LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

ANOTHER BABY DESERTED .- Early yesterday morning a negro baby, supposed to be about two months old, was found in the yard of R. A. Risley, near the crossing of the railroad. It was cared for by the family unlil it could be delivered into proper hands, which seemed to be as hard to find as a rich man is said to be in paradise. Every one that was visited and spoken to about the child disclaimed any charge over it, and it was thought, at one time quite probable that the little negro would be without pale of humanized society. Lieutenat Drinker, of the freedmen's bureau finally consented to have it taken care of, but even then he did not recognize it as coming under his duties, but merely as an act of charity, to keep the child alive. There should be some place about a city of this size for such little unfortunates, be they white or black. They are not responsible for their being here and as they are human, and we professing christians. we should certainly take care that they do not die right under our noses for want of care and attention. True, in this case it is a little negro, but in the next it may be a white child. This is not the only case we are likely to have this winter of this character, unless there is some movement made to take charge of the poor, both white and black. There is already great destitution reported among the poorer classes. Was with trains on the South Carolina Railroad daily there not sufficient money made during the late war by some one or more persons to endow an orphans home in the city? It was a mans' charitable act, so related, that enabled him to get an unlooked for seat in heaven.

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 14. The last patients have been sent away from the Hampton hospitals. All such as require further pitals, and the rest report to their regiments or other assigned places to be mustered out of service. And this is the winding up of these memorable hospitals, where, during the four years of war, more wounded and sick soldiers were treated than at any other army field hospitals. Soon ANTONIO CANOGVAS DEL CASTILLO, Minister the buildings and everything pertaining to them will be sold, and the only visible memento of their past uses, and the memorable niche these hospitals must fill in history, will be the triangular spot of ground where those who have died here lie buried-a long enclosure of mounds and head boards that in long years to come widows and I would turn to account the valor of the orphans will visit and bedew with their tears, while all will revere the memories and deeds of the patriotic and honored dead who lie here. The steamer A. Winants, Captain A. J. Bleodgood, that has been to New York for alteration and repairs, has returned here again for government use. While off Hog Island she met the Blackbird, having the Victor in tow, and passed the Thomas Collyer off Ship Shoals. The Eolus, running to Eastern Shore and Yorktown has gone to Baltimore for repairs. The
