HE Sixth Annual Fair of the Robeson County Agricultural Society, will be held at RED SPRINGS, on nesday, Thursday and Friday, the 21st, 22d and days of November next. The friends of Agricultu provement, in whatever branch of industry they be engaged, whether their scale of operations be e or small, are again called upon and earnestly so-ed to co-operate with the officers of this Society in moting the success of our approaching Fair. Agritural Societies have aided very powerfully in the despendence of the Agricultural, Mechanical and general gressive interests of our country, and should be only sustained by all patriots and lovers of improvemulming effort for improvement in the results of hus-ndry; and it cannot be questioned that much good has esulted from the encouragement thus afforded by State and County associations; for aside from the mere pecuiary value of prizes, a spirit of active emulation has bereby been awakened; and they have been the means ringing into notice the results of improved culture, eby leading others to adopt the methods by which the specimens of produce and stock have been obtained. great improvement manifest in the appearance oductiveness of our farms, since the organization sate and County associations, must satisfy every quital observer that they exert a powerful influence a good and that our Fairs are something more than eresions for amusement and to gratify sight-seeing

Why the Shoe Pinches .- A pamphlet has lately appeared of peculiar interest to that vast mul-tomy. By Hermann Meyer, M. D., Professor of Anatomy in the University of Zurich. Translated from the German by John Stirling Craig. Edinburgh: Edmonston and Douglas." Dr. Meyer, the author, is pronounced one of the highest continental authorities on Physiological Anatomy, who has published an important general text on that science, as well as several treatises on the structure of the foot and knee. In the discussion now under consideration he has already been preceded by Peter Camper, who, in the last century, wrote a paper "On the best Shoe," and who zealously but ineffectually urged that the foot gear of man was quite as important a topic as the shoeing of horses, to which so much attention is given. Certainly the needless sufferings which men and women endure from badly cut and ill-shaped shoes cry aloud for a reform.

Against the prevailing pattern Professor Meyer, in his capacity of anatomist, utters an earnest protest. The cut of a shoe, says the Professor, is not, as the cut of a coat, a matter of indifference. "When Fashion prescribes an arbitrary torm of shoe, she goes," he asserts, "far beyond her province, and, in reality, arrogates to herself the right of determining the shape of the foot."

In his opinion the shoemaker ought not only to produce a shoe that does not pinch, but a shoe so constructed that it will give to a foot distorted by the pinching it has borne already, fair chance of a return to its right shape, and full possession of its power as a means of carrying the body onor boot, the first thing to be considered is the place of the great toe. Upon this toe, in walking, the weight of the whole body turns at every step; in the natural foot, therefore, it is in a straight line with the heel. A central straight line drawn from the point of the great toe to the middle of its root, if continued, would pass very exactly to the middle of the heel. By the misfitting boot commonly worn the point of the toe is pressed inwards, the root outwards.

The practice adopted by many of having a last made of the exact size and model of the foot is condemned by Professor Meyer, if the foot has peen previously injured in consequence of wearing ill-fitting boots or shoes. If a cast be made of a distorted foot and a boot fitted to that, it is bad, because thereby the distortion is confirmed. It would be much better, therefore, says the Professor, so to form the boot that the conditions of healthy walking are allowed for, and the bones, at least to some extent, can gradually right themselves. To a foot shortened by distortion he would fit a shoe adapted to its healthy size. But of a pair of boots made so as to content the eye of an anatomist, who knows what work is done by every bone, the main characteristic is, that when they stand side by side, with their heels in contact, the inner margins of the front part of the soles are along the whole edge corresponding to the sides of the great toes, also in contact. If it he decirable to point the toes they m pointed only from the outer side, after the place of greatest breadth in the foot has been properly respected. A certain sense of a turn inward belongs to the shape of boots so made, but if they Fayetteville or Wilmington will be filled and sent out fit perfectly they will ensure to the foot the utmost ease and power; as their shape is of the ordinance of nature they are no doubt really as elegant as those of which the pattern is a bootmaker's invention. Dr. Meyer says that two or three persons in Zurich have had their boots made on these principles without exciting special remark—so immediately is the propriety of the change admitted even by the arbiters of fashion. As an evidence of its utility, a London journal mentions the fact that marching soldiers, who often break down in consequence of their shoes, would be rendered vastly more efficient if they were made in accordance with the structure of their feet .- N. 700 velvet mantles, 200 bonnets, and upwards of 100 pair of shoes, with innumerable kerchiefs and scarfs, of all colors of the rainbow, which had been purchased by the deceased lady within ten years of her demise. Hon. Edward G. Palmer, of South Carolina, in a letter to the Southern Guardian, advocates the imperative necessity of a dual Executive, and thinks that the first triumph of the Republican party, should that occur, would be an auspicious moment to make this conservative demand; also, that its refusal should be the signal of a disruption of the Union. The Coolie Trade.-Statistics of the coolie trade with Cuba show that up to the 18th of December, 1859, there had been 42,501 Chinese coolies landed at the different island ports. Between that date and the 12th of August last, 5,-569 additional coolies were landed out of a total

How they make Almanacs .- The weather, on Tuesday last, was fine, for the first time in many weeks. It is said that we owe this one sunshiny day to the valet de chambre of M. Babinet, the illustrious astronomer and Parisian Meriam. On Sunday afternoon, the learned old gentleman was in his sanctum, arranging the weather for the coming week. His servant stood behind his ing back his spectacles, in some surprise.

"Because," replied the servant, "Tuesday is my day out, sir; and I have given you no offence like the rest of them! I believed in your tide of last March, and I smoked a piece of glass, to look at your eclipse, in July!"

"So you did, Louis," said the old gentleman, approvingly; "so you did!—Tuesday is your day out, is it? Well, there."—and scratching out

'heavy rains',-he inserted "clear and cloudless."

This accounts for the sunshine on Tuesday last. Paris Cor. N. Y. Express.
