FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., AUGUST 1, 1861.

Dec'r 8, 1860.

DEAR SIR: Permit me to call your attention to the EAGLE HOTEL. I have it re-painted; all the rooms for the Semi-Weekly Observer $3 00 if paid in are neatly carpeted, and the Hotel is in better order than any other House in the mountains of North Carolina. I am also better supplied with good and attentive servants than any Hotel in this part of the State. I would say to the first class visitors that I am prepared to entertain you, in a style superior to any house advance; $2.50 if paid during the year of subscription. Having had several years experience in the business, I flatter myself that I can make your stay at the EAGLE, both pleasant and agreeable.

In connection with this large Hotel, I have a number may desire at the Eagle to make them comfortable.

This Hotel has superior advantages over any other house in Asheville, as the Stage Office is kept here for all the Stages that arrive at and depart from this place. I would say to families that intend visiting our beautiful town, and expect to remain several weeks, it will be well for them to write and engage rooms, as the Cape Fear Bank. the paper be sent to such subscribers for a longer time of July. As regards charges, I will make them sufficiently moderate to suit the present times. Hoping to have the pleasure of seeing you at the Noble Conduct of Citizens of Richmond .-The following is an extract of a letter from a member of the "Garde de Lafayette," dated Norfolk, Va., July 10, which we find published in the Mobile (Ala.) Tribune. We are glad to find that the efforts of our citizens to contribute to the comfort of our brave volunteers from our sister States, meets with so much approval:

"I dined with the sheriff of Richmond last Monday. His name is Herry K. Ellyson. What is worthy of all praise by our people is that he takes our sick to his own dwelling, and gives them every attention. His kind lady does everything in her power to promote the comfort of the sick soldier. The rooms that our sick occupy are furnished with elegance. He has had seven at one time to attend to in his house, and kind Dr. Albert Snead is giving his own services free."

Noble Ladies.-The ladies of Petersburg, on Saturday last, dispatched seven large boxes, filled with needful contributions, to the soldiers at Yorktown. They had previously made generous responses to appeals from Portsmouth, Culpeper Court-House, and other places.

Miss Ann Thompson, a native of North Carolina, died in Marshall county, Miss., recently at the age of 105 years, 8 months and 21 days.

"A Story of Abe Lincoln." - We heard a good story some time ago, concerning "Abe Linkum," which we do not remember to have seen in print. As goes report, Abe is very fond of the grape, in a liquid form, and to such an extent that he frequently navigates, in returning to his domicil, as though he was laying a plan for one of our zigzag tences. His wife, like all good wives, never attends the celebration of the Feasts of Bacchus, neither does she admire his two faithful followers; and never admits her liege lord to her bosom when he has been too active a participator in the feasts. It so happened that one night he had been out to a political meeting, and was returning at a very late hour. He approached the door and knocked. His wife came to the door and said: "I know you, Mr. Lincoln-be off-how often have I told you not to come home when you are drunk?" No, wife, I'm not drunk." "But you are, Mr. Lincoln; be off." "Wife, I'm not drunk; but have got some of the most glorious news to tell you.' "Well, what is it," said Mrs. Lincoln. "Why, I've been nominated for the highest office on earth-tor President of the United States!" "Be off, be off, be off," said Mrs. Lincoln, "I know you're drunk now."

An Infamous Plea. - The bully braggart Jas. Watson Webb, characterizes himself sufficiently in the following plea:

Marine Court, New York, July 5th, before Judge Alker,

S. to the Court of Brazil, and, therefore, could not be sued under the Constitution, except in a U. S. Court. The detendant produced his parchment, duly signed and countersigned by President Lincoln, and Secretary Seward, and the Court, after due denoteration, herd that the piece was sufficient, and that the action could not be maintained in a State Court. For plaintaiff, Miller, Peet & Nichol; for defendant, Evarts, Southmayd & Choate.

The N. Y. Tribune rebukes Gen. Scott for sending his "kind regards" to Lee and Beauregard, and says: If General Scott cannot conquer his feeling of affection for these great scoundrels, at least in deference to the feelings of the people, who, on this point, cannot have the slightest feeling of sympathy with him, should he not restrain their expression? It may seem harsh and uncalled for, but we deem it proper to so express our detestation of traitors and of treason, as to frankly avow our hope that the Provost Marshal of General McDowell's army may find it to be his earliest duty to hang both Lee and Beauregard in full sight of our

Had a Conversation with Him .- A letter from Harper's Ferry to a Mississippi paper relates the following:

Occasionally a merry burst of laughter is heard as some ridiculous incident is related. "See here, boys," said one of the men the other day. "I had a conversation with General Johnston just now." "The devil you did! what did he say to you?" inquired a dozen voices. "Why, he told me if I didn't get out of that garden, and let alone those onious, he'd have me tied up behind a wagon."

The Society of Friends .- No association have ever shown themselves to be more consistent in their conduct, than have the Friends or Quakers in the present political troubles. A prominent distinctive feature in their doctrine, is opposition to war. In point of intelligence, they are not inferior to any class of citizens in our country, as they are almost universally a reading people, and close observers of the current history of the day. As a means of preventing war, they were all Union men, until all hope of a peaceful preservation of the Union had vanished;

when they, with great unanimity, took ground for a peaceful separation between the North and the South, as the only means to avoid the shedding

A Touching Letter .- The New Orleans Crescent publishes the last letter written by the lamented Dreux to his lovely young wife. We copy the concluding paragraph, which, in view of the circumstances of the writer's early death,

can hardly be read with unmoistened eyes:
