THE BURIAL OF MOSES. [The annexed lines are supposed to have been written by a distinguished clergyman of this city Whether they have before appeared in print, we

And He buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-Peor; but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.—Deuteronomy, 34, 6 By Nebo's lonely mountain, On this side Jordan's wave,

In a vale in the land of Moab, There lies a lonely grave. And no man dug that sepulchre, And no man saw it e'er; For the angels of God upturned the sod.

And laid the dead man there.

That was the grandest funeral That ever passed on earth; But no man heard the trampling, Or saw the train go forth. Noiselessly as the daylight Comes, when the night is done,

And the crimson streak, on ocean's cheek, Grows into the great sun. Noiselessly as the spring time Her crown of verdure weaves And o'er the trees and on the hills. Opens their thousand leaves;

o, without sound of music, Or voice of them that wept, Silently down from the mountain's crown The great procession swept. Perchance the bald old eagle, On gray Beth-Peor's height,

Out of his rocky cyrie
Looked on the wondrous sight.
Perchance the lion stalking,
Still shuns that hallowed spot, For beast and bird have seen and heard That which man knoweth not. But when the warrior dieth, His comrades in the war, With arms reversed and muffled drum,

They show the banners taken. They tell his battles won, And after him lead his masterless steed. Amid the noblest of the land Men lay the sage to rest, And give the bard an honored place, With costly marble drest, In the great minster transept,

Where lights like glories fall,

And the sweet choir sings, and the organ rings Along the emblazon'd wall. This was the bravest warrior That ever buckled sword; This the most gifted poet That ever breathed a word; co silt el And never earth's philosopher Traced with his golden pen.
()n the deathless page, truths half as sage.

And had he not high honor? The hill-side for his pall. To lie in state, while angels wait. With stars for tapers tall: and the dark rock-pines, like tossing plumes, Over his bier to wave. And God's own hand in that lonely land

As he wrote down for men.

To lay him in the grave.

In that deep grave, without a name. Whence his uncoffined clay Shall break again,—most wondrous thought Before the Judgment Day.
And stand, with glory wrapped around, On the hills he never trod, And speak of the strife that won our life With the Incarnate Son of God.

O lonely tomb in Moab's land, O dark Beth-Peor's hill. Speak to these curious hearts of ours, And teach them to be still! God hath his mysteries of grace. He hides them deep, like the secret sleep Of him He loved so well.
