EAGLE HOTEL, ASHEVILLE, N. C., APRIL, 1861.

DEAR SIR: Permit me to call your attention to the EAGLE HOTEL. I have it re-painted; all the rooms are neatly carpeted, and the Hotel is in better order than any other House in the mountains of North Carolina. I am also better supplied with good and attentive servants than any Hotel in this part of the State. I would say to the first class visitors that I am prepared to entertain you, in a style superior to any house in Asheville. Having had several years experience in ticles of War for the Government of the Confederate the business, I flatter myself that I can make your stay at the EAGLE, both pleasant and agreeable. In connection with this large Hotel, I have a number

HACKS, CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, AND SADDLE HORSES, That my guests can get at a minute's notice. I will keep a Carriage in readiness for persons that may be desirous of taking morning or evening rides. I assure the travelling public that they will find everything they may desire at the Eagle to make them comfortable. This Hotel has superior advantages over any other house in Asheville, as the Stage Office is kept here for all the Stages that arrive at and depart from this place. tiful town, and expect to remain several weeks, it will he well for them to write and engage rooms, as the Eagle is generally pretty much crowded by the middle of July. As regards charges, I will make them sufficiently moderate to suit the present times.

Hoping to have the pleasure of seeing you at the Eagle, I am yours respectfully,

J. M. BLAIR, Proprietor.

THE DISCHARGED PRISONERS. Our readers are aware that fifty-seven Yankee prisoners were lately released through humane motives, and sent to Newport News under a flag of truce. The care and attention with which these wounded men were treated was a subject of Granville-A. W. Venable, T. L. Hargrove, general remark, and their manner and conversation indicated nothing but gratitude. Had they been sworn allies of the Confederacy, there could not have been more apparent sincerity in their professions of eternal friendship. But in all this the deceitfulness of the "universal Yankee" was illustrated, and, as might have been expected, they unfolded an array of unmitigated falsehoods on their arrival North. We reprint this morning, from a Baltimore paper, the report made by these unprincipled men, which, if it were not a sad commentary upon the depravity of human nature, would be a most amusing recital. They will be entensively lionized throughout the Lincolnite domain, and all their powers of invention will be taxed in the relation of fictition tales of "Southern barbarity." The following is their statement:-All the wounded who reached here, agree in the statement that they were treated more like caged beasts than human beings, and the first salutation in the morning, as well as the sentinel's ery at night, was "Death to the --- Yankees." The only kindness they received was from the surgeons of the Confederate army, who, in connection with their own surgeons, already named, were daily in attendance. The hospital or jail in which they were confined, was a three-story tobaceco warehouse, measuring about 40 by 120 feet. In the second story were confined seventysix commissioned officers, and in the room above, five hundred non-commissioned officers and privates. The windows were all iron-barred, and the guards very strict and severe upon the prisoners.

Mention has already been made of the shooting by the guard of a Federal prisoner, and the following are the facts of the case: The deceased was corporal Wm. C. Burke, of the Seventy-ninth New York regiment, and he was shot whilst shaking his blanket from his prison window, as was required of the prisoners as soon as they arose from sleep. The guard, a young Mississippian, called to him to stand back, and the order was complied with, when he was pierced in the breast by a musket ball. He reeled, fell to the ground, and expired without uttering a single word. He was buried the same day, and the guard acquitted. He afterwards stated that he had determined to kill a Yankee, and was therefore satisfied.

The rations were regularly served to them, such as they were, consisting of salt bacon, a loat of bread, and water twice a day. The commissioned officers were served with water three times per day, but none of the prisoners ever received tea or coffee, nor were they supplied with mattresses, bedding, or blankets of any kind, excepting those which they succeeded in purchasing. That the wounded were greatly neglected in this respect, is evident from their condition at the present time. Those who are left behind-and they are nearly five hundred in number-will suffer severely from cold if they are not provided with such necessaries. The most intelligent of the prisoners, from whom these facts were obtained, declared that many falsehoods have been pub-All of North Carolina manufacture. Just received; for lished in relation to Hon. Mr. Ely, of New York. Instead of being dejected and sad, he was decided ly the merriest man amongst them, and was active not only in comforting the wounded and cheering the hopeless but foremost in such amusements as the prison discipline allowed. One day he received a remittance of $50 from his friends, and he spent the whole sum in the purchase of provisions for the party. On one occasion, when the roll was called, one of the men was asleep, when the sentry rushed up and dealt him a violent blow upon the head with the butt of his musket. The main cause of Colonel Corcoran's removal South was his resentment upon all occasions of insults offered him or his companions. One Sunday a minister, whilst preaching, departed from his subject and denounced the North, which elicited repeated remarks from the Colonel, who, soon as the discourse was over, was heavily ironed, and a few days after sent South. One of the prisoners declares that a remittance of $50, sent him by his mother, was seized by those who had charge of the prison. Tea Culture .- We observe, says the Savannah Republican, the papers are again agitating the subject, and showing from experiments that good tea can be grown in North Carolina and elsewhere. There is no doubt of it. Our climate is well adapted to the growth of the plant, but the difficulty -as is also proved by experience-lies just here: WANTED 25 men for the 5th Regiment N. C. State Troops, Army of Manassas. Each recruit will be paid a bounty of $15 as soon as mustered into Service, will have cost you enough to pay for about six pounds of the article imported from China. Where labor is worth from sixty cents to a dollar per day, we cannot cope successfully with labor at three cents per day. Let us give up the tea humbug, and go to something that will pay.

Loneliness of Great Cities .- The vaster the crowd, the more solitary the individual, the more lonely the heart. "No one," says a recent writer, "is known in London; it is the realm of the incognito and the anonymous. It is not a place, but a region or a State. There is no such thing sonal knowledge there is none; neighborhood good repute, bad fame, there are none. No house knows the next door. How is a man to show what he is, when he is but a grain of sand out of a mass, without relations to others, without a are hereby notified that their business was discon- place, without history, without distinctiveness? Crowds pour along the streets; and although each has his character written on high, they are one and all the same to men below."

This is true, though of course in a less degree, with every great city, especially to the young York, statements for settlements will be rendered by and unfriended stranger. All at once he passes from the midst of a friendly neighborhoodwhere every one knows another, where the eye of every one is his brother, and where the slightest incident of weal or woe affecting any of its members is the theme of interested conversation around each cottage hearth—to an almost absolute solitude. In fact in those vast wildernesses of streets and lanes and noisome courts and alleys, of which the lower parts of our great cities consist, where the worst vices of social life are generated to the utmost, society, in the true sense of the word, can scarcely be said to exist. There are few or no ties of mutual knowledge, common interest, and friendly neighborhood, such as bind the inhabitants of a country side or of a small town together, and which make a parish not a district merely, but a living organized society. North British Review.
