WILMINGTON. A. S. JUNE 94

LOOKING FOR P.17. Is it almost over-the terrible night? Is the morning breaking, servere and white May we lift up our faces with one accord. Secured from his smithing, and thank the Lord? Since no peam rise out as for vietory web, Since his will had decreed that this thing should be done. That for wrongs like ours, blood, blood must 100-

Awad by his presence, and clothed anew. With hearts that justice and truth pierce through. Lest we break, we bend, we are penitent too !

For our impious daring what fell price paid, The lost graves where our dear-dead are haid, Benten for ever from search and from sight By the ject of the hosts that swept on in the fight; our hosoms left torn by the awful fear And our bosoms left torn by the awfut tear That they oried for aid when no aid was near, Whenever the Lord seemed not to hear? So is the price of slave tears and blood Lapped by Sout: eru sands, in his sight made good?

Then might not his bared arm be withstood ?

Soldiers return not with trumpet's loud glee, Proclaiming you victors, though victors you be-Come as we walk from the tombs of our kin, Grave to observance, and saddened within. But that nations may know how a foul wrong

BE MINTER

To the Citizons of North Carolinal The termination of a sanguinary contest, which for the past four years has presented an impassa-ble barrier to all social or commercial intercourse between the two great sections of our country, having at length happily cleared away all obsta-cles to a renewal of those relations which former-ly bound us together in a fraternal union. I take the earliest opportunity afforded me by this aus-nisions event, to great my southern friends, and to solicit from them a renewal of that extensive business connection which for a quarter of a cen-tury has been uninterrupted save by the great unitie callentity to which I have adverted. It is scarcely necessary, on the threshold of a business connection which for a quarter of a cen-tury has been uninterrupted save by the great unitie callentity to which I have adverted.
