The public generally are invited to call early and examine for themselves. ber I deems it proper to allude to a few of the peculiar advantages aimed at by the Superintendent of Common Schools while making efforts to have this work com-1. The encouragement of a feeling of self-dependence, and the enlistment of popular sentiment in behalf of the State and its institutions. It was not thought important, how-ever, to have more than one number of the Reader of merely a local interest.

2. To remedy the evil everywhere complained of in common schools, of a perpetual change in text books; an expensive habit, and one which injures the Schools by preventing the children from being classified. A series of home Readers, it was supposed, would be certainly used, and this great evil thus avoided. 3. Economy, the popular system of Readers being too long and being made so often merely to add to the profits
