TROUBLE WITH CANADA.

A BIG STORM BREWING ON THE MAINE BORDER.

Hancock's Corps Ordered to the Front.

Cause of the Difficulty.

United States Authorities Refuse to Return British Deserters,

[From the Hartford Courant, Nov. 13.] We hear, through a semi-official source, last evening, that trouble was brewing on the Canada border, arising from the desertion of British soldiers. Our informant stated that a lieutenant the wharf formerly used by steamer North Caroli- in her majesty's army crossed with a company na, running to Fayetteville. [From the Toronto Freeman, Nov. 9.] We confess to more apprehension of disturbance from the government of the United States than from the fenians. There may be some trouble from that quarter, and, should it arise. the fenians, as a matter of course, and very naturally, would be utilized. The claims which have been made from Washington upon the imperial government, for compensation for losses bama, during the progress of the late war, may lead to difficulty. It is to be hoped the matter will be amicably adjusted. Should it unfortunately happen that serious complications will arise, and that they must be referred to the arbitrament of the sword, then indeed we may have sufficient cause for apprehension. THE KILLING OF LANE.

Examination Yesterday.

Affair.

MeIlheny held in Bonds of Five Thousand Dollars,

The examination of the case of John C. Mc-Ilheny, charged with the shooting and killing of Wm. Lane, at Storer's barroom, Market street, on Wednesday, took place before Jno. J. Conoley, to such a contingency than be occupying our Esq., special magistrate, at the court house, yesterday afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock and consuming the remainder of the day.

Messrs. Robert Strange and Hardie appeared W N Reid, New York D C Mcunlay, Mt Gilead Phillip L Andrews, Ran for the defence.

Witnesses for the state were introduced.

WILLIAM WATTERS TESTIFES.

About half past four or five o'clock witness and John C. McIlheny went to Storer's bar room to get oysters; we saw as we went to the stand a man whose name was unknown to me eating oysters; McIlheny and him got into a conversation; gave no attention to it until McIlheny said to him, "go away and let me alone;" he said so two or three times; McIlheny was between witness and Lane; then walked around between them and said to him, "my measures must be quickly taken to provide friend is lame; if you have anything rough to say to him say it to me." Lane then desisted for a time, and they separated. Mcliheny said to witness, "I am done with him—am satisfied, and will have Edwin Ross, Piermont nothing more to do with him, if he will let me T Baldwin, N Y T A Sheppard, Wilmington alone." Witness then resumed his place at the stand and commenced eating; thought they both did the BS Gunn, Brunswick same; about a minute elapsed and Lane came up cently wrecked on Frying-pan shoals. Among and said something to McIlheny; don't know what it was, the tone of voice was rough; McIlhenny said to him, "I told you to let me alone." and then asked him what he said; don't know Nichols and nine others took to the first mate's boat, and, after four days' peril, during which they were obliged to open the veins of some of the week of the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards McIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards mcIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards mcIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards mcIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards mcIlheny was insulting or not, as it was in an undertone; don't know the first mate's whether language towards mcIlheny was insulting to material to mate female. The owner and his family, and the cap-tain, took to another boat, and have not yet and to see if he could not do something with him; he said he could not, but that he could call the barkeeper; persons present were witness, one of the barkeepers, McIlheny and Lane; McIlheny then said to him, "I told you to let me alone, you son-of-a-bitch." Lane then grappled with and caught him by the collar or throat; they were standing close together; as Lane seized him they both moved off some little; witness turned around to separate them; the first shot was then fired by McIlheny; just as witness succeeded in separating them McIlheny fired a second shot and fell to the floor, Lane going towards the door; Mell-heny had the only pistol seen; Lane's language was profane; only language abusive heard was that of McIlheny; don't know whether the shot hit Lane or not; did not recognize the body seen at the coroner's inquest as of the man shot by McIlheny; the man Lane was a stranger to me; after the second shot Lane went in the direcmuch the same as that adduced in the Wirz tion of the door, and with McIlheny witness started home; passing out the door noticed the man sitting down, or on his knees; went but a short distance when McIlheny was arrested by a policeman. The policeman made no charge against him, only said, "I arrest you," when McIlheny re-plied: "All right." The offiaer then put his hand in McIlheny's pocket as if in search of the pistol, when he remarked to him that it was in the other CROSS-EXAMINED BY COUNSEL.

The oyster stand was about eight or ten feet ong; Lane was on the right hand end of the stand, near a partition separating the front from a rear room; witness was on the opposite side; McIlneny was next to Lane; they were standing close together; think Lane addressed him first; after McIlheny told him to stop I separated them; don't recollect what was said; Lane's manner was angry; never saw him before; don't know his character; he was a stout, able-bodied man; McIlheny is helpless; his right side is paralyzed; he would have been as helpless as an infant in Lane's hands.

A. R. STORER TESTIFIES. Keep a bar at No. 10 Market street; last night between five and six o'clock was lying down in my back room; heard a loud conversation in the barroom and got up to see what was the trouble; Schr Ocean Bell, Capt Emory, for New York, by Wm | when I come out saw Lane at one end of the oyster stands, and McIlheny and Mr. Watters at the other; Lane and McIlheny were in loud conversation; said witness, "steady, gentlemen, you are not aware how loud you are talking," and at the same time walked toward them; McIlheny was addressing Lane-"What did you say, sir ?" "Lane says: "I treat you and every other man as a gentleman;" witness put his hand on Lane and told him to stop his noise and eat his oysters; Lane addressed McIlheny and said, "I am just as good as any d-n McIlheny in this town, and I can whip any d-n McIlheny or any d-n man in this bar," and at the moment commenced drawing his in my house; he slipped his coat on, and McIlheny (regulars) have been ordered to report for duty says, "What did you say, you damned son of a at San Antonio. bitch? what do you want, any how?" am positive that Lane then grappled him by the throat; saw only Corbett, Mcliheny, Watters, Lane and the negro boy; caught each by the shoulder and said to them, "Gentlemen, I can have no quarrelling in my honse;" had hardly said so when the pistol was fired; my eye at that time caught the pistol in McIlheny's hand; Lane still held him by the throat; heard the second report of a pistol; think the first shot struck Lane about the pit of the stomach; know Lane; have seen his body since death; they were still scuffling when I heard the pistol snap and McIlheny falling; think Watters, in separating them, threw McIlheny down; stepped up to McIlheny and said, "Johnny, don't shoot again;" Watters said same thing; he replied, "I won't, if he will let me alone;" am not positive when the pistol snapped whether McIlheny was CROSS-EXAMINED. When the pistol was fired the first time they were about an arm's length from the stand; at the second shot they were nearer the door; did not examine the shot in the counter; it was near the extreme end nearest the door of the counter, and in an oblique direction; McIlheny was nearest the door; Lane was under the influence of liquor somewhat; could not say about McIlheny; saw Lane take three drinks very near together.

The Defence.

MAYOR JOHN DAWSON TESTIFIES. Am acquainted with Lane; he was very troublesome and quarrelsome when drinking; officially speaking he has been in the guard house several times; he was disposed to fight when under the influence of liquor,

CROSS-EXAMINED BY JUSTICE.

WM. N. PEDEN TESTIFIES. Not personally acquained with Lane's character; heard that when in liquor he was quarrelsome. CROSS-EXAMINED BY JUSTICE. The general character of McIlheny is that of a good citizen; he is a young man, and may have been in scrapes at times.

The evidence concluding the counsel reviewed the case, when the justice required a bond of the prisoner in the sum of five thousand dollars to answer to the charge of manslaughter, at the next term of the court authorized to try the case.

THE GREAT NATIONAL CURIOSITY .- A young lady, born without arms, and who knits, crochets, braids hair, embroiders, writes and uses the scissors, knife, fork, tumbler, &c., besides combing her own hair, using only her feet, and rendering her one of the greatest of living curiosities, is to hold a levee to-day, between the hours of ten A. M. and nine P. M. The public can'rest assured that she is everything that she claims.

THEATRE.—Miss Ida Vernon's first appearance drew a large audience at the theatre last night, and among them the largest number of ladies seen there since her last visit. The cast is very good, the principal characters being well reprenflicted upon American commerce by the Ala- The Evidence Relating to the sented. Miss Vernon has improved greatly. ing the Hon. Edward McPherson, Clerk of the house of representatives, and conversing with him on the subject of the rights of persons claiming seats in the house of representatives from the rebellious states. He does not hesitate for one moment to assert that the path of his duty is simple and clear; that he not only has not the right nor the desire to enroll persons claiming seats from the rebellious states, but that a law of congress exists positively prohibiting him from entering such names. Mr. McPherson assisted in making the law referred to, and thinks that it is as just in its application to him in his relations with the next house as it was to Mr. Emerson Etheridge and his action in the last house.

We have the positive assurance from Mr. Mc-Pherson himself, therefore, that he will not enter upon the roll of the house, and call the names of, the representatives of the late rebellious states, but will leave them to present their credentials to the house of representatives, the proper tribunal to receive and pass upon matters of such grave importance, espe-great crisis like the present.
