WE refer our readers to the advertisement of Messrs, CHURCH & DUPONT, No. 409 Broadway. New York. The 'Blood Food,' is one of the greatest medicines of the age, and is rapidly driving out of the market all the quack nostrums of modern times. Its efficacy is so great, and its superiority so justly acknowledged, that it is found difficult to supply the immense and increasing demand for the article. Dr. Eaton's celebrated 'Infantile Cordial,' is a medicine prepared by a regular physician of eminence in his profession, and who has devoted his life to the peculiar phases of Infantile diseases. It is no humbug, but a medicine which commends itself to those only who can appreciate it."-Apalachicola, Flor. Times. See advertisement.

EARTHQUAKES. There are actual records at hand, with date and particulars, of two hundred and thirty-four earthquakes that have taken place in the British Islands within the last eight and a half centuries; and of these two hundred and thirty-four no less than one hundred and ten (nearly one half) have been felt during the present century-during the life time, therefore, of an important part of the existing population. The apparent increase is in periodical publications stating the news of the day; but as the whole number recorded in the century ending in 1800 is only sixty-three against one hundred and ten from 1800 to 1850, we feel a earthquakes, and turn to see how our neighbors fare, we shall have little comfort beyond that of finding that we are no worse off than they. In the Scandinavian peninsula and Iceland the numbers are rather higher, but not much; 111 have been recorded in those countries as felt during the last century, and 113 in the first half of the present. In Spain and Portugal 93 in the eighteenth, against eighty-five in the nineteenth; in France, Belgium, and Holland together, the figures are 308 and 292, while in the basin of the Rhine and Switzerland no less than 557 earthquakes are recorded since the beginning of the ninth century, of which 52 took place in the sixteenth, 120 in the seventeenth, 141 in the eighteenth, and no less than 173 in the first half of troubled with disturbances of this kind, owing to the large amount of volcanic action constantly taking place there, but excluding these countries, where indeed upwards of 800 earthquakes have on taken place within the last fifty years, we find a total of 2,156 earthquakes recorded as felt at various places in Western Europe since the beginning of the Christian era, of which 773 belong to

Out of 5,879 earthquakes that have occurred in the Northern Hemisphere, and of which the exact dates are recorded, as many as 3.158 took place in the cold months between the 1st of October and 31st of March; only 2,721 being felt between the 1st of April and 30th of September. The largest number (627) occurred in January, and

Thus, if we take all Europe together, we find 1,153 recorded in the cold, and only 857 in the warm months. If we take the countries separately, the British Islands list shows 94 in the gives the numbers 438; France, Belgium, and Hol-

There is another curious result obtained on comparing the number of earthquakes in different seasons. During the two months that inclose the four critical periods of the year, called by astronomers, the equinoxes and the solstices, earthquakes seem more likely to happen than during the intermediate months. Thus, in December and January, in the winter solstice, number is 177; in March and April, the vernal or spring equi-The National Series of Geographies.
