speed of sixty to ninety miles an hour, faster than many express trains, George Heath, an Amer-ican, driving a 90-horse power vehicle, of foreign make, and representing the obile Club of France, finished first in the run of three hundred miles, with Albert Clement, representing the same club and driving an 80-horse power machine, also of foreign make, one minute and twenty-eight seconds behind him. When the two men flashed by the judges the crowds in the adjoining grand stand rose in a body and cheer after cheer relieved the tension of nerves that had held the crowd for so many hours. But the award was not et certain, for Clement lodged a proest with the racing board of the Automobile Association of America, under whose control the race was held, and the decision given but a few minutes before was withdrawn until the board had made an investigation into he claims set forth by Clement. These were of a technical nature. Clement n his protest declared that he had been held up in Hempstead over a minute and a half and that if this time had been allowed him he would have won the race. He said that his gasoene tank broke in Hempstead and that time was taken on him while he was repairing it, contrary to the conditions of the race. He also asserted that his time in controls had been charged against him. Like all previous races of the kind. here was a chapter of accidents and fatality. The victims were among the participants in the contest. Fortunately, none of the spectators along the course was hurt. The man killed was Carl Meusel, a chaffeur, who was driving the car of George Arents, of New York. The accident was caused by the tires slipping and it occurred about 8 o'clock, two hours after the start. The car was travelling at a tremendous rate and was approaching a curve, when it suddenly swerved and turned completely over. Meusel was caught beneath the machine while Arents was thrown to one side. Both men were taken to a hospital, where it was found Meusel had one arm broken and that his skull was fractured and that he had numerous cuts and bruises. One ear was torn off, one ankle sprained and he was internally injured. He died half an hour later at the hospital. Arents escaped with a few cuts and bruises. Arents' car was demolished. The race was started at 6 o'clock, The course was over a thirty-mile triangle with turns that were sharp and dangerous. At two places the railroad crossed the highway grade, and these places were guarded by signal men.

Twice at these crossings Gabriel, a French motorist, narrowly missed being struck by a train, in one instance running but two feet ahead of a loco-The starters in the race were: A. L. Campbell, Gabriel, Jos. Tracey, A. C. Webb, George Arents, Jr., H. H. Little, Heath, Ed. Hawley, Werner, Paul Sartoris, Maurice Ber-nin, Albert Clement, Tarte Teste, Charles Schmidt, Frank Croker, Luttgen and William Wallace After the first car was off, promptly at 6 A. M., the others followed at two minutes intervals. The Vanderbilt car was out of order when it came time to start and it was more than two hours later that it was ready. A flying start in violation of the rules was made, but the car kept on. It was officially barred, however. The first accident of the day occurred when car No. 19, driven by Wallace, stopped for repairs at Hempstead. The machinist, Antonio Bonderi, was under the vehicle when it started without warning, and the rear wheels passed over his body. His injuries are not serious, however.

The machine owned by E. R. Thomas and driven by Hawley, while making one of the turns, swerved from the road, ran upon the grass along the road and narrowly missed crashing into a tree. Spectators were panic stricken, but the danger soon passed Later the Thomas machine broke down and retired from the race. Frank Croker's daring driving was a feature that brought speciators to their feet. After the fourth time around the 30-mile triangle, however, his machine had sustained injuries that put it out of the running. There was a continuous bursting of tires at one point in the course that aroused suspicion and investigation showed that a quantity of sharp nails and broken glass had been thrown on the roadway. To this was due the retirement of a number of the machines early in the race. Of the eighteen starters but eight remained in the race at the fifth round of the triangle or when the race was half over. Heath covered the last Chicago Journal.

— Stranger (at the door)—I am trying to find a lady whose married laps was 63 miles an hour. His average speed during the ten laps was 63 miles an hour.

The four remaining in the race, and who were from two to three laps be-hind at the finish, were called off without being allowed to finish be-cause of its being found impossible to keep the crowd any longer under con-trol after the exciting race between Heath and Clement. The first real excitement that brought the crowd in the grand stand to its feet was when Clement and Croker were coming to the line on the second round at a crashing speed, with but a second between them. As they dashed on past the judges' stand the spectators along the roadway scurried into the stand, the records in the stand rose and cheer. the people in the stand rose and cheer-ed. It was on the next round that Croker punctured a tire and retired.

Campbell, in an 80 horse power machine, was first to cross the white band across the roadway at the start. He was followed wo minutes later by Gabriel, who held the lead for 60 miles or through the second round.

His net time was 27 minutes 14 sec His net time was 37 minutes 14 seconds, or a rate of 62 miles an hour.

Heath passed Queens in the second round in second place, having jumped from seventh to fourth place in the first round and to second place in the second round. At the third round Heath finished 7 minutes and 58 seconds ahead of Gabriel.

At 8-8 Tests was first. Heath second.

At 8:8 Teste was first, Heath second, Clement third and Gabriel fourth. Heath, however, finished the fourth round in the lead as to actual time. Hawley quit at the end of this round. Heath continued to lead until the eighth lap, when he was delayed by trouble with his tire. Clement was driving his machine at terrific speed, and as it passed the stand there was a flash of a big hulk, a whizzing of wheels and a rush of wind, and the Frenchman with his machine was out

At the 150 mile pointer, the end of the fifth round, the standing was: Heath, first; Gabriel, second; Clement, third; Lyttle, fourth; Teste, fifth. Heath's average speed in the first half was 63 miles an hour. Heath, after the delay, finished his eighth lap and entered on the ninth at terrific speed. Olement, who started later than Heath, was now three minutes in the lead, official time. The excitement in the grand stand began to increase. Clement had only a lead of 1 minute and 4 seconds entering on the last lap, according to the official announcement. Heath had gained a minute on him, but it did not seem that he would wipe out the two minutes remaining.

On the two men came to the finish line, the crowds cheering and yelling, throwing hats into the air, and waving handkerchiefs, coats and caneson came the ponderous machines, puffing, chugging and snorting like juggernauts-there was slience in the crowd, the machines whizzed and then one flashed across the line-it was Heath, followed one minute and 28 seconds later by Olement-and America's first big race for automobiles had been run.

The official lapsed time for the en ire course of three hundred miles is: Heath, 5 hours, 26 minutes, 45 seconds; Clement, 5 hours, 28 minutes, 13 sec-

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION. Committee on Change of Name of Church Discharged-The Divorce Question.

Next Place of Meeting.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The greetings of the Anglican Church in Canada were ransmitted to the Episcopal General Convention at a brief session to-day by Right Rev. Charles Hamilton, pishop of Ottawa; Right Rev. James Carmichael, bishop coadjutor of Mon-treal, and Dean Evans, also of Mon-

Bishop Hamilton thought that the United States might well adopt some of the mothods of dealing with divorce which were in vogue in his country, where the courts which sever marriage had little to do. The House of Deputies considered a proposal to permit the election of sufragan bishops in large dioceses or in localities where there are large numbers of colored people or persons of foreign extraction. The matter was referred to a committee. The House of Bishops concurred with the other house in discharging

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 8.-In s head-end collision to-night at 10:30 o'clock between the Sunset Limited and the New Orleans Limited, near China, on the LaFayette division of the Southern Pacific, five persons were seriously injured, two of them being of the train crew.

- At Lumberton on Thursday, the Robeson county Republican convention nominated the following ticket: Senate, W. J. Currie; House, W. K. Culbreth, W. H. Kinlaw; Sheriff, J. W. Hall; Register of Deeds, K. Atkinson; Coroner, W.H. Barnes; Surveyor, D. P. McNelll; Treasurer, Thomas Hedgpeth; Commissioners, W. S. Johnson, N. T. Andrews, F. L. McCormick, I. E. Tyner, K. Barnes, says the Lumberton Argus. The persennel of the convention was good, and the crowd decently large. The old time Republicans were in evidence, but the element that came by way of the Populist route formed the larger element, and it is clear that there is the nucleus of a good minority party

- Charlotte News: The Union-Republican, the leading avowedly Republican paper in the State, is printing this low canard, in large type, underscored: "I think that a dollar a day is enough for any man, provided that his work is steady. Any man can live on that, and that is all that unskilled labor is worth. am sorry that I have to pay more than that, and wonldn't if we had a better supply of labor hereabouts." Of course Judge Parker never said any such thing. The Union-Republican must know that he never said any such thing. It hasn't sense to come in out of the rain if It does not know it.

[Original.] You want to hear how Fort N. was saved from massacre by Indians, do you? Well, I can tell you since I was

Fort N. was a blockhouse, a store and a few dwellings. The Apaches came down so suddenly that we had no time to prepare. We divided between the blockhouse and the store. There were several thousand dollars' worth of goods, including provisions, in the store besides ammunition, which it wasn't advisable to let the Indians have. The building stood about 200 yards from the blockhouse, and a path had been worn between the two. I was in the blockhouse with the eight men and the women and children. There were seven men in the store. This comprised all the people in the place. The division of force was all right, but the division of ammunition was all wrong. That in the fort had been suffered to run low. There was plenty in the store, but no time to move it. You see, a man came galloping in to give warning, and ten minutes later down came the Indians. It was about noon when the attack began, and by 4 o'clock there wasn't a pound of powder left to us in the blockhouse. We had kept up our spirits till we learned of the deficiency, several of the women doing good service at the loopholes and altogether making it so hot for the red devils that they didn't dare make a rush across the open. But when the ammunition gave out we were seized with a sudden fright. I'll admit that my mind got on the butchery of the women and children that was sure to come, and I couldn't get it off. There was but one thing to dosome one must make a run for the store and a run back with ammunition. Of course there wasn't one chance in ter of his getting through either way, but he might make the out trip even if he had to drag himself in with bullet holes in him and tell them what we needed Signal? Great Scott! Don't you suppose the Indians would understand signal? And when they did that would be the end of us. Well, we had two brothers in the place, the Gordons. They kept the store. Jim Gordon was with us in the blockhouse with the Gordon women and children, and John was at the store. John was the husband and father. Jim was a bachelor. John intrusted Jim with his family while he looked ofter the property. Jim Gordon was a perfect deer at running and had practiced a sigzag motion on pur pose to dodge Indians and their fire. He volunteered to try a run for the store. He started just at dark, when a mist was rising from the ground. There was a rainfall of lead poured at him, but he had made half the distance before he fell. The darkness came on, and we knew for certain the Indians would steal up and get poor Jim.

During the night we were at the mercy of the redskins if they had only n it. I made up my mind to try skulk through to the store, for we felt sure the attack would be renewed at daylight. Soon after midnight I crawled out and got over some twenty yards when I saw the dark forms of Indians keeping watch between the two wings of our little army. I crept to the left to circumvent them and had made a considerable distance when down in a depression in the ground a party of them suddenly lighted a fire, and near by, bound to a tree, I saw poor Jim Gordon. He wasn't dead, but was as white as a corpse. The Indians blocked the way I was going, so I turned, but found them everywhere, and finally, coming to a clump of thick bushes, I lay concealed. There wasn't much chance of my getting through, and I confess the sight of Jim Gordon rather took the starch out of me. I lay hidden till daylight, and the Indians then began to make preparations for a rush. It was plain they were going to attack the blockhouse, possibly because they had divined from Jim Gordon's attempt that the garrison was in need of something. Just as they were about to start a figure came from the store and walked very slowly toward the Indians, who were mostly located near the tree to which Jim Gordon was secured. One or two shots were fired at the figure without apparent effect. The chief then stopped any more shooting. Perhaps he thought a messenger was coming to bring a surrender. I was wondering at the slow, ghostiike movement of the advancing figure when I noticed a commotion among the Indians. Several of them ran and looked at Jim Gordon, then ran back to stare at the figure, which could now see was white as ashes in the face. Then one after another the Indians started back, apparently terror stricken, and by the time the spectral figure had come near enough for me to distinguish who it was nearly all of them had fled. You may be sure I wondered what it was that made them get away so fast. An Indian isn't such a fool as to be duped simply by a man playing ghost. When I saw that the figure was John Gordon it was all explained. I told you that John and Jim Gordon were twins, didn't 1? No? Only brothers? Well, they were twins, sure enough, and could scarcely be told apart. The Indians concluded that John was the ghost or double of Jim, and as they are fearfully superstitious they didn't dare raise a rifle against the counter-

Jim was unbound and eventually recovered. It turned out that when John saw his brother trying to reach the store he surmised what it was for. Knowing the superstition of the Indians, he resolved as a forlorn hope to personate his brother's ghost. He took a big chance and saved his family and EMERY STONE TORBUT.

- "Do you consider noise injurious to health," asked the seeker after information. "Indubitably," replied the old-fashioned doctor. 'I have always thought that if Jim

Two Boys Probably Patally Injured Near Meding, Tennessee.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. MEMPHIS. TENN., Oct. 8.-A special to the Commercial Appeal from Medina, Tenn., says that by the premature explosion of gunpowder late this afternoon at that place, Herman Walker, the 17-year-old son of Rev. E. T. Walker, had one side of his face torn off and received other injuries which will result fatally. Jerry Sewell had his leg broken and may die. The explo-sion shook several houses severely, breaking window panes.

Two Lamp Explosions.

The explosion of two lamps in quick succession in different parts of the city gave the Fire Department "something doing" for a while early last night. At 6:47 an alarm came in from box 31. A lamp exploded in the store of Owen Hall, colored, and a damage of about $25 had resulted before the flames were extinguished. Hall had no insurance. At 7:10 P. M. an alarm from box 61 hurriedly called the department from the first fire to the residence of Mr. W. F. Penny, No. 710 Orange street, where a lamp had exploded in the kitchen. The damage was only trifling.
