CAPT. WILKES'S REPORT ON THE DEEP RIVER MINERAL REGION. THE undersigned have caused to be published from it again, and so he does perhaps twenty times in the Congressional plates, an edition of the Report succession. But each firing gives a shock to the of Capt. Wilkes, U. S. Navy, and his Associates on the charge in the left hand barrel, and at last the Board appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to examine the Deep River Region of North Carolina. This

Correspondence of the Charleston Courier. CENTREVILLE, Nov. 10, 1861. Sitting in a rainy tent last evening I overheard the following fragment of a conversation between a party of Irish soldiers, which for richness and raciness Charles Lever would have immortalized Granville -A. W. Venable, T. L. Hargrove, himself by trescoing in one of his inimitable stories. The company were detailing their experiences, "hair breadth escapes by flood and field," Guilford-Juo. A. Gilmer, Ralph Gorrell, R | spinning Munchausian yarns and cracking wonderful jokes, when one Pat Mullooney, a genuine son of the sod, broke in with an account of his adventures during the battle of Bull Run. I give you the ebullition entire-verbatim et literatim et spelleratim, though half its fun and force are lost by its transfer to paper.

"Ye see, gintlemin," said Pat, (God forgive me for calling such spalpeens out uv yer names,) that time whin the ould Major came down like a flyin divil on his chistnut mare wid his illigan; sword, that be jabers is like a scythe blade, a wavin about his hid, and yelled to us to come on and charge the bloody Yankees; be gorra it was to Washington we thought we were goin all the way, and the divil a time we were to stop at all at all, on the road, not aven for a dhrap of wather.

Well, sure enough, the ould feller wint in himself, and I afther him, not thinking about anything at all, but jist going on. I jumped over a mite of a fince as tight as a toad, and took to the wather (Bull Run), like a duck, and whin I got to the middle of the strame I looked around, and the divil recave the one of yez near me. I was alone intrety sure. Thin I thought hig fools as ye all are that I was a bigger wan for not sthaying in the woods like the rist of yez, and waiting for the spalpeens to come over. But as I was out there I thought to meself I'll take a look at how things is, how things is beyont, and p'raps I'll have a crack o' me goon. But divii a thing could I say. Jist as I was making up me mind to return to ye all, a big Yankee, who looked as if he was seventeen feet high, livilled his muskit at me and fired. The bullet whistled by me car wid a shrake worse than TIM FLANEGAN'S fife. Bad luck to ye, ye thate o' the wurrld, says I; what are ye thrying to shoot me fur; sure I niver done nothing to yez, and then I aimed sthraight betwane his eyes, and fired at him, but the matheria ball didn't tuch a hair ov his head that I mist. Begorra, sez I to meself, now I'll take ye a pris'ner, anyhow, and I put meself across the river as hard as iver I could. I joemped up the bank, an lookin mighty feerce at 'im, I sed, "Sur-rendther, ye divil, or I'll blow yer brains out.' The fun ov it was, I'd forgot in me charge upon the spaineen to load me gun at all at all, and the bloody thate must ov knew it, for he made at me wid his bay'net, like a two legged locomotive. By the powers, but I was frightened. As he was coming down, laping siveral fate at a time, says I to meself, "Pat, me boy, mind yer eye. Now's yer time to kape wide awake, or you'll have a gimlet hole through yer valuable bow'lls, and Biddy Mullooney will be a widder." But bad luck to This Institution, situated in a region remarkably the drillin, sure its moself forgot how to come to healthful, and remote from the seat of war, has been in the charge. So I tuk me goon by the middle just as ye wad hould a good old fashioned black thorn shillaly, and balanced meself fur in. As he come down, the divil take me if I knew how to git that bay'net pint out o' the way. I twirled me musket aroun me hed till me fingers ached, but suddenly, bliss all the Howly Saints fur it, a root tuk the fut ov the bloody minded rascal, an THE Spring Session of the present term will open on he wint a sprawling on the turf lookin as pretty a room. The location is healthful and retired. The same time that his bay'net sthruck a fut in the thorough. With superior advantages for intellectual and moral culture, and very moderate charges, we continue the continue that the divil a word did he spake. I thought I had his throte too tight, an I let him go to give him a fair chance to utther his sintiments. What d'ye think the spalpane thryed to Board $50; (Lights extra;) Tuition in regular course $20; Music on the Piano or Guitar $20; use of instrument $2 50; Painting in Oil $20; Drawing $5 to $10; French $10; Ancient Languages $5.

T. M. JONES, Pres't. and broke his jaw. Then he became quiet, an I made him take his musket and cross the crake, when I drew him to the hospital and the divil of a dacenter better behaved feller ye niver saw after that. He laid in bed six wakes and didn't spake nary word. That's what I did at Bull Run. Who'll give me a poteen ov whiskey?"

A Candidate for Fort Lafayette .- The Brook. lyn (N. Y.) City News has the following very spicy

Some wonderful things have been done during the war, but the amartest thing yet was the battie of Piketown, Ky. The Confederate force consisted of 740 men, 615 infantry and 125 cavalry. Of these the Federal troops killed 400 and took 2,700 priseners! What became of the balance we are unable to learn. We hope they are yet living to repent of their treason. The success of lying.

A. E. Han,

Inamely: why the left barrel of a gun bursts so much more frequently than the right? The explanation is this: The sportsman on going out leads both bornel. loads both barrels, and on seeing a bird rise, fires naturally the right barrel; he reloads that barrel, and when he again sees a bird or a hare he fires succession. But each firing gives a shock to the nmine the Deep River Region of North Carolina.
