The Largest Carriage Factory in the South!

A. A. McKETHAN

DESPERATELY informs his friends and the public, that he has built up large substantial Brick Buildings at his Old Stand, expressly for manufacturing Carriages. Thankful for the very liberal patronage he has received for the last 21 years, he hopes by strict attention to business, with a desire to give satisfaction, to merit a continuance of the same. He warrants his work to be made of the best material and by experienced workmen in each branch of the business. His work will compare favorably with any made in the United States, and that he was compelled to defend ourselves from the invader. It can not be denied, although it is resisted by no one in this section, that the breach between the North and the South is daily becoming wider. Our duty, then as men, true to our interests, is to give up ourselves for the contest and be prepared for all eventualities. That it is the duty of every one to do what-ever lies in his power to avert this awful disaster, is cheerfully recognized by all classes.

In conducting the COURIER, whatever emergency I may possess will be directed towards the prosperity of the Union and equality of the States, and in maintaining those political principles which have been tested and proven to be the only mode by which the affairs of our country can be properly managed.

Although the particular tenets of the Democratic party will be argued, I will concede to political opponents the prerogative which I claim for myself, and will endeavor to do my duty without giving offence to any one.

The COURIER although a political paper will not be so far misled by politics as to neglect those things which should claim the attention of a public journal. I will endeavor to give the latest Telegraphic and other news, market reports &c., and to keep my readers advised of everything of interest, which transpires from time to time.

The Daily paper will be printed every morning, (Sundays excepted) on new and handsome type, and will contain twenty-four Columns of reading matter. Price per annum $6.00 in advance.

The Weekly Paper will be issued every Saturday Morning at $2.00 per annum in advance. Advertisements will be inserted upon reasonable terms.
