Edgecombe and Wilson-W. S. We learn that the response has already been general and earnest to this call. Before these subscriptions are closed, it is believed that the aggregate will swell to from fifty to one hundred millions of dollars. We trust the planters and farmers of North Carolina will not be behind those of other States in responding to this call .- Raleigh Standard.

INO. 1057.]

A Fair Sample of Southern Spirit .- A letter recently received from Washington informs us that among the prisoners taken by the Hessians at the battle of Manassas, was a "lad only fifteen years of age." Of course, the presence of such a stripling prisoner excited much curiosity, and he was subjected to many interrogatories. Among others who undertook to question the little fellow was Gen. Mansfield, who probably thought that one so young and inexperienced might be induced to make important revelations. The cnly answer, however, he could get from our "bold soger New Hanover—R. H. Cowan, Robert Strange.

Northampton—D. A. Barnes, J. M. Moody.

Onslow—G. W. Ward.

New Hanover, ne could get from our "bold soger boy" was: "We whipped you, and we will do it again!" The dear, brave boy!

A lady, who saw him the first day after he got to Washington, asked him if he did not run away from his parents? "No, indeed," was his reply, "they sent me, and they would have sent a dozen more if they had had them!"-Rich. Enquirec.

Prisone's .- The Cincinnati Tim she will nit encourages the idea that heareafter the Yankie soldiers shall shoot all the prisoners they may secure as soon as taken. This is Fremont's plan. It so happens that we take about five times as many prisoners as the Yankees, and it this game is to be played, there is no difficulty in understanding which side will suffer most from it. We have over two thousand prisoners in this city to begin with!

Where are the Union Men? - A. Lincoln, LL. D., is exceedingly anxious to find the Union men of the South. We can tell him where some of them were or are. From Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and other States, where, up to the necessity of secession, there were respectable minorities either in opposition, or advocating delay, these minorities have sent a very large proportion of volunteers to Virginia. The ablest, most carnest, and candid, and honest, and eloquent, and influential of the lingering friends and hopeful advocates of union in Georgia, was Francis S. Bartow. He carried with him to Virginia many political friends who had indulged the Union faith to the latest moment. Let Manassas answer where the survivors of such Union men will be found. In our own State, more a unit on secession than any other, the only dissent or hesitation would have been found in the Congressional District of the Northwest, lately represented in the United States Congress by John D. Ashmore. Several districts of this Congressional District have furnished relatively more men for the field than any portion of the State, and all have done nobly and above their average for population.

Charleston Courier The Mobile Advertiser says: Lincoln has proclaimed the observance of the last Thursday in September as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer. The battle of Manassas has brought them to their knees. The South fasted and prayed before the battle-the North after. "The White Feather Party." - Such is the appellation given by the war-faction at the North to those who advocate peace in that region. It appears from the N. Y. Tribune that this "White Feather Party" is rapidly on the increase in the Northern States. In the number now before us, there are notices of some six or seven meetings of this party in different parts of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and two elaborate editorials devoted to the illustration of their diabolical Having on hand, or furnishing to order, every article designs. We are told the peace newspapers are requisite for a Printing Office, "masked hatteries" and that their aiders and "masked batteries," and that their aiders and abettors-the "White Feather Party"-are traitors of the deepest dye, and should be by the most summary process, exterminated from the face of the earth. In Connecticut, it is stated, "prudential committees are being formed throughout the State to detect and punish the traitors,' and a similar expedient is recommended for all the other States. This implies that the traitors
